REGULARS WIN IN DEMOCRATIC JOB SKIRMISH

Resolution on Successor to Rover Will Go to President.

BAR GROUP DEFEATS SECRET BALLOT PLAN

Rump Session Threatened at Fight to Pick Candidate for Prosecutor.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Antiorganization Democrats and their Republican friends last night lost another round in the unlimited battle royal over local patronage.

The battle came at a meeting of the District of Columbia Bar Association which was held in the Hotel Mayflower, and the upshot was that the association adopted a resolution proposed by Daniel S. Ring, a young but fighting Democratic attorney. The resolution simply said that a Washington lawyer who knew what the District attorney's job was all about should be named. Copies of the resolution are to be sent to President Roosevelt and Attorney General Homer Cummings.

The Ring resolution was adopted by a viva-voce vote over one which had been proposed by Henry I. Quinn, a Republican. Mr. Quinn's resolution proposed that the association should take a secret ballot to name its candidate for the job which now is held by Leo A. Rover, whom the association praised for the manner in which he has conducted his difficult post, but whose term expired some time since.

Victory for Democrats.

The Ring resolution was accepted without need of a record vote, but the interesting thing about the meeting was that its adoption was a victory for the organization Democrats of the city. Several of the leaders of the association had planned to put it on record as favoring the appointment of one or two individuals.

The movement was led by the old guard leaders of the association, but both Republican and Democratic younger members refused to subscribe to the proposal, as did several of the older heads. The Democrats were prepared to argue that the movement was led by such Republicans as W. W. Millan, president of the association, and such other Republicans as George C. Gertman, who was said to be the manager of the campaign of one of the candidates, Rush Holland, who was the patronage judge under former Attorney General Harry Daugherty, Millard Kenyon, John Lewis Smith and other Republicans.

There had been a drive to bring the association to indorse Lucien Vandoren as its favorite for the post. "t

First Lady to Budget Time to Find Privacy

Will Set Apart Hour to Receive and Two for Ignoring Phone.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—After three weeks in the White House Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has decided she will have to do something about budgeting her time, she said today on her arrival in New York for her second visit since inauguration day.

She is going to have one hour a day, she said, set aside for receiving. And there will be two hours when neither she nor her secretary will answer the telephone.

She reached her decision partly because yesterday there were so many visitors and so much telephoning that she had no time for the horseback ride that she wants to take every day.

"I don't know just what hours I'll set aside," she said "but I'll have to do something.

"Every day there are visitors who just come for a few minutes. I like to see them, as many of them as want to come, but I think the thing for me to do will be to set aside one hour each day when I'll just see people and not try to do anything else.

"And I'll simply have to do something about the telephone. We're getting away behind with the mail because whenever I try to dictate

Mrs. Roosevelt Forced To Muzzle Fighting Dog

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—From now on, if "Major," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's police dog, wants to accompany her on her daily horseback rides through Rock Creek Park, Washington, he'll have to wear a muzzle.

"I've taken him with me twice," she said today. "Both times he got into dog fights.

"The second one was the worst. It was with a chow. I apologized most profusely to the woman who owned the chow, and fortunately she was very nice about it."

ECONOMICAL RELIEF FOR FARMS SOUGHT

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

President Roosevelt is hopeful that the Administration's plan for refinancing farm mortgages at lower interest rates may be realized without increasing the national debt, and without any considerable charge against the Federal budget.

Whatever new bond issues may be required under the agricultural financing measure, which is to be presented to Congress next week, will be floated as self-sustaining and self-liquidating commercial issues, if plans now under consideration at the White House are finally worked out in detail.

The bonds would mature in 30 to 40 years.

The central problem yet to be settled by the President and his fiscal advisers, it was said yesterday at the White House, has to do with the interest rate on the new issues. Mr. Roosevelt seeks a rate low enough to afford genuine relief to the debt-burdened farmers, but high enough to maintain the bonds near their par value in the open market. He is confident that a practical decision on this point can be worked out during the next few days.

Meanwhile, no decision can be reached as to how much of the new bonds would be required to handle the present situation in farm mortgages. In general, the plan will seek to liquify frozen assets of banks, insurance companies, regional farm credit organizations and similar institutions. But there is no way of telling, until the plan is in operation, what percentage of the now outstanding $9,500,000,000 in farm mortgages are in permanent default.

In the exploratory discussions at the White House, $2,000,000,000 has been mentioned as a probable figure,

Jobless Man Loses 60 Cents to Thugs

Gospel Mission Resident Is Threatened on Street With Knife.

Jobless 60-year-old William Davis, of the Gospel Mission, was robbed of the last cent he had in the world last night by two men while he was strolling near the intersection of Ninth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Tired and weary, Davis told police that the two thugs pressed the point of a knife against his neck, demanding all his money. They went through his pockets, took 60 cents, and then ran off down the street, Davis said.

Davis, sorrowful over the loss, which to him meant several square meals, told police that he could positively identify the men, and gave their descriptions.

150 ESCAPE AS LINER TURNS OVER IN DOCK

Seattle, March 24 (A.P.).—The American mail liner President Madison suddenly capsized at her mooring at a dock here tonight, turning on her starboard side at a 45-degree angle and slowly filling with water. Three of her crew were believed trapped in the hold.

Company officials said the giant liner keeled over shortly after workmen, who were making repairs, had removed three of the steel plates on the starboard side. Within a short time only a few hawsers with which she was tied to the dock kept the liner from turning completely over.

A hurried check of the crew by steamship officials, firemen said, showed that three were missing.

They were: Jack Rose, 60, engine room storekeeper, and Carl Ekberg, 40, a junior engineer, both of whom were reported to have been in the engine room, and John Hanson, a watchman.

As the liner listed at its moorings, near the Todd dry dock at Harbor Island, close to 150 persons aboard clambered over its tilting side to safety on the dock. The waters rushed in through the hole in the side, filling the hold and flooding the engine room.

Immediately on learning of the vessel's plight, small craft along the waterfront sent up a din of shrieking whistles. The fireboat Duwamish and a half dozen tugs raced to the scene.

Within a short time, while the tremendous pull on the hempen hawsers was expected to snap them, city firemen climbed through portholes on the slowly settling ship and hurriedly explored the unflooded sections for the missing men.

Post Story Lands Hungry Man Home

South Lyon Park Woman Provides Work for Jobless German.

Stirred at the plight of August Heckler, gray-haired native of Germany, as it was printed in The Post Friday, scores of persons communicated with the editorial offices yesterday to offer the destitute man a home and employment.

After scanning the many proposals, Mr. Heckler, deeply grateful, accepted the offer of Mrs. J. C. Cribbs, 829 Virginia avenue, South Lyon Park, Va. Mrs. Cribbs, after reading The Post story, called the Salvation Army, where Heckler was taken by a reporter.

The elderly man was found in a downtown restaurant early Thursday. He collapsed from lack of sleep and told those who came to his aid that he had not closed his eyes in many weeks. He feared arrest and imprisonment for vagrancy.

HULL IS USING NEW APPROACH ON WAR DEBTS

Pushes Trade Recovery as Most Vital With British Envoy.

JUNE 15 PAYMENTS EXPECTED BY U. S.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

War debt conversations between the United States and Great Britain were formally resumed yesterday when British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay held a 45-minute conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The discussions were set in a different key from that which heretofore characterized these Anglo-American conversations.

Secretary Hull unfolded to the British Ambassador a new approach to the entire problem of the intergovernmental debts, which envisages the debts, as merely part, instead of the whole of the problem. The hub of the situation is economic recovery. The war debts, tariffs and tariff quotas, contingency restrictions, reciprocal trade agreements are the facets of the main point at issue.

Out of yesterday's conference came a few definite points which will subsequently form the basis of future conversations along these same lines.

World Economic Recovery.

First, the United States regards world economic recovery as a common problem more important to all the nations than any other; second, the United States will welcome the presence of any nation in these exploratory economic discussions, irrespective of whether that country has paid to date its obligations to the United States or not; third, the United States expects the payment of the forthcoming June 15 annuities, as well from countries like Great Britain, who already acquitted their December 15 payment, as from France, which "deferred" this payment; fourth, the United States will request authority from Congress to enable the President to offer substantial trade advantages to those countries that indicate similar interest in making reciprocal or

HARRIS CONVICTED; FACES DEATH CHAIR

Verdict Found in 4½ Hours; Attorney Is Planning to Seek New Trial.

The Capital's first "big-time" gang slaying reached a sub-climax in court yesterday when Charles Harris, alleged Philadelphia and New York gangster, was convicted for the slaying of Milton W. "Milsie" Henry last April 21.

The verdict, which automatically carries the death penalty, was returned by the jury after four and a half hours of deliberation.

Directly after he learned of his fate, Harris was taken to the death chamber in the District Jail, where eleven other alleged murderers are awaiting electrocution. Harris is the only white man in the group.

Harris was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Julian I. Richards.

In the District Jail, Harris received reporters. "I am a professional victim of the police," he said. He declared that he was arrested in the Middle West on a bank robbery charge and served 9½ years. He claimed he was innocent in that case.

"They hid witnesses on me in this case. I asked to have Mrs. Henry in court and they would not produce her."

"Why did you want her in court?" he was asked.

"To help establish my innocence."

"Do you think she knows who killed her husband?"

"She may have some information that would establish my innocence."

"Do you know who killed Henry?"

"It is fairly well known."

"Well, who did kill him?"

"I don't care to elaborate on the statement."

Asked why he had asked Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue not to commit him to the death chamber, he replied, "Simply because it is contrary to law. Anyway, you don't think it is a pleasant place, do you?"

Arthur N. Sager, of New York, one of the defense attorneys, visited Harris in the jail and announced that

MAN CONFESSES MONEY THREAT ON MRS. LOOSE

Postal Inspectors Trap Wilson Moore, Former Federal Clerk.

NOTES ASKING $1,000 SENT TO HOTEL HERE

Worker Ousted by Bureau After His Prison Record Came to Light.

Kansas City, March 24 (A.P.).—Wilson Moore, 33-year-old former convict and former clerk in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in a statement today confessed an attempted extortion plot against Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Washington and Kansas City society woman.

Trapped by postal inspectors who followed the directions Moore had given his intended victim for the delivery of money, Moore pleaded guilty before a United States commissioner to a charge of sending an extortion letter through the mail.

He was held in default of $15,000 bond for the grand jury. The charge under which he entered his plea, however, was filed in connection with a second extortion attempt directed at Ed Dubinsky, Kansas City theater man.

Served Several Terms.

In a statement attributed to Moore by Cyrus M. Zimmerman, postal inspector, the prisoner said he served several terms in a home for incorrigibles here, a term at the Boonville, Mo., Reformatory, and terms at the Huntsville, Tex., Penitentiary for robbery, and at the Monroe, Wash., Prison for carrying concealed weapons.

Later, the statement said, Moore was a clerk in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington, serving from 1925 to 1932 under the name of Cecil Coles. He said the bureau was informed of his prison record and he was discharged. Resentment at what he considered society's unwillingness to let him earn a living as exemplified by his discharge from the bureau led Moore to decide upon extortion after his recent return to Kansas City, he said.

Moore's statement said he knew of Mrs. Loose's activities and knew she was at the Mayflower Hotel, where she had gone for the inauguration. He wrote her two letters from Kansas City, the last one being forwarded by air mail under date of March 19.

Asked for $1,000.

He said he expected Mrs. Loose to be frightened since he threatened her life and property, told her he knew all about her social standing, and warned her not to tell the police under penalty of death. The letters, which asked $1,000, were signed Edwin Lewis.

In his second letter, yesterday was set as the deadline for payment. Mrs.

Senate Group Approves Medical Liquor Change

(Associated Press.)

The Senate Judiciary Committee yesterday unanimously approved the Copeland bill removing the limitations on the amount of liquor physicians may prescribe. The measure amends the national prohibition act to read as follows: "No more liquor shall be prescribed to any person than is necessary to supply his medicinal needs, and no prescription shall be refilled."

The Attorney General and the Secretary of the Treasury are authorized to regulate the amount of liquor that may be prescribed.

Democrats to Slow Up Legislative Gait

Will Go More Leisurely in Deference to Wishes of New Members.

(United Press.)

House Democratic leaders decided yesterday to abandon the "hurry-up" procedure by which President Roosevelt's measures have been rushed through the House with little opportunity for debate or revision.

Hereafter, the Steering Committee decreed at its first meeting yesterday, the House will proceed more leisurely. The leaders agreed, however, to keep the reins taut to prevent any revolt that would endanger the President's measures. Members of the Steering Committee pledged themselves to put through the Roosevelt program as it is presented. Loosening of discipline was a concession to the 150 new members, many of whom were growing restive because they were denied an opportunity to air their views.

Representative Crosser, Ohio, was chosen chairman of the Steering Committee. Representative Gregory, Kentucky, was selected secretary.

FIGHT TO STOP SALE OF BEER IN CITY FUTILE

Beer Delivery Must Be Held Till Midnight

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ.

Beer parties scheduled to begin at midnight on April 6-7 will have to be postponed a few hours while breweries deliver to retailers, because the Government will allow no beer to leave the brewery until the new law is actually in effect, it was decided yesterday.

Beer may be sent by parcel post, according to another decision yesterday, and coastwise steamships will be allowed to sell the new brew. At the White House it was learned that the Attorney General's ruling on beer advertisements was approved by the President. But no applications for permission to make or sell wine have been received by the commissioner of industrial alcohol.

In some States the law will permit the beverage to be sold at the brewery to the retail trade. Here there will be little waiting, but where it must be first delivered to retailers several hours of waiting will be in order. Trucks may be loaded on the premises if the loading yard is in-

$70,000 GEMS TAKEN FROM HOTEL SUITE

Robbers of American Couple in London Hunted by Scotland Yard.

London, March 24 (U.P.).—Scotland Yard tonight sought clever international thieves for the theft of jewelry valued at $70,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emery, New York social registerites.

Emery, who is a brother-in-law of the Russian Grand Duke Dmitri, told Scotland Yard authorities that the missing jewels included a beautiful rope of 85 matched pearls, which he valued at 11,000 pounds sterling (about $37,000).

Experts from Scotland Yard hurried to the palatial suite in one of Park Lane's most luxurious hotels, where Emery reported the robbery occurred last night.

The operatives said the thief, or thieves, left the room occupied by Mrs. Emory absolutely undisturbed, to all superficial inspections, aside from the removal of the gems.

Traces of fingerprints were found on glass table tops, but so far the authorities had failed to match any of them with any in their records.

Emery said the rope of pearls was the greatest prize in the reported lost loot. Aside from the 85 pearls, he described it as having a diamond clasp, itself very valuable. The pearls weighed 557.2 grains, he said, and were believed one of the finest collections in the world.

Emery said the thieves also took a magnificent diamond emerald and

Evans Will Leave Farm Board Post

President Accepts Resignation of Utahan, Effective April 1.

Frank Evans, member of the Federal Farm Board, announced yesterday that his resignation, effective April 1, had been transmitted to President Roosevelt. The President has accepted it.

Mr. Evans, whose home is at Salt Lake City, Utah, was appointed to the Farm Board on August 8, 1931, and reported for duty on September 1, 1931. He was appointed to complete the unexpired term of C. C. Teague, ended June 15, 1936.

During his year and a half on the board, Mr. Evans, who was not designated to represent a particular agricultural commodity, as was the case with the original members of the Farm Board, has devoted his attention primarily to the fundamental purpose of the agricultural marketing act—the development of a farmer-owned system of cooperative marketing for the handling of various farm products.

Senate's Hearing Ends in Decision For Speed.

AMENDMENTS ARE OFFERED

Tydings States Report Wednesday Will Ask Passage.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Die-hard Washington drys yesterday made their last stand before a Senate District beer subcommittee, but their tenuous arguments, so forcefully effective in 1917, failed hopelessly to turn back the onrushing hoofs of the brewers' big horses.

When the hearing was over and all evidence in, Chairman Millard E. Tydings said the committee will report out a beer bill by Wednesday and seek Senate passage before April 7.

The closing chapter of the Sheppard law's sixteen-year local beer prohibition was begun at a hearing so public that a radio hook-up carried the testimony to the country.

For the most part, it was the sharp, nervous testimony of a cause that is lost, broken by the carefully worded statements of the victors and the pointed, often cutting, cross-questioning of the chairman. Debate was limited and time evenly balanced.

Amendments Suggested.

A score of amendments was put forward. Senator Tydings will take them up with his subcommittee Monday, using the bill which passed the House Thursday as a basis for the revised Senate measure. A "model bill" prepared by the corporation counsel's office, was handed to the chairman.

Appearing for the drys were Andrew W. Wilson; of the Antisaloon League; Dr. Everett M. Ellison, former president of the Citizens' Service League for Law Enforcement; Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, and Mrs. W. H. Wadleigh, of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Testifying for the wets were Charles E. Sands, of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance; Dr. Fred W. Buck, of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, and former Gov. Robert A. Cooper, of South Carolina, representing a local brewery interest.

Humor Marks Hearing.

There were frequent verbal clashes between Senator Tydings and dry witnesses. The chairman, a master at repartee, carried off most of the White House "Jungle Gym" Awaits Sistie's Party Today

Indoor and Outdoor Fun Planned for All at Roosevelt Grandchild's Sixth Birthday Fete; Sliding and Swinging to Be Included.

A new children's playground on the old White House lawn with sun boxes, slide and a queer looking "jungle gym" is already for little granddaughter "Sistie" Dall's sixth birthday party today.

From two historic trees, one a maple at the curve of a driveway, close to the south portico, the other a giant sycamore shading the playground near the fountain, rope swings hang, waiting small passengers.

Rubber tubes encase the swing ropes where they are looped over the tree limbs, protecting the bark. There was some worry about hanging children's swings to White House trees, but the problem was cleverly solved.

The fair-haired "Sistie," who completely won Washington on inauguration day, was scheduled to arrive at the White House last night with her mother, Mrs. Anna Dall, and her 2½-year-old brother, Curtis Roosevelt Dall, nicknamed "Buzzie."

They'll be staying a week or so, through the Easter vacation of the kindergarten school that "Sistie" attends.

Mrs. Roosevelt planned the birthday party for her little namesake, whose real name is Anna Eleanor Dall, but she had to fly to New York before "Sistie's" arrival and will remain there several days. Last night she planned to attend a testimonial dinner for Miss Frances Perkins, the Secretary of Labor.

The birthday party invitations were informally telephoned. Both indoor and outdoor fun was planned, so that the children will have a good time no matter what the weather. Several cartoon movie comedies have been chosen for them.

Mrs. Henry Nesbitt, the housekeeper, famous for her cookies, was busy yesterday making goodies for "Sistie's" little guests.

But the chief attraction is the playground on the sidehill of the knoll overlooking the fountain. Its shiny new orange and green sand boxes are covered with striped canvases to keep out the rain. The varnish is bright on the still unused slide with green ladder and red braces.

The "jungle gym," made for tots to climb upon, has green posts and varnished crossbars.

FEAR OF RUN LINKED IN HARRIMAN DELAY

Awalt Says Examiner Spent 5 Months Trying to Get Affairs in Shape.

(Associated Press.)

F. G. Awalt, Acting Comptroller of the Currency, said yesterday a bank examiner spent five months attempting to straighten out the affairs of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. of New York before alleged irregularities were turned over to the Department of Justice for prosecution.

This delay between the time the examiner discovered the bank's condition and the presentation of the evidence to the prosecuting authorities, and another delay of several months at the Justice Department have been the subject of criticism from Capitol Hill. Last week Joseph W. Harriman, head of the bank, was arrested on a charge of embezzlement, nearly eight months after the examiner first reported to Washington.

Run Was Feared.

Discussing the delay Thursday, Attorney General Cummings said it had been judged necessary apparently because the financial situation existing at the time might have started a run on the bank which would spread to others in New York.

Awalt, explaining the Treasury's point in the affair, said the examiner reported first to the department on July 25, 1932, that the bank's affairs were in bad condition, but he asked time to make it more liquid before any prosecution was begun. Awalt said John W. Pole, the comptroller at that time, had not seen the letter from the examiner, as it was merely one of thousands coming to the office.

Report on December 23.

The examiner was said to have continued his efforts to put the bank's affairs in shape, "hoping to get cooperation from Harriman," until December 23. On that date he presented his formal report and Awalt ordered it sent immediately to the Department of Justice.

On December 30, Awalt said, Henry E. Cooper, new president of the bank, and its vice president talked to Awalt and asked more time to get the bank liquid.

"That's up to the Department of Justice," Awalt said he told them.

They replied they had sought his recommendation to the Justice Department and upon that basis Awalt said he talked to Nugent Dodds, the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the criminal division, and told him he "didn't want him (Dodds) to do anything inconsistent with the aims of justice." Awalt added that he suggested the depositors would profit by holding off prosecution temporarily.

Throughout this period, the Comptroller pointed out, the officials were acting on the premise that grand jury proceedings and accompanying publicity would start a run on the Harriman bank.

Mitchell Not Advised.

Awalt said that with his recommendation the Department of Justice did halt proceedings temporarily, since the statute of limitations was not involved in the case and action could be started at any time.

The Justice Department said yesterday that William D. Mitchell, Attorney General in the Hoover administration, knew nothing of the Harriman case, but that it was all handled by subordinates.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the Senate committee investigating stock market practices, conferred today with United States Attorney George Z. Medalie and announced afterward he expected to determine shortly whether the three months' delay in the prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman came within the scope of the committee's inquiry.

Professor Details Outlook of Hindus

America is used to sending missionaries to India but seldom realizes that the Hindu in his turn looks upon this country as fertile soil for proselytism, Dr. Edward Elliott Richardson, professor of mental and moral philosophy at George Washington University, said yesterday in a talk given at the university.

The professor recently returned to Washington after six months of travel and study which took him around the world. Much of his time in the East was spent in gaining first hand knowledge of Buddhism, Hinduism and Mohammedanism.

The native of India, Dr. Richardson emphasized, makes no distinction between religion and philosophy. In India, he said, philosophy is not an academic subject, but a living thing.

Mine Engineers Meet To Discuss Operation

A general discussion of past and present mining activities in the United States was held last night at a meeting of the District section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at Colonial Court.

Tax Bounces

John Barrymore and Louis B. Mayer Get Refunds From Government.

The "new deal" reached the California movie colony yesterday, and it dealt $40,026 to John Barrymore and $23,362 to Louis B. Mayer as a return of overassessments on their income taxes.

In both cases, according to the Treasury, tax was paid on the family income, and the wife also paid a tax on her income, which was a part of the family earning. The double tax was remitted. A part of Mr. Mayer's overassessment was due to a loss he sustained in certain capital assets.

Barrymore will receive no cash from the deal, and Mr. Mayer will receive only $13,904. The rest of the refund was applied to other tax bills.

MITCHELL INDICTED; TO BE TRIED APRIL 3

Federal Judge Announces Case Will Be Treated Just Like Others.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the board of the National City Bank, was indicted by a Federal grand jury today on a charge of evading income taxes of $573,312.81 for the year 1929.

Within two hours, the wealthy banker was arraigned before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard and entered a plea of not guilty.

When April 3 was fixed as the time for making motions and the day on which the date for the trial will be fixed, United States Attorney George Z. Medalie announced there would be no delay in pressing the case to its conclusion.

At the same time Judge Goddard told Max D. Steuer, Mitchell's counsel, that "this case will be treated just as other cases are treated."

The remark was made when Steuer pleaded for more time in which to prepare the banker's defense.

Neither Mitchell, whose bail of $10,000 was continued, nor Steuer would discuss any phase of the case as they left the courtroom. Steuer had said he was "entirely unfamiliar" with the facts.

Piccard Finishes Tour And Sails for Europe

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Prof. Auguste Piccard, Swiss scientist and stratosphere explorer, sailed for Europe today after a two months' lecture tour in this country.

He said he did not plan another ascent to the stratosphere in the near future, but his associates would make one in July from a locality near Brussels. He said he did not feel his personal participation would be of sufficient scientific value to warrant his accompanying them.

King Carol Studies Spy Charge Against Austrian

Bucharest, Roumania, March 24 (A.P.).—King Carol presided tonight over a meeting of the military council at which he discussed with the war minister, the chief of staff and other officers the details of espionage charges placed against Bruno Seletzki, agent for the Austrian Skoda Munitions Works.

Seletzki was arrested this morning. It was understood that other persons would be arrested shortly.

Ragon Meets Woodin; Sees New Taxes Out

(Associated Press.)

After a lengthy conference with Secretary Woodin, Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, told newspapermen yesterday he believed tax legislation for the present, at least, would be limited to a one-year extension of the Federal gasoline tax and a bill would be brought before the House next week.

Idle Gardener Indicted In Patten Threat Case

Chicago, March 24 (A.P.).—Alex Peterson, unemployed gardener, today was indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of sending threatening letters through the mails to Mrs. James A. Patten, widow of the "wheat king," demanding $50,000. Bond was set at $50,000.

Evanston police, who arrested Peterson, said he confessed authorship of the letters.

Howard to Give Talks Assailing U. S. Congress

Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement, will deliver two addresses tomorrow on the subject "A Conscienceless Congress Crucifies the Constitution."

He will speak at the Waugh M. E. Church, Third and A streets northeast, at 11 a. m., and at the Eldbrooke M. E. Church, Wisconsin avenue at River Road northwest, at 8 p. m.

CHOICE OF DISTRICT PROSECUTOR IS OPEN

had been proposed that the names of three or four others should be presented as acceptable to the Bar Association; but the leaders, predominantly Republican, would quietly inform the President and the Attorney General that one man really was the choice.

Leaders of the fight against the District Democratic organization were prepared to offer a sop to local Democrats by including the names of several Democratic lawyers in their resolution of indorsement. Among those undoubtedly would have been the names of the most prominent men in line for the job. These include Levi David, David Pine and Ralph Cusick.

So spirited did the fight become that there were some threats by the Democratic members of the association that they would hold a rump gathering and repudiate the action of the association if it insisted on naming Mr. Vandoren or anyone else for the post.

EXAMINER IS SLAIN AS HE CLOSES BANK

Financier Admits Shooting as Shortage Is Reported, Police Assert.

Headrick, Okla., March 24 (A.P.).—J. C. Brock, president of the Citizens State Bank, of Headrick, tonight was said by officers to have admitted fatally shooting a State bank examiner today just after the latter had ordered the closing of the institution.

The banker, held in the Jackson County Jail at Altus, was quoted as saying "I thought I had to," in commenting on the killing of W. E. Ernest, the examiner.

Ernest was shot in the head as he turned from a telephone after advising State Bank Commissioner W. J. Barnett, at Oklahoma City, that "I have found Brock short."

The only details of the affair entirely clear were those given by Ernest concerning his conversation by telephone with the examiner. Miss Virginia Doane, stenographer for the banking department, who accompanied the examiner to Headrick from Altus this morning, had just stepped out of the banker's office when the shooting occurred.

"Mr. Ernest had been sitting at a typewriter," Miss Doane said. "He and Mr. Brock had been talking; I won't tell what they said until I have to. They were still talking when I left the bank on an errand for Mr. Brock."

She said when she returned to the office, Ernest was lying on the floor dead. The young woman then ran out of the bank screaming for help.

Ernest, who had been a bank examiner for 18 years, leaves his widow and two children. Brock also has a family.

New Envoys Study World Problems

(Associated Press.)

Two leading members of the ambassadorial corps which will represent the Roosevelt administration in the world's capitals were installed yesterday at the State Department for a week or so of intensive schooling in the problems with which they will have to deal.

Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville, Ky., newspaper publisher and lawyer, paid his first visit to the department since his appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain was confirmed. After conferring with Undersecretary Phillips, he was assigned an office only a few steps from that of the Secretary.

The Kentucky publisher took his oath of office late yesterday in the apartment house study of Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court. The ceremony was informal, with only one State Department official and two newspapermen in attendance.

At the other end of the Secretary's corridor Josephus Daniels, the new Ambassador to Mexico, devoted himself to a study of that country with the aid of Herschel V. Johnson, chief of the Mexican affairs division.

H. L. Roosevelt's Mother Dies at 81

Parent of Assistant Secretary of Navy Marriage Cousin of President.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Nicholas Roosevelt, a fifth cousin by marriage of the President and the mother of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, died today after a long illness. She was 81 years old.

Notified early today of his mother's critical condition, the Assistant Secretary was on the train en route to New York when the end came.

Mrs. Roosevelt died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hoff. Another son, Nicholas Roosevelt, of Philadelphia, was at her bedside. Born in New York City, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Dean, she was married to Nicholas Roosevelt 60 years ago. Mr. Roosevelt died in 1891.

Ambassador's Wife At Amaryllis Show

Members of Congress and School Children Are Also Attracted.

Senora de Cardenas, wife of the Spanish Ambassador, was among the thousands yesterday who admired the twentieth annual Amaryllis Show of the Department of Agriculture.

Since the exhibit opened Monday at the greenhouses at Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue, more than 10,000 persons have visited the galaxy of blossoms. Before it ends next Monday at 9 p. m., it is thought that a new attendance record will be set.

Many members of Congress have been among the visitors. About 5,000 school children are expected to see the more than 10,000 blooms today.

'All Is Yours'

And 8 More Words Will $100,000 Estate to Minnie Keyes.

An estate valued in excess of $100,000 was disposed of by Leonard A. Hamilton in one of the shortest wills on record in the District Supreme Court, it was disclosed yesterday when Attorney Gwynn Gardiner filed a petition for testamentary letters. The will reads:

"Minnie Keyes:

"You have been good to me. All is yours."

The petition disclosed that there was a cash account of $21,836; a first mortgage real estate note valued at $7,500; life insurance policy valued at $500, and real estate assessed at $60,074.

In an earlier will Hamilton named several relatives as beneficiaries. They were not mentioned in the last will, which was written shortly before Hamilton's death March 13. Hamilton lived at 714 Seventh street southwest.

BEER BILL PROVIDES FOR MARYLAND SALE

Assembly Also Gets Measure for Bank Depositors Corporation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 24.—Introduction of the State-wide beer bill, a proposal to establish a Maryland State banking depositors' corporation; final passage of the measure to permit Sunday moving pictures in Allegany County, and a favorable report on the bill to repeal the "Jim Crow" law that requires railroad and steamboat companies operating within the State segregate white and colored passengers, were the high spots in today's sessions of the Maryland General Assembly before adjournment was taken until next Monday night.

The beer bill, an administration measure, which clears the way for sale of the beverage early next month, was presented in the Senate tonight. It provides for two classes of licensed dispensaries—hotels, restaurants and the like, where beer for consumption on the premises would be sold, and for sales in bottles or other containers to be drunk elsewhere. The license fee for the first class would be $50 annually, and for the wholesalers, $25. The bill carries provisions that would permit the several county units to exempt themselves entirely, or to impose a greater license fee.

Effective on Passage.

Other provisions of the bill are: No restriction of any kind on type of store where sales for consumption elsewhere are made. Rigid restriction of the places where the beverage may be sold for use on premises to hotels, bonafide restaurants, "where meals are served and charged for" and incorporated clubs.

Local licensing provisions to do away with the need for any State commission to issue licenses. The revenue from licenses will accrue to the community in which the permits are issued.

The bill becomes effective upon passage, so that beer may be sold when the modification becomes legal nationally.

A three-fifths vote in both Houses of the Legislature is necessary to permit immediate sale under the bill, which is drawn as an emergency measure.

The proposed bank depositors' corporation is designed to take control of bank funds as an insurance to depositors for the return of their money. It would virtually take over the powers of State Bank Commissioner John J. Ghingher, but that official, together with Attorney General William P. Lane, and State Comptroller William S. Gordy, would constitute a board of control.

Passed in Other States.

The bill was fathered by Delegate Robert Benjamin, Baltimore City, who said that other States have passed such a law. Under terms of the bill, all banks would be required to become members of the corporation and purchase some stock, the amount to be in comparison with their assets. By this means the corporation would obtain its own initial capital. The corporation would have power to open branches throughout the State and regulate and prescribe rules for conducting business by banks of the State, and to take over and manage any bank for "such period of time as in its judgment it may deem proper."

The "jim crow" repealer reached the floor of the Senate in a report from the judicial procedings committee, but in view of the controversy it is expected to precipitate, it was made a special order of business for next Tuesday.

The Sunday movie bill for Allegany County, which has previously passed the House, was favorable reported in the Senate, and Senator Beall, of that county, obtained a suspension of rules for its final passage immediately.

Frederick Tax Cut.

The House rejected the bill designed to repeal the law requiring voters to declare their intention of becoming citizens a year before an election, 29 to 74.

The county commissioners of Frederick County would be empowered to reduce the tax levy by 15 per cent, under terms of a bill by that county's delegation in the House.

The salary of the register of wills for Frederick County would be limited to $2,000 instead of the maximum now allowed from fees of the office and all excess fees would be turned into the county treasurer, under a bill by the county delegation.

In view of the Federal Government's proposal to build an experiment station on grounds of the University of Maryland at College Park, for which an appropriation of $350,000 has been made, Delegate Baldwin, Baltimore County, offered a resolution authorizing the governor to cede to the Government approximately 20 acres of ground near the stone monument for the purpose. The proposed station would be under the Bureau of Mines for technical research in industrial chemistry, physics, geology and other sciences.

PLOT IS CONFESSED BY FORMER CLERK

Loose turned the letters over to T. M. Milligan, chief postal inspector, who sent one of them here yesterday.

By the simple experiment of following directions in the letter for delivering the money, officers gave a dummy letter into the hands of Moore, who was at the home of a brother here.

Taken to police headquarters, officers said Moore first made an oral and then a written confession of the attempts both against Mrs. Loose and against the Kansas City theater man.

Mrs. Loose, at her apartment in the Mayflower Hotel, yesterday refused to discuss the alleged plot. She has been confined indoors practically all winter, following an operation last fall.

Civil service and Bureau of Engraving and Printing officials knew little of Moore. Records were looked up last night and nothing could be learned of his activities while in Washington under the name of "Cecil Coles."

Two Military Pilots Die in Tailspin Crash

Miami, Fla., March 24 (A.P.).—Hurled to earth when their plane went into a tailspin at 300 feet, two Army fliers were killed here today.

Lieut. Charles Stouff, 24, of Thorndale, Pa., and Sergt. Gale M. Laster, 30, of Mitchel Field, New York, were the victims. Stouff was the pilot.

WHITE HOUSE BACKS NEW RAIL MEASURE

Bill Would Control Holding Companies and Repeal Recapture Clause.

(Associated Press.)

The impetus of President Roosevelt's support was placed last night behind legislation to regulate railroad holding companies and repeal the recapture clause of the Interstate Commerce act.

This important legislation, indorsed also by the National Transportation Committee formerly headed by the late Calvin Coolidge, was given formal approval by the House Interstate Commerce Committee earlier in the day. The committee chairman, Rayburn, of Texas, sponsored the bills.

White House approval was made known late in the day, together with word that the President and his aids are preparing additional legislation on rail regulation and that he expects to put it before Congress probably late next week.

The measure repealing the recapture clause gives the Interstate Commerce Commission new latitude in making rates, requiring it to take into account the effect of rates on movement of traffic; the public need of lowest cost consistent with adequate service, and "to the need of revenues sufficient to enable the carriers, under honest, economical and efficient management, to provide such service."

The other bill will prevent escape of holding companies from control, placing their regulation under the I. C. C., and requiring commission approval before any single interest may obtain control or management of two or more carriers.

Michigan Child, 8, Dies From Beating

Mother Awaits Sentence for Assault Also on Another, 11.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 24 (A.P.).—Kathleen Britton, 8, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Britton, died in Bronson Hospital late today after remaining unconscious for seven weeks following a beating which fractured her skull and injured her abdominally.

The mother is awaiting sentence on conviction by a jury of assault on her 11-year-old son Sylvester. Cody Calloway, a roomer at the Britton house, is in Jackson Prison serving a term of 9 to 10 years for the same offense.

According to testimony during the trial, both Calloway and the mother whipped Kathleen, but they have denied inflicting the injuries which caused the child's death. Prosecutor Paul M. Tedrow said he would await a verdict by the coroner's jury before deciding on further action against Calloway and the woman.

DRYS IN VAIN STAND TO STOP CITY BEER

honors but some of the witnesses gave him a run for his money. Senator Tydings, a wet of long standing, made no bones about his position on the bill.

There were humorous sidelights.

Albert Stabler, veteran dry, asked that the bill be tabled "for 100 years."

"I don't think we can table the bill, but we can table some of the beer it provides," came back Tydings.

The Maryland senator wanted to know if Gov. Cooper was the South Carolinia executive who engaged in the famous colloquy with the Governor of North Carolina.

"Not the first one," said Cooper.

During the testimony of Dr. Buck it was brought out that beer gardens might be sanctioned under the House bill. Senator Tydings said he thought it would be a good thing, and suggested amending the bill to permit serving customers at tables bordering the sidewalk.

Barbecue Desires Voiced.

An amendment permitting motorists to be served in their cars, providing they are parked on private property, was offered by Roger J. Whiteford, attorney for a local barbecue chain.

Grover W. Ayers asked an amendment prohibiting beer sales by drug stores.

Representatives of the Washington Lodge of Elks sought modification of the provision requiring $15 a year in dues from incorporated clubs licensed to sell beer.

During the early testimony Mrs. Peabody told Senator Tydings that "the District takes the gold medal for lack of prohibition enforcement."

The Army and Navy Club asked the Commissioners for a license to sell beer. The office of Daniel E. Garges, secretary, is being swamped with telephone calls for information as to how to go about applying for a beer license.

Chairman Lindsay Warren of the House Committee on Accounts said last night he will call a meeting of the group when the District beer bill becomes law to determine whether beer shall be sold in the House restaurant.

FOREST WORK PLAN ASSAILED BY GREEN

House and Senate Revision Predicted of Roosevelt Jobless Program.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt's plan to enlist 250,000 men in a "civilian conservation corps" apparently was scheduled last night for extensive revision by Congress after organized labor had denounced it as "smacking of Fascism, Hitlerism, and a form of Sovietism."

Redrafting of the bill was predicted by chairmen of both House and Senate Labor Committees as they concluded joint hearings on it, but there was strong support among members of the two committees for retention of the measure's essential outlines.

Chairman Walsh, of the Senate committee, called a meeting for today to begin "revamping" the bill, a process which he predicted would take several days and delay Senate consideration.

Chairman Connery called a meeting of the House committee for Monday. He said he would submit a substitute proposal, which he outlined at the White House conference Wednesday night, but for which he failed to obtain President Roosevelt's approval. Organizel labor's opposition to the bill was expressed at the joint committee hearing by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He said it provided for "the regimentation of labor in peace times" and would demoralize the Nation's wage levels.

"They regiment labor in Fascist Italy, in Hitler Germany and Soviet Russia," he said, waving his arms for emphasis, "but it seems to me the spirit of America is not in favor of the regimentation of labor here.

"Let us do it in a way that is in accord with the spirit of America. Let labor work, but let it work voluntarily and freely."

In strange contrast to Green's contention the bill constituted "a form of Sovietism," the committees were told by a Communist leader, Herbert Benjamin, that his organization was "unqualifiedly opposed" to the measure.

Benjamin, speaking for the National Committee of Unemployed Councils, said it would "legalize a system of forced labor." He demanded unemployment insurance and cash payment of the bonus.

Shaw Guest of Hearst At San Simeon Retreat

San Francisco, March 24 (A.P.).—Retiring temporarily from the public gaze, George Bernard Shaw, Irish playwright and wit, today became the guest of William Randolph Hearst at San Simeon, 200 miles south of San Francisco.

The dramatist and Mrs. Shaw, accompanied by George Hearst, son of the publisher, flew to San Simeon from this city in a private plane immediately after disembarking from the around-the-world liner Empress of Britain, which brought them to the United States mainland for the first time last night.

McLeod Asks Roosevelt Support of Dry Pardons

Representative McLeod (Republican), Michigan, yesterday asked President Roosevelt to support the McLeod resolution to pardon all violators of the National Prohibition act, on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The Michigan representative wrote the President that there are about 11,999 liquor law violators in Federal prisons, costing the Government millions of dollars in subsistence.

HULL AND LINDSAY RENEW DEBT TALKS

other downward tariff agreements with us.

The American Government has not relinquished its position on the liaison between tariff agreements and debt facilities. The familiar phrase "concurrent with and conditional upon" still circumscribes the conversations upon debts and upon economic problems.

Thus at yesterday's conversations between Sir Ronald and Secretary Hull it became known that the first part of their conversations was confined to the debt problem and the latter part to a discussion on the broader horizon of the economic problems forming the agenda of the world economic conference.

Inclusion of French.

It had been fairly well believed that the United States would interpose no restriction on the presence of the French or indeed of any other nation for that matter at the preliminary conversation on economic problems. When the original invitation was drafted for the first of these economic discussions in Geneva, France was one of the countries invited and a French program for a suggested draft of the agenda was deposited at the office of the secretary general of the League of Nations even before the present proposed world economic conference was discussed.

President Roosevelt is known to favor the inclusion of the French at the economic parleys and so the designs of the United States for the removal of tariff barriers between the United States and France will be begun as soon as the present French ambassador or his successor, M. de la Boulaye has formally opened the subject with Secretary Hull.

Blanket Tariff Powers.

Several interdepartmental conferences have been recently held in the Department of State with the purpose of finding out in precedent the powers most necessary to the President in the distribution of trade agreements with other nations. In the history of the Dingley tariff there has been some arrangement for the President to conclude trade agreements with other nations, notably with France but the category of products has been rigorously restricted.

It remains to be seen whether Congress will relinquish any of its controlling powers to the President about a matter so sensitive as tariff rates, especially if the categories desired for the President are of congressional interest. Naturally it is only in these categories that the President would be in a position to make any reduction sufficiently attractive to foreign countries. So some difficulty is anticipated whenever the blanket tariff powers are requested of Congress by the President.

PER DIEM EMPLOYES MAY SECURE LEAVE

Brennan Opinion Points Out New Economy Statute Changes Status.

The 3,300 per diem employes of the District government may be granted the same cumulative leave benefits as classified statutory employes under the new economy law, in the opinion of Roland M. Brennan, personnel officer for wage scale employes.

In a memorandum to Auditor Daniel J. Donovan yesterday, he pointed out that nullification of a provision of the 1932 economy act, cancelling the leave privilege for per diem employes would make effective again the 1921 act, authorizing the District Commissioners to grant 15 days leave to day workers who had as much as 10 months service.

Unless Comptroller General McCarl touches on the matter in rules, which are expected on the new economy act, a special interpretation will be asked by District officials.

This 15-day leave with pay, if granted, will compensate in a measure for the abolition of the 5-day week and return to a 6-day basis, with a further reduction in weekly wages over the existing scale under the 1932 economy act.

Auditor Donovan yesterday sent to the heads of all departments copies of McCarl's ruling of Thursday on accrued leave for the present fiscal year and pay adjustments for March, if deductions in salary for the first three-fourths of the year exceeded 22½ days' pay. The compensations will be made accordingly by the auditor's office, Maj. Donovan said.

One of Three Oldest Brown Graduates Dies

Providence, R. I., March 24 (A.P.).—Xenophon Demosthenes Tingley, one of the three oldest graduates of Brown University, died at his home here today. He was in his eighty-ninth year and had been a public school teacher from the time of his graduation from Brown in 1868 until his retirement in 1914.

He was a Civil War veteran and as a school teacher held posts in Oakland, Calif., San Francisco and Charlestown, W. Va., as well as in this State.

DELIVERY OF BEER TO AWAIT MIDNIGHT

cluded in the licensed area, but there is no possibility of taking it away from the brewery until after midnight.

Whether residents of dry States could obtain beer through the mails is a question which has not yet been answered, according to Horace J. Donnelly, solicitor of the Postoffice Department. It may be sent through dry States in the mail, however.

Steamships are entirely under Federal jurisdiction, so there will be no bar to the sale of beer aboard them while they are at sea. It may be decided that they can not sell it while in port in dry territory, officials said.

The Attorney General has already ruled that newspapers may publish advertisements for beer if they do not promote illegal sale before April 7. The Postoffice Department now says that such papers may be mailed into dry States in spite of local prohibition laws forbidding the advertising of beer.

There was no formal ruling on whether beer could be shipped by rail through dry States, but enforcement lawyers pointed out that States can not inerfere with interstate commerce.

Nearly all breweries which have been making near-beer have applied for permits to make the real article, but not a single winery has made application, J. M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol said yesterday. The plants now making sacramental wine have the facilities to make the 3.2 wine.

LIBBY HOLMAN SUED OVER MATE'S RICHES

Validity of Her Marriage to Smith Reynolds Is Questioned.

Baltimore, March 24 (A.P.).—A Baltimore court was asked today to determine what share Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway torch singer, and her infant son will have in the fortune built up by the late North Carolina tobacco magnate, R. J. Reynolds, and also the validity of her marriage to the late Smith Reynolds.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court by the Safe Deposit & Trust Co., of Baltimore, trustee of the Reynolds estate, requesting the court to take jurisdiction and construe the wills and deeds involved.

The court was asked not only to settle the case of Libby Holman Reynolds, but it also was asked to make a decision in the case of Smith Reynolds' first wife, Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, from whom he was divorced, and their daughter.

Divorce of First Wife.

Although Smith Reynolds left a will in New York, he was a minor when he died and the North Carolina law does not permit a minor to make a will. The R. J. Reynolds will, under which he was a beneficiary, was filed in North Carolina.

In the papers filed today, attorneys for the Safe Deposit & Trust Co. said, "The validity of the divorce of the said Anne Cannon Reynolds from the said Zachary Smith Reynolds" must be determined.

Estimate of Fortune.

It also asked the court to determine the "validity" of the marriage to Libby Holman Reynolds.

Other members of the Reynolds family were named as defendants in the suit, together with young Smith Reynolds' wives and his children. The total number of defendants was 79.

Attorneys declined to estimate the amount of the Reynolds estate, but it is popularly supposed to total more than $100,000,000. Smith Reynolds' share is supposed to have been approximately $20,000,000.

Man, 67, Leg Fractured, Lies in Creek Half Hour

Slipping on a stone while crossing the ford in Rock Creek Park at the foot of Seventeenth street, George W. McClelland, 67, 2424 California street northwest, yesterday afternoon fell and broke his right leg below his knee.

When found by Park Policeman J. R. Mason, he had lain in the water for about a half-an hour. He was removed to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

CIVIC SERVICE CLUBS' SURPRISE PARTY GUESTS

AMENDMENT VOTED BY CIVIC FEDERATION

Standing Committees to Be Allowed to Initiate Own Studies.

The Federation of Civic Associations, at a meeting in the board room at the District Building last night, amended its constitution to permit standing committees to initiate studies of civic matters and present recommendations to the federation concerning them for action by that body and for referendum to constituent associations. The amendment, offered at a previous meeting by J. C. Payne, is calculated to expedite the handling of committee matters which formerly could be studied only when referred by the federation.

W. H. Lewis, reporting for the education committee, stated that the Toner School for Tubercular Colored Children is filled to capacity, with 60 enrolled, and that a waiting list of 60 additional children exists. Children on this list, he stated, are barred from school attendance, classroom study and medical supervision. A sanitarium now being constructed on the Defense highway, he said, will accommodate only such children as are already in the schools.

The committee recommended that the Board of Education be urged to provide additional temporary facilities, either public or private, for tubercular children pending completion of the new sanitarium. It also recommended a regular checkup on students in school classes who are tubercular and whose condition may become communicable.

Resolutions of condolence with reference to the late Ida G. Richardson, wife of Dr. George H. Richardson, president emeritus of the federation, were adopted. The committee on public health and sanitation was directed to study and report on alley housing conditions throughout the District. The committee on legislation was directed to consider and report on the advisability of entering into or affiliating with a national lobby in interest of the Negro.

Mexico Offers Guard To Elliott Roosevelt

Nogales, Ariz., March 24 (A.P.).—Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, planned to enter Mexico through this border city tonight to spend the week-end with a party of friends at Alamo Rancho, Sonora.

Mexican officials, advised from Tucson of young Roosevelt's visit, said all border restrictions would be eliminated as a courtesy to him. The officials also offered an escort of Mexican troops to him during his stay in Mexico.

Strike Ends

Danville, Ky., March 24 (A.P.).—A short-lived student "strike" at Centre College here came to an abrupt end this afternoon when President Charles J. Turck appeared unexpectedly in the midst of a campus gathering of some 250 male students and issued an ultimatum to the "strikers."

The students had gathered to consider plans for an extension of the "strike," called last night. The meeting was hardly under way when Dr. Turck took the platform and in a brief talk told the students to proceed with the "strike" if they desired, but warned them that penalties for unexcused "cuts" from classes would fall hard.

Students said they would return to their classes tomorrow morning. The student committee was expected to appear before the board of trustees next Tuesday to present a petition and resolutions adopted last night at a student meeting.

The strike was called in protest against the administration's decision to abolish the course in journalism and to dismiss two professors, Dr. Boyd A. Wiee, head of that department, and Dr. J. A. McCurdy, head of the Department of Romance Languages.

Indianola, Iowa, March 24 (A.P.).—Flying eggs and oranges and the firing of blank cartridges today marked an indignation demonstration of Simpson College students against a 50-year-old rule forbidding college dances.

A. V. Proudfoot, president of the college board of trustees, was the target of the eggs and oranges as he finished a chapel talk in which he declared, "It is better to close the doors of the institution than to have the rules violated and abrogated."

Mrs. Mansell Rites Will Be Held Today

Funeral Will Be at Home for Grandmother of Radio Artist.

Funeral services for Mrs. Priscilla Mansell, 97, 2904 Thirteenth street northwest, who died at her home Thursday, will be held from the home at 2:30 p. m. today with the Rev. George F. Dudley, pastor of St. Stephen's and the Incarnation Church, in charge. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Mrs. Mansell was born in London, England, and came to Washington in her youth. She was the widow of T. A. Mansell, and grandmother of Miss Hazel Arth, radio artist who won the Atwater Kent auditions several years ago.

She is survived by four daughters, Miss Ada Mansell, Mrs. J. W. Arth, Mrs. E. R. Noyes and Mrs. Robert Johnsher, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Women Call on Hull; Ask Soviet Relations

A delegation representing a committee of prominent American women in all walks of life called on Secretary of State Hull yesterday and left resolutions urging the immediate recognition of Russia. Similar resolutions were delivered at the White House, by arrangement, for President Roosevelt. To the resolutions were attached the signature of 170 women grouped under the title of "The American Women's Committee for Recognition of Soviet Russia." The list was headed by the names of Jane Addams, Amelia Earhart, Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, and Constance Warren.

The subcommittee received by Secretary Hull included Mrs. Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, of New York; Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, of Duluth, Minn.; Miss Evelyn Dewey, of New York; Mrs. Victor Blakeslee, of Philadelphia.

Halsey Ranking Senate Officer During Recess

(Associated Press.)

Edwin A. Halsey, Senate secretary, who began his career as a page boy in 1897, was "presiding officer" of that legislative branch yesterday with power to receive and refer messages and bills—held only by the Vice President when the Senate is in session.

Both Houses recessed Thursday until Monday, but under an unusual agreement the genial Halsey—who came here from Lynchburg, Va., in the nineties with his uncle, the late Senator John W. Daniel, was entrusted with authority to conduct routine business.

11 CLUBS TAKE PART IN SURPRISE-SUPPER

Jack Mullane Is Master of Ceremonies at Gay Hotel Party.

With the announced purpose of "forgetting their troubles," the membership of 11 Washington clubs turned out in full force last night to attend a surprise supper party of the Federation of Civic Service Clubs in the Mayflower Hotel.

Laughter and gaiety reigned supreme as an elaborate entertainment program unfolded before more than 500 members and guests. Each organization vied for honors in presenting the program, which lasted nearly three hours.

Jack Mullane, popular master of ceremonies, presided and short addresses were heard from Arthur Clarendon Smith, candidate for the District Commissionership; Henry Schaffert, past chairman of the federation, and Steve Brodie, present chairman.

Local entertainers competed with club members on the entertainment program. Janet Coon whistled her way into several encores and Henry Nestor, the singing policeman, captured his share of applause.

State Banks to Get Reserve Board Aid

(Associated Press.)

Resources of the Federal Reserve System yesterday were made available to nonmember State banks for loans during the period of the emergency, following the signing of legislation for that purpose by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt affixed his signature to the bill sponsored by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Representative Steagall, of Alabama, shortly after receiving it from Capitol Hill.

Later, Secretary Woodin told newspapermen that an announcement was in prospect relating to the gold embargo proclamation. It would require another proclamation to lift the embargo placed on gold by President Roosevelt when he declared the banking emergency at the start of his administration.

Florida Executes Man Who Murdered His Wife

Heart Attack Kills Louis Liati.

Ross, Calif., March 24 (A.P.).—Louis Liati, 50, editor of L'Italia, San Francisco Italian language newspaper, died in Ross Hospital today of a heart affliction which seized him Wednesday. His wife and two sons survive.

Giant Meteor Lights Skies And Shakes Houses in Dive

Amarillo, Tex., March 24 (A.P.).—A gigantic meteor lighted the skies with awesome brilliance in five Southwestern States before dawn today and, with a thunderous rumble that rattled doors and windows, apparently disintegrated on its earthward plunge.

Persons in various localities of the north Texas Plains region, the Oklahoma Panhandle, southwestern Kansas, southern Colorado and New Mexico expressed the belief that the meteor or fragments of it had fallen nearby, but no reports had been received tonight of the finding of parts which may have struck the ground.

Two air mail pilots of the Transcontinental & Western Air Line flying near Amarillo and Albuquerque, N. Max., had uncomfortable close-ups of the heavenly visitor.

"I thought it was coming straight for me," said Bill Coyle, who was flying eastbound at 9,500 feet over Adrian, Tex. "We were at the same altitude."

A moment after the dazzling light flooded the sky, however, Coyle caught sight of the meteor's deep red and bluish tinted tail and saw it was going north of him. He described the meteor as "shaped like a ball," with fiery fragments whirling away from it.

"I noticed that an extremely bright, fiery thread extended backward from the main mass before it spread out into the gaseous brilliancy shaded tail, which may have been between 50 and 100 miles long," he said.

"It was impossible to tell whether the meteor gradually disintegrated or struck the ground."

Frank Williams was flying 50 miles west of Albuquerque when the whole sky was suddenly illuminated "as if some one had turned on a great blue electric light," as he described it.

He said an "enormous mass of blue light" without a tail, approached from a high altitude for eight or ten seconds from a distance estimated at 300 miles, and then separated into two clouds—one a very brilliant blue and the other yellow and flame colored. The clouds then seemed to merge and remained in view for about half an hour.

Many persons were awakened by the brilliance and the rumble which caused dwellings to vibrate.

Stratford, Tex., March 24 (A.P.).—A 4-pound metallic mass, which observers here believed to be a fragment of the great meteor, which swept over the Southwest, was found at the edge of a wheat field today by Ed Hart, farmer.

Green wheat and grass about it had burned. The fragment itself was cool at the time of the discovery. It was flat in shape and had not been imbedded in the soil.

JEWISH VETERANS HERE SCORE HITLER

Ask Severance of Relations With Reich Until Regime Is Denounced.

Joining in a Nation-wide protest against the Hitler regime in Germany, the Washington Post of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States organized last night and unanimously indorsed a resolution drafted by the national executive council of the organization calling upon President Roosevelt and Congress "to sever commercial relations with Germany, until that nation gives clear-cut proof that by its conduct it has repudiated the terrorism of Hitlerism and is again functioning as a civilized world power."

The initial meeting of the post was held in the Arlington Hotel under supervision of Samuel W. Silverman, of Jersey City, N. J. The principal addresses were made by Mr. Silverman, who acted as proxy for J. George Fredman, of Jersey City, commander in chief of the national organization of Jewish War Veterans of the United States, and Col. John Korman, of this city.

Was Formed in 1894.

The national organization was formed in 1894 and embraces Jewish veterans of the Civil War, the Indian Wars, Spanish-American War, Boxer uprising, Philippine Insurrection and the World War.

After the anti-Hitler resolution had been read and indorsed, the Jewish War Veterans acclaimed President Roosevelt for the courageous leadership he has displayed in the handling of economic and banking problems, and unanimously indorsed Col. John R. Korman for District Commissioner.

At a protest meeting next Monday night at the Shubert Belasco Theater practically all Christian denominations will join the Jews to protest against the reversion to medieval barbarism in the land once famed for culture, science and art.

Will Ask for Action.

Besides being a protest demonstration, the mass meeting also will have for its object to urge upon this Government in an official way to make known to the Hitler government in Germany strong disapproval of the ruthless methods employed by the Nazis.

The State Department already has shown timely and sympathetic interest in the fate of the Jews of Germany by instructing the American ambassador and all American consuls in Germany to gather information and report to the State Department facts about the mistreatment.

The committee to arrange the meeting consists of Isidore Hershfield, chairman; John Korman, treasurer; Morris Klass, secretary; the Rev. Dr. John A. Ryan, National Catholic Welfare Conference; the Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, of the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church; the Rev. Russell H. Clinchy, of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church; tha Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church; Prof. John H. Gray, former president of the American Economics Association; Charles Edward Russell, author and lecturer; Maurice D. Rosenberg, Joseph Solomon, Irving Goldstein, Benjamin Meiman, Louis E. Spiegler, Mrs. Henry Oxenburg, Rabbi J. T. Loeb, Morris Garfinkle, Joseph Tepper, Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, Joseph A. Wilner, Maurice Bisgyer, Zalmen Henkin, Morris Cafritz, Rabbi Solomon Metz, Rabbi Z. Green, Louis Weinstein and the Rev. Louis Novick.

Los Angeles to Trail 11 Hours on Beer Zero

Los Angeles, March 24 (A.P.).—Somebody discovered today that this, the Nation's fifth city, can not have legal beer until 11 o'clock the morning of April 7, or 11 hours later than the rest of the Pacific Coast.

A city ordinance prohibits the sale of beer between the hours of 9 p. m. and 11 a. m. An initiative petition to give the people a vote on the ordinance June 6, is being circulated.

Roosevelt Auto Gets Special Tag in Georgia

Warm Springs, Ga., March 14 (A.P.).—A special tag, the only one of its kind in the country, was bolted on President Roosevelt's automobile here today and there was no excuse for any speed cop in Georgia taking a second look at it.

At the top of the tag in raised letters is "Georgia," beneath is a big "R" and on the bottom "1933." The absence of customary numerals after the letter distinguishes the tag.

Five-Mile Hole Found in Atlantic.

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Paul Bartsch, scientic director of the Johnson-Smithsonian deep-sea expedition which recently returned from the West Indies, said yesterday the maximum depth found by the expedition was 4,400 fathoms, equivalent to 26,400 feet or five miles.

COBLENTZ INDICTED ON BANKING CHARGE

Frederick Man Accused of Accepting Deposits After Insolvency.

Indictments charging State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick, Md., president of the Central Trust Co. of Maryland, with three offenses against the State banking laws, were returned yesterday by the Montgomery County grand jury at Rockville, Md. The indictments allege he violated the law in accepting deposits in the Poolesville branch of the trust company when he was aware that the bank was insolvent.

The three indictments are based on deposits made in the bank by the Rev. Guy Crook, rector of the Poolesville Episcopal Church; the Rev. William King, pastor of the Poolesville Methodist Episcopal Church, and Benjamin White, a farmer, all of Poolesville, shortly before it closed its doors.

Bench warrants were sworn out for the arrest of the banker, State's Attorney Stedman Prescott announced. Arrangements had been made yesterday to have Coblentz post bond for his appearance with Judge Arthur D. Willard, of Frederick. Judge Willard last night refused to say whether or not the bond had been posted. Trial of the senator on the charges will be postponed until the result of his appeal now pending in the Maryland Court of Appeals from a conviction on a similar charge in Howard County is learned.

Among the witnesses who appeared before the grand jury were Charles Mathias, vice president of the main bank of the trust company; Dr. B. W. Walling, Lewis P. Allnutt and Edward Darby, members of the board of directors of the Poolesville Branch. The Central Trust Co. and its eleven branches throughout Maryland closed September 3, 1931.

Senator Coblentz was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction after his conviction last August on a charge of having accepted a deposit in the Washington Trust Co., Ellicott City branch of the trust company, after he knew the bank to be insolvent. The trial lasted two months. Coblentz is at liberty on bond of $2,500 posted when he appealed the case.

Economic Survey Of Senate to Close

Harrison Believes 95 Witnesses Have Provided Valuable Data.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate Finance Committee yesterday voted to end its economic survey, started at the last session of Congress to obtain authoritative views on means of business recovery, but decided to accept any briefs or statements that might be presented.

Explaining the decision not to pursue the inquiry further, Chairman Harrison said:

"The committee felt it had carried out the mandate of the Senate, having heard 95 persons from every walk of life.

"The hearings were a success in every way, and the committee felt that many of the constructive suggestions made by witnesses were of material assistance to President Roosevelt and the Congress in his constructive program, part of which has already been concluded and the remainder of which we are hopeful can be adopted very shortly."

Filipinos Reduce Freedom Mission

Will Quit Sending Funds to Three of Group in Washington.

Manila, P. I., March 24 (A.P.).—Reinforcing its recall of all but two of the independence mission to Washington, D. C., Philippine legislative leaders today said no further funds would be dispatched to the other three representatives after April 1.

The independence campaign has cost the Philippines approximately $150,000 in 15 months.

Leaders stated all members of the new mission en route to Washington, except Manuel Quezon, president of the insular Senate, are paying their own way or are supported by contributions. This mission will join Senator Sergio Osmena and Representative Manuel Roxas in the American Capital.

3 Kentuckians Depart After Awalt Parleys

(Associated Press.)

Three Kentuckians who have been in Washington the last few days conferring with F. G. Awalt, acting comptroller of the currency, left yesterday without discussing the nature of their business.

They were Maurice Galvin, attorney for the American Turf Association; Seldon Glenn, Kentucky tax commissioner, and former United States Senator Johnson Camden. The comptroller's office would not discuss their visit, in conformity with the usual custom. A. M. Anderson, receiver of the Banco Kentucky, arrived in Washington yesterday.

Calvert Mansion Blaze Does $5,000 Damage

Fire of unknown origin late yesterday damaged the roof, cupola and antique furniture at the old Calvert Mansion in Riverdale, Md., built by descendants of the Lords Baltimore and now occupied by Thomas Pickford. The loss was estimated at about $5,000. The volunteer fire departments of Riverdale, Mount Rainier, College Park, Bladensburg, Brentwood and Riverdale Heights responded to the alarm.

The old home was formerly occupied by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, and the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, of Arkansas. It was damaged by fire of supposedly incendiary origin during Senator Johnson's tenancy.

POTOMAC BANK'S PLAN IS INDORSED

President Offutt Says Nationalization Will Be Rushed to Reality.

Plans to organize Potomac Savings Bank as Potomac National Bank were indorsed "unanimously and enthusiastically" by vote of stockholders of the savings institution meeting yesterday at Alexandria, Va., according to President George W. Offutt, of that institution. Under the plan, Mr. Offutt explained, the new organization takes over the business of the savings bank and becomes liable for the deposits.

Mr. Offutt said the carrying out of the nationalization plan would proceed as soon as the $500,000 stock is fully subscribed and paid. Stock is being subscribed very rapidly, he said. The organization of Potomac National Bank, suggested by the Treasury Department, is now regarded as a community proposition, he emphasized.

He said the Georgetown Business Men's Club had voted to invest funds in the new Potomac National Bank and that the Progressive Business Men's Association of Georgetown, headed by President John Paul Jones, had voted to invest funds in the stock of the proposed institution. No large blocks of stock are being sold, he added. Instead, small blocks are being well distributed.

The meeting, as is the case with the annual stockholders' meetings of the bank, was held in Alexandria for the reason that Potomac Savings Bank, being chartered under Virginia State laws, must maintain legal headquarters in Virginia, even though its banking office is located in the District.

Militia Artillery To Scrap Horses

(Associated Press.)

In line with the motorization scheme of the Regular Army, now more than 50 per cent mechanized, the War Department yesterday authorized National Guard Field Artillery outfits in 15 States to change immediately from animal-drawn to truck-drawn apparatus.

The units affected by the order include: The 104th Field Artillery, New York; Fifty-first Field Artillery Brigade, Twenty-sixth Division, Massachusetts; Sixty-eighth Field Artillery Brigade, Forty-third Division (less Headquarters Battery), Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont; Sixtieth Field Artillery Brigade, Thirty-fifth Division, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri; Sixty-first Field Artillery Brigade, Thirty-sixth Division, Texas; Seventieth Field Artillery Brigade, Forty-fifth Division, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona; 116th Field Artillery, Florida; Brigade Headquarters Battery, Fifty-sixth Field Artillery Brigade, Avon Park, Fla.

Under completion of motorization of these units, the announcement said, authority will be granted for the change to be made in additional guard units.

Mississippi Cedar Chair Given to Mr. Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

F. S. Walcott, of Port Gibson, Miss., who presented President Roosevelt with the left hind foot of a Mississippi rabbit some time ago, has followed that by the presentation of a large armchair, made of Mississippi cedar.

The chair was taken to the White House yesterday by Representative Doxey, of Mississippi, who was accompanied by Mrs. Doxey and members of the District of Columbia inauguration committee. The cedar was grown on the Glensade plantation owned by Walcott. Its bright red cushions came from a Pullman car, used by Al G. Fields, with whom Walcott was at one time associated.

Swanson to Keep Ban On Ensign Marriages

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Swanson indicated yesterday he would leave intact the two-year ban on marriages by Naval Academy graduates. The ban established by former Secretary Adams was that graduates must wait two years after leaving the academy before marrying.

The Secretary said he had not given consideration to any change in the rule and indicated he would oppose such change.

DEPOSITORS FORM PROTECTIVE UNITS

Plans for Reopening Closed Banks Await Response on Concerted Action.

Formation of a protective committee of depositors in closed banks was announced last night by its secretary, H. H. Shaller, local attorney, whose statement read that it has several plans in mind for reopening of banks but that their development must wait upon the response to the call for unison by the depositors.

"It is our guess," the statement continues, "that just as soon as the depositors unite for concerted action, some of the banks will be stimulated to reopen. No obligation or expense is incurred by any depositor joining with this committee and he may withdraw at any time. The primary expenses such as office rent, &c., have been donated by well-wishers and depositors. Meetings of depositors will be called as soon as feasible.

"It is not to be assumed that this committee is antagonistic to closed bank administrations," the statement reads. "Quite the contrary. Wherever it may appear that the officials of a bank have honestly done their best, and are trying to reorganize properly for the primary interest of the depositors, it should be the aim of this committee to cooperate with them in every way to facilitate a proper reopening."

The statement reminds, however, that "in order to reopen closed banks there must usually be a reorganization. Such reorganizations can best be consummated when the depositors unite on a plan. Undoubtedly, Government officials will be happy to assist in such reorganization. Government cooperation must be welcomed and sought and not antagonized. Unfortunately, Government officials are terribly crowded with calls from all parts of the country and Washington is only a small fraction of their problem. Reorganization plans by unified depositors' groups can assist the Government in its work."

HOT TILTS FEATURE E. WADE BALL TRIAL

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that the accounts of E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County treasurer, were short $515,959—the amount he is charged with misappropriating—on the day he resigned last year was given yesterday at his trial by R. B. Jordan, of the State auditor's office.

Jordan, who was the supervising auditor in charge of checking the former treasurer's books, testified that Ball was accountable on February 26, 1932, the date of his resignation, for $602,321 of county funds and went into the details of items making a total of $85,850, which were credited against this.

The trial was enlivened by several clashes between counsel. Frank L. Ball, representing his brother, reiterated his charge that all data he had asked for had not been supplied him by the Commonwealth, brought rence W. Douglas, a statement that he would be violating his oath if he turned over to Ball the case he had prepared against the defendant.

Frank Ball's protest against Jordan's testimony as to the former treasurer's bank balances resulted in the Commonwealth calling to court officers of the seven banks in which Arlington County funds were kept. They were summoned to appear this morning.

Jordan told that Ball turned over on the day he resigned cash and uncashed checks totaling $1,193 and bonds valued at $80,000. In addition, he said, there was deposited in Ball's various accounts $4,654. An item of $500 also was subtracted from the amount for which Ball was held chargeable because an insurance company audit showed a $500 error in Ball's account for 1924.

A defense motion to strike out the testimony of Elmer S. Newell, county auditor, who was on the stand Wednesday, Thursday and yesterday, was overruled by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. Ball's attorneys attacked it on the ground it did not cover the full 24 years of Ball's service as treasurer. Newell's audit started with the fiscal year 1930.

The court continued to withhold decision on a motion made Thursday by defense attorneys to dismiss the case.

ECONOMICAL RELIEF FOR FARMS SOUGHT

but the President holds that the situation may work out with the new Government-backed farm bonds as it did two weeks ago with the new Federal Reserve banknote issue. The fact that the liquidation machinery is at hand may, by restoring investment confidence, banish to a considerable extent the demand for immediate refinancing.

The farm mortgage plan has occupied the President during the last few days as a phase of the larger problem of the national budget.

Outright Grants Likely.

Every effort of the administration is to be directed against increasing the national debt; but the relief problem is to be faced in its rawest aspects. Where Federal aid is necessary for human succor, it will be granted. The President feels strongly that where repayment is obviously impossible there is no point in regarding these advances as loans. In such circumstances the aid should be offered as outright Federal grants to the States and municipalities.

No decision has been reached, it was said at the White House, as to how much will be required under the President's complete relief program, rural and urban.

The bond terms finally decided upon in the farm mortgage relief program will be applied later to the problem of city dwelling mortgages.

The President is not in sympathy with the views expressed by some opponents of his farm marketing plan, now before the Senate Agricultural Committee, that it contemplates a vast army of enforcement officers. He anticipates that existing Federal machinery would be used plus present local agencies throughout the States.

Works Late on Budget.

Mr. Roosevelt worked on the budget until midnight Thursday in his White House study. He is hopeful that a balance may be struck next year between normal operating expenditures and normal income.

A secondary budget for whatever emergency relief and public works bond issues may be necessary is favored by the President and his fiscal advisers. These are nonrecurring items, and may be soundly differentiated from normal operation costs in budget calculations.

Mr. Roosevelt has not had opportunity to determine upon details of his projected railroad legislation. He regards the bill approved yesterday by the House Interstate Commerce Committee as sound in principle. This bill would repeal the recapture clause of the 1920 transportation act and define a new and broad principle of rate making, to be more flexible in the face of new competitive conditions. The matter of railroad consolidation awaits further consideration.

There may be some modification of the Government's emergency embargo gold exports during the next few days, but the matter is entirely in the hands of the Treasury.

The President is in accord with the policy outlined in the State Department earlier this week, that France, which defaulted on her December 15 debt payments to the United States, need not necessarily settle this matter before qualifying for participation in the forthcoming world economic conference.

21 Prisoners Arraigned In Court at Rockville

Twenty-one prisoners were arraigned before Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., yesterday. The judge accepted their pleas and set the dates for their trials. Trial of criminal cases will begin Thursday.

Jerris B. Pennington, nurse, who is charged with false pretenses in an indictment returned yesterday by the county grand jury, entered a plea of guilty. She is alleged to have raised a check of $76 given her for services as nurse to $676 and to have attempted to cash the check.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

Nature continues to assure itself in the case of the mulberry tree growing through the sidewalk and against the Postoffice Department Building, Eleventh street northwest. Here is how the tree looks in full foliage, although concrete extends "'round and 'round the mulberry bush." The water-cooling ammonia system in the basement is believed to help the tree thrive. John Hargett, watchman, left, and Charles Warren, assistant chief clerk, are shown. Photo was taken by Sam Miller, Postoffice Department cameraman.

JUST when we thought jig-saw puzzles are new we learn that their forerunners are displayed in Old World museums.

We can bring the picture to Washington and see in the mosaic tiles of the Library of Congress some of the jig saw-like work that would make many of us pull our hair if we had the job of piecing those little bits together.

Besides detective stories, Herbert Hoover was reported when he first entered the White House to have been a jig saw devotee, although then the fad had not gained its present momentum. Jig saws, cut-ups of the map of the United States, have been on sale many years and have been presents for many children at Christmas.

This leads us to the matter of the Federal Diary tournament of next Thursday evening at the Kennedy-Warren.

Here are names of the latest to enter the contest:

AN OPEN LETTER.

To Swagar Sherley and Lewis W. Douglas:

Gentlemen: If you get a closeup of the bad case of nerves some Federal employes are having, you would push a bit harder your plans to settle this matter of to merge or not to merge.

In one department we know the personnel officer has had to lock his door to bar employes who have been trooping in all day long with this or that question. Their jobs are at stake. They want to know something.

Federal workers have had a bit more than other citizens to face this go-'round. Besides the depression, there have been a pay cut, another on the way and the usual uncertainties of change of administration.

These keyhole stories of conjecture published by certain newspapers have done their share to unbalance composure of many. The spirit seems to have been to print something to keep the subject green and call it "news."

These uncertainties are playing hob with efficiency and morale of several hundred thousand Federal employes and their dependants.

Think it over.

HARRIS CONVICTED IN KILLING OF HENRY

he would seek a new trial for his client.

Mr. Sager thanked Detective Sergt. John C. Dalglish, for his fairness in testifying against Harris. Dalglish and Detective Sergts. Floyd A. Truscott and Dennis J. Murphy gathered the evidence upon which the conviction was obtained.

Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke said the "conviction will do more than anything else to prevent a recurrence of any racketeer killings in the Capital. They will know now that they can't get away with it here. Mr. Richards and the detectives are to be commended for their excellent work in this case."

Justice O'Donoghue gave the case to the jury at 7 p. m. Thursday. The jury then went to dinner and then deliberated for two and a half hours before being taken to the Continental Hotel at 10:30 and locked up for the night. They returned to the courthouse at 9 a. m. yesterday and at 11 a. m. announced their verdict was ready. Justice O'Donoghue received them three-quarters of an hour later.

Harris' real name is Charles Bernstein, his attorney told the jury yesterday. His indictment carried eight aliases.

Henry was shot to death early on the morning of April 21 as he sat in his automobile in front of his home on Brown street, near Sixteenth street northwest. His slayer dashed up in his car and fired upon him with a pump gun.

Harris offered an alibi as his principal defense.

$70,000 IN JEWELRY STOLEN FROM SUITE

platinum brooch, valued at 1,400 pounds sterling; and three other diamond brooches fashioned to represent a terrier, a rose and a duck. He said a lady's diamond watch suspended from a diamond brooch also was stolen.

Police were told that the Emerys left their hotel suite last night after d'nner. Previously, their personal maid brought the key to their jewel case, unlocked it and extracted the jewels Mrs. Emery wanted to wear for the evening.

The maid said she relocked the case and replaced it in a cupboard, putting the key in a separate drawer.

The Emerys said they returned after midnight. Mrs. Emery related that she went to the drawer to get the key, as usual, and replace the jewels she had worn. The key, however, was missing, she told the police.

The Scotland Yard operatives were working on a tip that a fashionably dressed woman signaled the thieves when the Emerys had left their suite, and kept watch while they ransacked the rooms in the Dorchester Hotel, where they are stopping.

Miami Beach Beer Bill Is Defeated by Silence

Miami Beach, Fla., March 24 (A.P.).—A bill to legalize the sale of 3.2 beer in this resort died in city council tonight for want of a seconding motion.

Councilman Baron De Hirsch Meyer introduced the bill for an ordinance, but only silence greeted his proposal. It was declared lost.

LOWER OHIO FLOOD MENACE DECLINING

Memphis and Other Points in Mississippi Valley Breathe Easier.

Louisville, Ky., March 24 (A.P.).—Fear of heavy flood damage along the western reaches of the Ohio River and on the Mississippi River was abated somewhat today as the Ohio's rise declined and the Weather Bureau at Washington said the Mississippi would not reach flood stages at Memphis, Tenn., and Helena, Ark.

At Cairo, Ill., the Weather Bureau forecast, the crest of the Mississippi would go but slightly above flood stage by March 28. The Ohio and Mississippi meet at Cairo.

Residents along the Mississippi near its junction with the Ohio had feared a severe flood when the Ohio's crest empties into the "father of waters" after having caused heavy damages from its source all through the Ohio Valley.

The Ohio was practically stationary today at Owensboro, Ky., at 43.8 feet, nearly 6 above flood stage. The Green River in western Kentucky continued to swell and was more than 3 feet above flood level.

The rise in the Ohio at Paducah was 1.8 feet in 24 hours, bringing the river to within several feet of the crest expected next week. At Henderson, Ky., the Ohio was 9 feet above flood stage, with the crest expected tomorrow.

The Ohio at Louisville started falling steadily today after having routed more than 800 families from their homes. Sandbag dikes saved many other homes from the flood waters.

Farther up the river, the rate of the drop was higher and relief agencies directed their attention to rehabilitation work. Thousands of families were routed in West Virginia, Ohio, eastern Indiana and northern Kentucky.

Rain forecast for tonight was not expected by the Weather Bureau to delay seriously the river's fall.

Protection Urged For County Home

Montgomery Grand Jury Is Excused After Report Before Judge.

Measures to protect inmates of the county home from fire hazard were recommended in the report of the Montgomery County grand jury, returned yesterday before Judge Charles W. Woodward at Rockville, Md. The grand jurors recommended that a pond be created in the yard with natural water supplies on the premises and that a fire escape be provided. Otherwise the home was found to be in excellent condition and well stocked with provisions.

Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley and the county police force were especially commended by the grand jury for their efficiency and ability in bringing offenders to justice.

The grand jury examined 132 witnesses in the investigation of 34 cases and returned 33 presentments. The grand jurors were commended for their speedy clearance of the docket and thanked by Judge Woodward, who said that he could not dismiss them, but would excuse them until further need of their services or a new grand jury was sworn in.

Arlington Seeking Slash in Gas Rate

Rosslyn Company Counsel Charged With Delay in Proceedings.

Richmond, Va., March 24 (A.P.).—Charging counsel for the Rosslyn Gas Co. with purposely delaying proceedings, Edmund Campbell, representing Arlington County citizens, today asked the State Corporation Commission to issue a temporary order reducing the gas rate in that county.

The commission took Campbell's motion under advisement and continued the case until April 3.

Disavowing efforts to delay proceedings, E. Randolph Williams and T. Justin Moore, counsel for the utility company, said they were ready to submit their evidence with the exception of that pertaining to the cost of gas and would continue at any time agreeable to the commission.

CALVERT'S LANDING ANNIVERSARY TODAY

'Maryland Day' Is Observed 299 Years After Group of Colonists Arrived.

Two hundred and ninety-nine years ago today Leonard Calvert led a band of 200 English colonists down the gangplanks of the Ark and the Dove on to the soil of Mary's Land—occupying for its feudal owner, Lord Baltimore, a province that has become the Commonwealth of Maryland.

Thus began the Old Line State and for many years this day has been "Maryland Day," a legal holiday in the nearby State, with all commerce and labor suspended and an atmosphere of festivity and ceremony prevailing.

A sprinkling of Jesuits accompanied the Calvert expedition, most of which was of the Catholic faith. One of them was Father Andrew White, designated chaplain of the voyagers who settled in the rich tidewater country.

First Capital of State.

To Father White, many of the cluster of islands in the Potomac near its junction with the Chesapeake owe their names. St. Georges Island and St. Margarets, part of the little archipelago, centers of the early history of many of America's famous families, were named by the hardy Jesuit.

The Calvert party settled at St. Marys City, which became immediately the first capital of Maryland, the first assembly meeting there a year later. It was not until 1694, three score years later, that the capital was moved to Annapolis.

The ships' companies of the Ark and Dove had embarked at Gravesend at the mouth of the Thames in November of 1633. They traveled a circuitous and stormy route on their voyage to the new land.

Refuge From Persecution.

The settlement was established to provide Catholics with a refuge where they might be free from religious persecution. But the early years of the settlement were far from tranquil. Virginians contested Lord Baltimore's title to the grant and the capital passed into the hands of enemies several times before peace was established.

One of the first acts of the Jesuits in the new land was to establish a school at St. Mary's City. Later the school grew and was situated at several locations in Maryland.

Finally, after the march of a century and a half, Georgetown University was established on Georgetown Heights, in what is now the District of Columbia. The day of the landing of the Calvert party is always celebrated by the local university as its "Founders' Day."

Georgetown U. Tonight Confers 2 Honor Degrees

Honors in the Camillus Mazella Academy of Philosophy and the Angelo Secchi Academy of Science will be conferred by Georgetown University at an academic ceremony honoring Founders Day this evening at 8:30 o'clock in Gaston Hall.

Dr. Leonide Pitamic, Minister of Jugoslavia, who delivered special lectures on the philosophy of law at the School of Foreign Service several years ago, is to be the recipient of the decoration of the Camillus Mazella Academy.

The decoration of the other academy will be given to Dr. William Holland Wilmer, noted ophthalmologist, who served 19 years on the faculty of the Georgetown Medical School and is now head of the Wilmer Institute of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Invited guests include prominent alumni of Georgetown, members of the Diplomatic Corps, the presidents of local universities and other educators.

Robert M. Stults, Song Composer, Dead at 71

Ridley Park, Pa., March 24 (A.P.).—Robert Morrison Stults, 71, song composer and author of "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," died in a hospital today. He had been ill several weeks. He was a native of Hightstown, N. J.

Some of his other songs were, "Sing Me Some Quaint Old Ballad," "I Love You So," "Jesus, Still Lead On," "O Lamb of God, Still Keep Me" and "A Dutch Lullaby." His widow survives.

FARM AID BILL FOES DENOUNCE MEASURE

Simpson Calls It 'Ridiculous' at Hearing Before Senate Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Formidable efforts to wreck the administration's farm relief bill, interrupting the smooth flow of Roosevelt measures through Congress, came into the open yesterday in the Senate Agriculture Committee.

As an answer to the opposition, George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., announcing his appearance as in behalf of Secretary Wallace, told the committee the House-approved Roosevelt bill should be passed and broad powers given the Secretary to cope with the farm problem.

John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union, later attacked the administration proposal as "a price-fixing bill which would not give the farmer half the cost of production."

"It is ridiculous," Simpson declared. "It would guarantee the consumer can eat the farmers' bread and butter at less than the cost of production."

President Watches Bill.

The President himself meanwhile watched intently the progress on the bill. It was said at the White House that there is no intention of employing any unusual number of new workers to carry out the proposals of the administration measure, but that existing agricultural machinery would be used.

Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, presented a substitute proposal which some senators privately intimated might be acceptable to the White House. This would sharply curtail the contemplated grant of power to Secretary Wallace by eliminating a section of the administration bill providing for reducing acreage through agreements with producers under a modified version of the domestic allotment plan.

The Senate Agriculture Committee chairman's substitute would eliminate also the proposed licensing fee on distributors and seek to modify the processing tax to provide only sufficient revenue to pay for retiring land from production by leasing it.

Wallace on Stand Today.

The administration bill proposes a processing tax sufficient to lift the price to the average level for 1909-1914, and to "raise revenues for the payment of extraordinary expenditures incurred by reason of the national economic emergency."

In other respects, the Smith and administration bills are similar, as each would apply the farm-aid program to wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco and dairy products, and each provides a cotton option pool to air the Dixie growers.

Efforts to limit the bill to wheat and cotton will be made today. At the same time, the committee also will hear Secretary Wallace.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, Republican leader and ranking minority member of the committee, told newspapermen he approved of the Smith bill but would move to limit it to wheat and cotton, adding he felt further hearings would be unnecessary.

Long Illness Fatal To Mrs. Crawford

Employe of Treasury for 43 Years to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Hortense Crawford, an employe of the Treasury Department for 43 years, died yesterday at Sibley Hospital following a long illness. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Crawford was the widow of George B. Crawford, an employe of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. She was a member of the Ku Klux Klan Auxiliary and the Esther Chapter, Eastern Star. She lived at 172 Todd place northeast.

She is survived by a son, George W. Crawford, of this city, and two grandsons, George W. and John P. Crawford.

Funeral services under the auspices of the klan will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the W. W. Chambers Co. funeral home. Interment will be in Abbey Mausoleum, Arlington, Va.

Fairfax Club Will Hold Its Final Chase Today

The Fairfax Hunt Club at Sunset Hills, Fairfax County, Va., will close its third successful season today with a fox hunt along the Potomac River above Great Falls. Many socially prominent lovers of the chase from Washington and Virginia will take part. The chase will be led by Capt. C. R. P. Rodgers, of Washington, M. F. H., with M. C. Hatcher as huntsman, and DeLong Bowman and Huntley Finch as whips.

The hunt will be followed by a hunt breakfast in the spacious club house on the estate of A. Smith Bowman at Sunset Hills.

MATSUOKA DENIES APPEALING TO U. S.

Says Japan "Is Not a Vassal State to America" on Reaching New York.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Yosuke Matsuoka, who headed the Japanese delegation which walked out of the League of Nations' special session on Manchukuo, arrived here today on his way home and disclaimed any intention of appealing to the United States, because, he said, Japan "is not a vassal State to America or any other nation."

A chunky little man with a thick moustache and yellow horn-rimmed spectacles, Matsuoka puffed continually on a pipe as he expressed the opinion Japan was misunderstood in this country. He said, however, he was on no mission in that connection.

He also expressed the view, in answer to a question, that Japanese-American relations might be improved by the withdrawal of the United States fleet from the Pacific.

"The continued presence of the fleet in the Pacific at this time," he said, "is causing misgivings among some people."

Later in the day, Secretary Swanson, in Washington, said he hoped to meet Matsuoka when he arrives in the Capital next Thursday and would be prepared to discuss all naval angles of American-Japanese relations with him.

Matsuoka said in a subsequent interview, however, that he had made no plans so far to confer with the Secretary of the Navy or any other officials in Washington. He emphasized his only official capacity was that of chief delegate to the league and he would be relieved of that office upon his arrival in Tokyo.

Discussing his country's policies in Manchukuo with some 30 interviewers in a carefully guarded Fifth avenue hotel suite, Matsuoka said he had not heard reports that the new state was building a navy.

He made clear at the outset that Japan considers Manchukuo autonomous, and on that basis he answered the questions but to him for an hour.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT TO BUDGET HER TIME

we're interrupted all the time. So I think I'll set aside two hours each day when neither Tommy nor I will answer the telephone."

"Tommy" is Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, Mrs. Malvina Thompson Scheider.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived from Washington aboard an Eastern Air Transport plane. She was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., and Henry Morgenthau 3d.

"It was a bit bumpy," she said, "but I didn't mind.

"Over Baltimore the pilot climbed up to 6,000 feet to get out of the rough going, but later he told us he had to come down because at 6,000 feet ice started forming on the wings."

Mrs. Roosevelt came to New York to attend tonight the dinner in honor of Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins, at which she was one of the speakers. She will remain until Wednesday, spending the week-end at Hyde Park.

Tomorrow her sons, Franklin, jr., and John, arrive from Groton School for their Easter holidays. Franklin, jr., will continue on to a house party at Jekyll Island, Ga. John will remain in New York for a few days with his mother.

Upon her arrival in New York today Mrs. Roosevelt visited a display of furniture from her factory at a Fifth avenue shop and then went to the flower show. There, while a band blared "Happy Days Are Here Again," the First Lady posed in front of a bank of prizewinning "Better Times" roses, holding in her arms a huge bouquet of brilliant yellow roses which bear her own name. The "Mrs. Roosevelt" roses received a gold medal after their debut Monday.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would open a flower show in St. Louis tomorrow afternoon by pressing a button here in New York.

The President's wife said she had only once met Mrs. Nicholas Roosevelt, who died here today.

COL. DURSTON RITES TODAY.

Former Red Cross Aid Administrator Died in New York Hospital.

Military funeral services for Col. Gilbert Haven Durston, 46, U. S. A. Reserve Corps, who died Wednesday in a New York hospital, will be held at 9:15 a. m. today in Arlington National Cemetery.

Col. Durston, decorated by Poland and Greece in recognition of his work in post-war reconstruction, was a member of an advertising company in New York at the time of his death. At the close of the war, during which he served as a captain in the Sanitary Corps, he became an administrator of Red Cross relief, and was in charge of liquidation of American medical supplies left in France. For his work, Poland awarded him the Order of the White Eagle and Greece gave him the Order of Our Saviour.

BILLS FLOOD MARKS MARYLAND DEADLINE

Prince Georges and Montgomery Are Represented in Final Deluge.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 24.—This was the last day for the introduction of new bills in the Maryland General Assembly, except by unanimous consent of the respective bodies, and, as had been expected, a flood of measures marked the day's routine in both the Senate and House.

Approximately two score new proposals made their appearance in either branch. Prince Georegs and Montgomery Counties were caught in the last hour rush, notwithstanding the fact that the senators and delegates from those two sectors had presented many bills, probably leading the field outside of Baltimore City.

The Prince Georges group in the House presented five bills, embracing the following provisions:

Conferring additional powers upon the council of Cheverly in relation to the contemplated street improvements, providing for assessments against abutting property owners therefor, and setting up a plan of installment payments of such assessments.

Amending the existing election law for Hyattsville by providing that polling houses shall be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Requiring the mayor and council of Hyattsville to give written notice concerning street improvements, and to arrange for hearings thereon.

Empowering the mayor and council of Hyattsville to adopt the tax basis used by the county commissioners for assessment purposes in assessments for municipal purposes.

Authorizing the county commissioners and county treasurer to accept payments of county taxes, including the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission charges and taxes and the Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission taxes, and any district or special assessments on all properties sold for taxes, other than to a purchaser who has paid therefor prior to operation of the act.

Dr. George Edmunds, chairman of the Montgomery delegation, sponsored a measure to reduce the pay of judges of elections, when acting as registration officials, from $10 to $8 per diem.

Delegate Marvin Farrington, of Montgomery, offered a bill to confirm a conveyance of property made by the county commissioners to John and Mary F. B. Imrie.

Montgomery Bills Get Past Maryland House

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 24.—During the rush activities of the House this afternoon a number of Montgomery and Prince Georges County measures passed their reading and were sent to the Senate where they will be acted upon next week.

The Montgomery bills thus finally approved in the body where they originated are:

Providing for filling vacancies in certain offices in Edmonston.

Reducing membership of the county commissioner board from seven to five.

Authorizing county commissioners to purchase real estate offered for sale for delinquent taxes and special assessments.

Providing for redemption of real estate sold for delinquent taxes.

Amending the law to increase the appropriation allocated for the volunteer fire department at Silver Spring.

Authorizing county commissioners to issue certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of proceeds from sale of bonds; also authorizing a bond issue for refunding county bonds now outstanding.

Prince Georges County measures passed were:

Eliminating provisions of law requiring police of Colmar Manor to pursue law violators beyond the town limits.

Relating to election of town officials of Bladensburg.

Authorizing county commissioners to borrow money to meet budgetary expenses.

New W. B. &A. Tax Immunity Unlikely

Melvin, of Anne Arundel, Details Opposition to Proposal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 24.—That the proposal to extend tax exemption to the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad for two more years will stand little chance of enactment was made certain today with formal announcements by Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, Anne Arundel County, and the entire county delegation in the House.

Senator Melvin said that two years ago when an exemption act was passed, he declined to take any action one way or the other because he had been employed as attorney for the road and he was not apprised of the tremendous amount of opposition from the people of his home county. He said that while the railroad doubtless needs some help, he must look first to the already overburdened taxpayers.

The exemption law was approved by the last Legislature largely because of pleas from the officials of the railroad, then in receivership and operating at a loss. It covered two years.

Southern System Plans Cent-a-Mile Excursions

Seven cent-a-mile excursions this year were announced yesterday by the Southern Railway System. The fares are limited to eight days for return and are effective only on the following dates:

April 14 and 15, May 27, 28 and 29, July 1, 2 and 3, August 4 and 5, September 1, 2 and 3, October 6 and 7, and November 28 and 29. It also was announced that a 25 per cent reduction in Pullman fares will be available in connection with the cent-a-mile tickets.

Help Pours in for Family In Need as Baby Arrives

Many Hearts Respond Generously After Post Story Describes Plight of Alexandria Mother; Police and Correspondent Are Kept Busy.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Last Thursday morning The Post carried a news story about a baby girl just born in Alexandria, in most destitute circumstances, and suggesting that contributions for the relief of this sorely in need family might be contributed through Sergt. George Everly, of the Alexandria police force.

Shortly after the paper appeared on the street a man stopped a Washington policeman, gave him a $1 bill and said, "For God's sake get this to that Alexandria family quick."

Later in the day a Washington woman called up the Alexandria bureau of The Post and asked how to get in touch with Sergt. Everly. She later appeared at police headquarters with a coat for the mother and sweaters for two older children. The mother is not yet able to wear the coat, but the sweater-clad children are enjoying their unexpected apparel.

One of the many letters received by this bureau was from one of the "sisters under the skin" and read, "In the name of a new baby born a week ago, please accept small contribution." This newly made mother could not resist the call of the newest baby across the Potomac for aid. She doubtless thought, "Suppose this was my baby needing help."

Mrs. G. LeRoy Irwin, of Washington, sent her check for a substantial amount.

Had it not been for the cause, the Alexandria representative of The Post would have left his phone receiver off the hook yesterday. "How can I get in touch with Sergt. Everly?" "Will you receive a contribution for the destitute family in Alexandria?" "Where can I send a contribution?" were some of the calls.

The city editor of The Post, the Alexandria correspondent, 907 Prince street, Alexandria; Sergt. George Everly, Police Headquarters, Alexandria, all will receive any contributions readers of The Post feel urged to send. They are needed, and will be properly cared for.

"Let George do it," is a hackney catch phrase, but—George Everly received the first call to look out for this destitute woman and her new child; George Walker, patrolman of the Alexandria Police Department, immediately called Dr. H. A. Latane, who responded and rendered the necessary medical aid. Dr. Latane is a collateral descendant of George Washington. George did it!

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline Augusta Dunham Moore, 89, who died Wednesday night, was held yesterday from the home, 405 Prince street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. William B. McIlwaine, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Union Cemetery. The pallbearers were George B. Kennedy, Ashby P. Elmore, Alfred Thomson, William H. Melchior, William Campbell and Arthur K. Warfield.

The funeral of Richard McBlair, who died Wednesday in the Alexandria Hospital, took place yesterday from his home, 816 Franklin street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. William B. McIlwaine. Burial was in Bethel Cemetery. Military honors were given by the members of the Maj. James E. King Camp, United Spanish War Veterans.

A LOSING RUFF.

IN most cases it is extremely valuable for the defense to establish a crossruff. However, situations do arise where giving partner an opportunity to ruff something only helps to make the hand easier for the Declarer. The following hand exemplifies this principle:

The Opening lead was the club Ten, which was won by East with the King. This player was fairly convinced that his partner was leading from a doubleton, and consequently laid down the Ace and another club immediately. Declarer discarded a diamond and West ruffed. He now returned a diamond, but Declarer went up with the Ace, led another diamond, ruffed it, and then led the Ace, King and a small spade. The diamonds in Dummy provided sufficient discards for South's hearts.

At first glance it looks as though there is no way to beat the hand. As a matter of fact, however, the hand is very easily defeated if East decides against allowing his partner to ruff. He knows, of course, that Declarer has the Knave of clubs and his decision should depend entirely on the location of the other cards in that suit. If Declarer originally held three clubs, the Ace and another club is the proper return. However, this is extremely unlikely on the bidding and it is much safer for East to play his partner for a doubleton. Therefore, he should lead the heart, which will now render the unfortunate Declarer helpless, and he must lose 4 tricks no matter how he plays.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF March 25 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 6:45 p. m. to 7:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12 noon and from 8:15 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

You may find yourself on this date in a trying and embarrassing situation as the result of some injustice done you. Time, however, will prove you to be entirely in the right and without blame. Petty quarrels and much bickering will be apparent in the relations between loved ones.

The child born on this March 25 will more than likely be of a selfish nature and interested primarily in satisfying its own desires; it will lack all consideration for others. The child will study hard at school and should undoubtedly make a pleasing record.

Born on March 25, you are a person who enjoys adventure for the sake of adventure and without any thought of getting a return from it. You have a tendency to be erratic and impulsive, and more than likely you find yourself getting into one "jam" after another. Business in all probability will not appeal to you unless there is connected with it in some way or other a good deal of travel. On the surface you appear to be a pugnacious person, but your outward bluster covers a heart of gold and a person sentimental to a degree and extremely tender and understanding in domestic relations.

If March 25 is the date of your birth you are not as careful in the selection of your associates and friends as you should be; you are inclined to "pick up" with people much too readily. Seek to cultivate a measure of reserve, even to the point of being thought aloof. Both the men and women born on this date seek to maintain peaceful and harmonious relations with all persons with whom they come in contact. They are great lovers and are sincere in their affections. They do not make outward demonstration of their love, but prefer to let their actions bespeak their feelings. These people usually marry fairly young and, unfortunately, divorce is not an infrequent occurrence in their ranks. They are extremely fond of their children and devote much time to them.

Successful people born on March 25:
Stephen B. Luce, naval officer.
Elwell S. Otis, general.
John S. Kountz, soldier.
John Lind, lawyer and congressman.
Louis Duncan, electrician and educator.
Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor, author.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

MRS. J. A. S writes: "I always manicure my nails at home and have been able to do a really fine job of it, but lately my cuticles are very ragged and nails brittle. A day after the manicure my cuticles are rough and sort of "chappy." As we have had an awful winter, do you think the cold has anything to do with it? Please suggest something"

* * * *

The cold, blustery weather we have had can indeed cause the cuticle to become very dry and ragged. Try an oil manicure. Instead of soaking in warm soapy water, soak the nails in warm oil for a few minutes. The finest Fifth avenue salons in New York gave such a manicure. Push back cuticle with orange stick and cut only the ragged edge. Every night, soak nails in warm oil for a few minutes and always after washing the hands push cuticle back with a towel.

Hairdress for Height.

Shorty asks: Can you suggest a hairdress to give one a little more height. I look quite well in the halo coiffure, which I believe Norma Shearer originated. Does this make one look taller?

* * * *

The halo coiffure very definitely lends a look of height to a short person, and since you look well, by all means adopt it. Piling the hair high on the crown is another way to look taller. My bulletin on coiffure hints will be sent to you on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope, also my fashion hints bulletin contains suggestions for lines and colors in dress to make you look taller. Please send self-addressed, stamped envelope for each one, however.

Pouches Under the Eyes.

Mary Helen: You are right, the beauty spotlight is focusing attention on the eyes and has for some time, and always will. Pouches under the eyes may indicate general run-down or internal condition, lack of sleep, worry or eye-strain. Better see a physician. Correct the cause. Then use make-up to advantage. My complete bulletin on eyes will be sent to you on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dandruff Remedy for White Hair.

Mrs. B. C.: Vaseline and sulphur is indeed an excellent dandruff remedy, but in the case of white hair may tend to leave it yellow. Pure olive oil is best for your purposes. Before applying, gently scratch scalp to free the dandruff, brush thoroughly, apply the olive oil to the scalp, parting hair every inch or so. Then massage scalp with finger tips, shampooing after a few hours on the following morning. Use pure castile soap in jelly form for shampoo. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my hair bulletins.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

Wholesome Parties.

THE upset stomachs, temper tantrums, general irritability and naughtiness which used to be considered the normal aftermath of a successful children's party have gone out of style along with the old-fashioned children's party that caused them.

The thoughtful, well-informed mother of today knows that at a party for children under 7, there should not be more than a half a dozen children at the most. With children of kindergarten age there should not be more than three or four.

The games played should be the sort, which as far as possible, keeps everybody busy most of the time. Quiet games should alternate with noisy ones.

The adults in charge should keep the fun from growing hysterical by providing a quieting distraction at the psychological moment. If there are to be prizes the adult must see to it that by one means or another each child receives a prize.

With very young children it is impossible to play anything but the simplest games and these for not more than half an hour altogether. A simplified version of the treasure hunt in which each child follows the end of a string to find a treasure at the end is highly satisfactory with children of 6 or more.

The whole party should not last more than an hour and a half for kindergarteners and not more than two hours for somewhat older children.

Refreshments should be simple, comprising a reasonably balanced meal, although including the usual ice cream and cake, without which any party would be a flat disappointment in children's eyes. The food should be served as nearly as possible at the regular supper hour so that it may take the place of the evening meal and nothing more need be eaten before going to bed.

Roosevelt Accepts Honor.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

FOR FALLEN ARCHES.

I ATTENDED a very interesting and informal lecture on the Greek islands in the Mediterranean, illustrated by both moving and still life pictures. That part of the entertainment dealing with sponge fishing had one lesson for the general public not especially interested in Greece nor in sponges. It was that fallen arches and weak feet are not a part of the creator's plan. They are man's making, the result of man's application of that plan.

I would be willing to wager a Hoover commission against a doughnut that the Greek sponge fishermen do not suffer from fallen arches. Their feet are bare not only while diving, but also during most of the time on shipboard. After a diver has put in his turn diving he goes barefooted on deck and then takes a turn at pressing out the sponges. When sponges are brought up they are filled with "goo," assorted dirt and other foreign matter. They are thrown on deck and the barefooted divers stand on them kneading out the foreign matter. The moving pictures of the kneading show the toes and the front part of the foot bending back and forth doing the squeezing act. The foot of a diver is about as prehensile as that of a baby that never has worn shoes, probably more so than that of a Jap or a Chinaman, but less so than that of a gorilla.

Watching these Greek divers gave me an idea as to a method of treating fallen arches. It is for the sufferer to buy a large bath sponge, put it in a tub in which there is about a spongeful of water, and spend a half hour daily standing in the tub on the sponge pressing it out as the Greek divers do. To get the good out of this exercise a maximum part of the work must be done by the toes and front part of the foot. This exercise should be more pleasant than the often recommended task of picking up marbles with the toes.

The lecturer told his audience that divers are prone to suffer from the bends. When the diver goes down in deep water and the pressure becomes great, some of the gases ordinarily carried in solution by the blood go out of solution and form bubbles in the blood vessels. If a bubble of gas gets into a small blood vessel it stops the flow of blood to the area supplied by that vessel.

The usual symptom of the bends is cramps in the muscles. But there may be almost any symptom, dependent on where the air bubble happens to stop and what tissues it deprives of blood. The effects of bends may be permanent. The air deprived of blood proceeds to break down after a while. If the gas bubble is slow about absorbing and the tissues have been destroyed repair may never be complete.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

ANY woman who thinks, and says that she can not dress well because she hasn't the money to do so, is just willfully being stubborn and lazy and enjoying her own exhibition of bad taste!

Prove it! The French-maid-who-was-Spanish is the best example. A woman who raised a baby girl all alone—her husband having disappeared in the war, leaving her with the uncertainty of his reappearance and consequently unable to marry any one else, a woman who raised this child for ten years, and never made more in all that time than 400 francs a month—$12. Yes, she had her food and room. But how far would you carry $12 a month toward raising and clothing and educating a child—and yourself? Yet this maid is always well dressed. Quietly so, nothing expensive—but always in style, and always becoming. No, her mistress (before she worked for me) did not give her any old clothes.

The woman of taste and intelligence is always in style, and always well dressed! Yes, I believe it and I can prove it, if you wish. So what about you?

Take the sleeve of your last year's frock alone, for instance. Today's sleeve is not two years ago's sleeve, of course. Now that you have finally succeeded in letting down all your dresses and raising their waistlines—not impossible to do, either—sleeve up and get fancy—leaving you with a dismal plainness in sleeves. What do you do? The clever woman simply and quite calmly makes over her sleeves into stylish sleeves!

Oh, yes, it can be done, never think not. Remnant, or the scrapbag, or an underpart of the skirt which has the same material—there are endless ways to do it. If you can't, your dressmaker can. Or the maid. At least, it can be done, is what I am trying to prove to you—wishing you to be as chic and stylish as any one else! And I think that next to waistlines and skirt length, sleeves have more in their power to make or break a dress than anything else. What do you think?

* * * *

And just to help you out, I have made a leaflet of how to make new sleeves from old—a lot of sleeve ideas, and how to make them out of remnants or scraps—and add them outright to your plain or old-fashioned sleeves. Or new sleeves for a new dress, if you wish. At any rate, they are surely worth a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And you can study the new style in sleeves to your heart's content, and have 'em, too. Just send for this leaflet and see!

Acreage Set Aside For Needy Gardens

Territory Near Kingman Lake May Give Food to 500 Families.

As part of the made-work operations of the unemployment relief committee of the Board of Public Welfare and the jobs assignment committee, an extensive area of District land located near Kingman Lake, between Gallinger Hospital and Benning road, will be made available next week to needy Washington families for gardening.

The gardening project will be under the special direction of Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, of the unemployment relief committee, and it is expected that it will serve 500 families.

More than 200 acres will be subdivided into plots of 50 by 100 feet. A small suspension bridge will be constructed across a storm water sewer that separates the north and south portions of the tract.

EMERGENCY POWERS.

A great deal of loose talk is heard about dictatorship in the United States. Such comment comes only from individuals who do not understand the Constitution or the measures which Congress has recently passed to increase the authority of the President. Nothing in any way resembling an European dictatorship is possible in this country.

The unusual manifestation of executive authority which has been observed in Washington since March 4 is merely the clear-cut functioning of the American party system. It is true that for the time being the Democratic party wields dictatorial powers. But that is a very different situation from an individual dictatorship. The Democratic party has authority to put into effect any constitutional measure on which it can agree. President Roosevelt is the head of that party. Hence, it may appear that he is exercising full authority over the Nation.

In reality the authority of the President is very sharply limited. His recommendations must carry the approval of a majority in both houses of Congress or they become mere wasted words. At any time Congress may take back from the President the authority which it has delegated to him. Thus Congress is in a position to control the Government in the last analysis. In the present situation these questions of ultimate authority do not arise because a single party dominates the entire Federal machine. So long as they work in harmony it makes little difference whether legislative measures originate in Congress or the White House.

One other check makes all discussion of dictatorship silly. The Constitution forbids Congress to transfer its powers over legislation to the President. It is a mistake to suppose that Congress has authorized Mr. Roosevelt to make sweeping revisions in the banking laws and the statutes governing allowances to veterans. Congress itself abolished existing statutes and enacted new laws which allow the Executive a broader field of discretion in the administration of these acts. The essential fact is that Congress, and not the Executive, changed these policies. Congress decided that the details of a disagreeable job could be more expeditiously handled by the President than by itself. But Congress can not delegate its power to legislate.

During this emergency Congress realizes that its cumbersome methods of legislating are an obstacle to recovery. For that reason it is only drafting the general outlines of its policies. This method by which action is being expedited is not a departure from the American scheme of government, but only a general use of powers that have heretofore been confined to rather narrow fields. There is no occasion for fears that the fundamental law is being suspended or that grave innovations in government will arise from these grants of emergency power.

WOMEN TRAINED FOR WAR.

In no part of the world has the interchange of duties between the sexes been so complete as in Russia. In the universities, where military science in its advanced form is taught, the most noticeable feature of training is the absence of distinction between men and women. Women in the universities are trained for all branches of army service, while girls in the primary and secondary grades are trained along sanitation and Red Cross lines.

Military preparedness is practiced in the Soviet Union on a scale unknown in any other country. "The next war" is spoken of definitely by the man behind the plow, in the home, the factory and in the schools. The more than 17,000,000 children in Russia under the age of 17 are put through the military mold.

Elias Tobenkin is an American citizen, though born in Russia. He has traveled extensively in Soviet Russia, living for the most part among the peasants and workmen, not in the hotels, and he knows Russia as it is today. He says that every Russian between the ages of 10 and 50 is provided with some sort of military qualification. Each village has its "defense house," a small-scale armory, and every factory its "military corner." The Army Press has 120,000 volunteer correspondents who report on military progress in every part of the country.

"A minimum of military training that can be put to practical use at any time" is a government requirement. In the grade schools the history of the red army and a survey of the country's defense problems are taught. Every subject is illustrated by a war parallel. In geometry the teacher illustrates with war trenches. In chemistry all examples are drawn from the country's program of chemical defense. The students in the secondary schools are always attached to some industry, and the application of that industry to war is presented to them in detail. In the universities military science in its advanced forms is taught to men and women alike.

Figures for the number of women in Soviet Russia who are training for the regular army service are not available for the past two years, but, according to Mr. Tobenkin, in 1930, nearly a quarter of a million were receiving their training in military schools. Fifty-five thousand of them qualified as rifle experts and machine-gunners. Moscow has recently graduated a militarized corps of women telegraph and telephone operators. In Tomsk and Krasnoyarsk are women sniping companies that are among the best in the union.

BANKS RETURN TO NORMAL.

Remarkable improvement in the banking situation is noted in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Board. If any one doubted that the banking crisis is over, those doubts may be swept away by the convincing proof which this report contains. With the passing of every day the banks gain new strength and public confidence in them becomes more stable.

So far as the public is concerned, the most graphic indication that the crisis is over is the suspension of emergency work at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Vast amounts of currency have been printed in the last two weeks so that no reopened bank would be without funds to meet the full demands of its depositors. But only $9,269,000 of the new currency was in use by Wednesday of this week. Apparently the great bulk of this new money will never be used. Currency is returning from hoards at such a rapid rate that emergency money is not needed to any great extent.

The exact amount of currency that came out of hoarding last week can not be measured, but the volume of money outstanding was reduced by $661,000,000. The $6,608,000,000 now in circulation is nearly $1,000,000,000 less than the peak which was reached on March 8. The incentive to hoarding has been removed. Every one knows that the banks which have been allowed to open are sound. Hence, money is safer in the banks than in hoards.

Heavy demands upon the Federal Reserve system, which were feared in some quarters as a result of the bank holiday, have not materialized. Last week member banks reduced their borrowings from the Federal Reserve banks by $561,000,000. Their obligations to the central banking system are less than half of what they were two weeks ago. Only a remarkable improvement in the condition of the banks in general could make such a phenomenal achievement possible.

Gold has also returned to the banks in large volume. Last week $181,545,000 worth of the precious metal was recovered. The gold hoarder has been stigmatized. All possibility of profit from hoarding of the yellow metal has been removed. The Government will doubtless soon be in a position to withdraw all restrictions on the payment of gold, so that this country's adherence to the gold standard can not be questioned in any quarter.

The work of liquidating insolvent banks and of arranging the affairs of other banks that are not yet in a position to reopen is steadily progressing. Some depositors will suffer losses, but the haunting fear of all depositors that their savings and checking accounts were unsafe has disappeared. The banks of the Nation have been revitalized and are now ready for an expansion of business. President Roosevelt and his advisers are entitled to high praise for the manner in which this situation was handled after the crisis had actually developed.

HITLER ON TRIAL.

Adolf Hitler undertook to outline his program after the Reichstag had made him the fountain of all political power in Germany, but when his address was completed the Nazi policy was still in confusion. It seems evident that the new dictator has not yet decided what measures will be taken to restore Germany. He has spoken a great deal about revitalizing the German nation, but his oratorical generalities do not give an accurate idea of what means will be employed.

Up to this time Hitler has engaged in a drive for power. Now he has all the power he could ask for. Laws will be enacted by his cabinet without the approval of the Reichstag or the federal council of states. Treaties will not need the approval of any other individual than Mr. Hitler himself. He may borrow money, fix taxes, make treaties, and, apparently, make war if he sees fit. Constitutional liberties are virtually swept away, unless the chancellor wishes to keep them in effect. Hitler can say with Louis XIV, "L'etat, c'est moi." It remains to be seen, however, how he will use this autocratic power.

Chancellor Hitler's problems from now on will be quite different from those he has been struggling with. Many demagogues charm the public with bellowing demands, glib promises and revolutionary ideas. But statesmen who are able to raise a nation from disunion, bewilderment and hard times are very few. A mere grant of power does not increase the wisdom of a dictator. Germany's problems will soon take the measure of Hitler as a statesman.

In his address the new chancellor promised to focus attention "solely upon saving the German people from indescribable misery." The objective is laudable. How shall it be attained? Germany can not improve her economic position by antagonizing the rest of the world. Business within Germany can not flourish so long as law and order are flouted and brutal Nazis are allowed to terrorize personal enemies with impunity.

It appears that Chancellor Hitler has an opportunity to rehabilitate Germany in much the same way that Premier Mussolini brought Italy out of the morass of depression after the war. He has all the responsibility and the power that Mussolini acquired, but it remains to be seen how much sagacity and strength he can put behind that authority.

Mr. Hitler's inexperience, save in the art of garnering votes, makes the future course of Germany extremely uncertain. It is impossible to appraise his regime until the new dictator may be seen in action with the full power of the German government upon him. However, the advent of the Hitler dictatorship does not offer much encouragement to a perturbed Europe.

AGENTS OF FOREIGN TRADE.

Reports indicate that dismemberment of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is contemplated as part of the reorganization program. This bureau has come in for a good deal of criticism from campaign orators, but it is difficult to reconcile its abolition with the efforts of the administration to stimulate trade.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce was built up during the last decade when American trade throughout the world was making rapid progress. The Government sent trade commissioners to many nations on the same principle which prompted it to subsidize the American merchant marine to carry the commerce of this country to all ports of the world. It was a promotion movement. All commercial nations engage in similar activities. For example, one chief job of the Prince of Wales is to advertise British products in foreign countries. The Government considered it good business to inform other countries as to the products of American farms, factories and mines. The activities of the Department of Commerce in this field undoubtedly increased foreign trade during the period from 1921 to 1929.

One of the foremost policies of the Roosevelt administration is to promote foreign trade. The State Department has announced its intention of seeking reciprocal tariff agreements with that aim in mind if Congress will give its consent. In view of that fact it seems strange that the administration would make plans to emasculate that division of the Commerce Department which is devoted to the extension of foreign as well as domestic trade.

The Department of Commerce, like most of the other administrative units, undoubtedly needs reorganization. Various agencies could probably be brought together in a more closely-knit organization for the good of the service. But it might be an expensive experiment to cut down the bureau dealing with foreign commerce at the very time when its services are most needed.

College professor bills proposing czars for agriculture, forest armies, and other emergencies are undergoing extensive repairs and alterations in the Senate carpenter shop.

BUSINESS LEADERS NEEDED

From the Railway Age.

After a long period of depression, during which the major readjustments of prices and wages required by previous conditions have been made, it becomes the function and duty of business leadership to begin the buying necessary to help revive selling, and necessary also, incidentally, to put industrial plants in condition for the efficient and economical conduct of production and commerce. Buying by many industrial companies heretofore has been hindered by banking conditions and consequent inability to get the means for buying, but banking conditions have now improved.

Another elementary economic fact that competent business leadership will recognize is that a dollar invested is just a dollar invested, whether it is invested by its owner in a private business, or collected in taxes by the government from a private individual or business and invested in some kind of public works, and that if in either case it is invested unproductively it will be just so much capital lost.

Throughout the recent period of prosperity there was an orgy of government spending predicated more or less consciously upon the assumption that the more government took in taxes from the public and spent, the more it would increase prosperity, regardless of what the money was spent for. It is significant that there was no general outcry from business men against excessive government expenditures and taxation during the recent years of prosperity or during the first year of the present depression. The national industrial conference board in August, 1927, published a volume entitled, "Cost of Government in the United States—1925-1926." In the foreword it said: "It is a strange reflection upon the business sense of our supposedly business-like American public that until recently even the most elementary and obvious facts regarding the total volume of taxation, public expenditure and indebtedness in our Federal, State and local governments have not been available so that the growth in the business of government could not be measured in any comprehensive and regular way from year to year." So many business men were temporarily profiting, or thought they were profiting, by excessive government expenditures that the opposition of business men generally to them could not be aroused until they had helped to bring the economic house down on the heads of everybody.

Leadership in government has increased and improved. Whether it will continue to be better remains to be seen. Unless, however, those who have secured positions of business leadership actually lead, both in exerting a healthy influence on government policies affecting business, and in solving the economic problems of the country, they can not reasonably complain about government policies that hurt business.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: Today I received a letter from an able and well-trained woman whose heart is bitter because of the things life has done to her.

Like others who have lived above reproach, she now observes the prosperity of the wicked and resents the injustice that has rewarded her virtue with poverty.

Many times in your life, if you live decently and have your share of trouble, you will feel cheated as she does. Even now you wonder if goodness pays. And thus it becomes my duty to clear your mind of three common misconceptions.

In the first place, your premise is wholly wrong.

You assume that certain people are "good" and others "bad." But as a man thinketh in his heart so is he—and you can't see into human hearts. The ones you think bad because of certain unlawful acts may be relatively pure in heart, and the ones who seem good may be filled with malice, secret lusts and all uncharitableness.

In the second place you err in assuming that heaven has anything to do with man's money-making.

If money represented man's highest attainment and earth's greatest good a just heaven might enrich the righteous and impoverish the wicked. But it is man's soul that matters, and his wealth or poverty is no more significant than his height or rank or the color of his hair.

Money-making is a knack, aided by chance. The wicked could make as much if they were good; the good who are poor could make no more if they were bad.

The good man is fooling himself when he says, "I might have been rich if I had been as wicked as some I know." It would be as sensible to say, "If I had been wicked I might have been a famous tenor."

It isn't virtue that denies one man the talent or luck given to another.

And, finally, if wickedness would assure you wealth—which it wouldn't—you couldn't change yourself to win it.

Our one motive is desire. It makes us what we are. The good man isn't good against his will. Like the wicked man, he did at all times the thing he preferred to do. If he refused a chance to get money dishonestly it was because at that moment he desired a good reputation and safety more than he desired money.

Never regret decency. Being as you are, you couldn't have gained anything by being less decent. And don't blame the world for your choice if you did as you wished to do. Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Roosevelt and the Farm Bill.

Kansas City Times.

President Roosevelt, in submitting his farm plan to Congress, made this very significant statement:

"I tell you frankly that this is a new and untrod path. * * * If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

This statement gave another striking "line" on the new President. It denoted an open mind. Broadly speaking, it indicated that President Roosevelt is not to be bound by pride of authorship or record of commitment. He has assumed leadership with boldness and confidence, but not as one who thinks himself infallible.

The farm bill is, in fact, a "new and untrod path." It is an experiment on a vast and highly involved scale. Being what it is, should not its submission to Congress also be, frankly, an experiment, with the invitation to its best informed members to scrutinize and, if possible, improve its provisions?

A New Deal at Home.

Houston Post.

The National Government is moving with admirable speed to get the country on the road back to prosperity. Having checked the deflation suddenly and sharply it is now busily launching one project after another to put agriculture and industry back on their feet and to provide badly needed jobs.

Without its leadership the country would have been helpless to combat the desperate situation into which it had fallen. But that does not mean that we should look to Washington to do everything. It will have done its full part when it starts the ball rolling. It will then be up to the people, in the States, on the farms and in the cities, to keep it rolling.

One hopes that our legislative leaders would realize that the public's demand for a balanced budget doesn't mean the bringing up of receipts to balance expenditures. The public's demand means the bringing down of expenditures to balance receipts.

Following the Leader.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Representative John D. Clarke, of New York, said of the Administration farm relief bill: "Filled with horrors and hellishness as it is, I'm going to support the President." It can not be doubted that this typifies the logic of most congressmen who are voting for the farm bill. One after another they rose to explain their votes. Most of them did not find words as vivid as Mr. Clarke's, but nearly all had the same idea.

The farm bill, a major plank in the Roosevelt platform, gives no evidence that it will work out in practice. It shows every indication of being very costly. It opens the way to reckless experimentation. It gives a Cabinet officer the powers of a dictator, even greater than were exercised over prices during war time. It approves in advance any taxes on the necessities of life which the dictator chooses to impose.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Helping Farmer by Taxing Other People Will Not Help.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the fact that sixteen years of my life were lived on a farm and that I am personally familiar with the long hours of toil necessary to produce the crops, I believe I can make the following remarks without being considered unsympathetic toward the farmer.

Ever since I can remember, the farmers have been the special proteges of both political parties insofar as promises are concerned. Although these promises are seldom fulfilled, the farmers have still retained their confidence and are now beginning to believe that they are entitled to privliges which are denied to other American citizens. Now, this is unfair because there is no difference between the farmers and any other class of citizens. The city man, whether he be an artisan, clerk or lawyer, is involved in the struggle to earn a living, the same as the farmer is.

During the war period and until the beginning of the depression the farmers lived well and spent their money for automobiles, radios and other luxuries, the same as the rest of us. All of us lived beyond our incomes and entered into contracts which we now find difficult to pay. We shall admit that the farmer is hit hard by the depression. But who isn't? What about the clerks and the artisans and the business men who have had their wages and incomes reduced? What about the thousands of men who have no jobs of any kind? Shall these citizens be forced to pay more for their food and clothing in the form of taxes in order to improve the condition of the farmers, who are in as good circumstances as the former and who were far better off in the boom period? Are not we all alike? Why penalize one class in order to give another class an advantage to which it is not entitled? Any laws passed by the Congress looking toward the relief of the farmer will merely serve to prolong this depression. Not even prosperity for the farmer can be legislated. Economic laws will prevail in the end and all of us had just as well become reconciled to that fact.

I. WEBSTER TAYLOR.

Sarcastic Queries as to Possible Features of the New Beer Regime.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Capricornus to the fore! Beer by April 7! Bock by Easter! It will be most interesting to the "drys" to watch this parade of the "wets." Several things will attract their attention. What kind of a place will be opened from which to dispense the flow of 3.2 beer and wine? What hours of the 24 will it be "open for business?" Will children, as of yore, be permitted to go there with a tin pail for a "bucket of suds," thus bringing back the good old days? Will the brewers be careful to supply 3.2 goods only, or will they put one over on Uncle Sam and make it more? Will the dispensers also have a little "hard stuff" within reach, so that a customer who wants a "man's drink" need not go away thirsty? Will there be a drawing room or "lady's parlor" attached to these refreshment stands so that the softer sex may not be denied the joys of equal rights with their brothers? Will the brewers be the real owners of these "sales depots," as in saloon days, so that the bartenders will be forced to push sales or be fired? Will the States and communities which do not want the alcoholic flood let loose in their territories be able to protect themselves?

This list of queries might be extended to an even dozen, but it will do as a starter. Answers will appear forthwith after the first bugle blast announcing "It's here!"

ARTHUR GIBSON MORSE.

Objects to Use of "Dictatorship" in Referring to Emergency Powers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I believe it is about time you newspaper people began to taboo the word "dictatorship," financial or otherwise. You should be ashamed to use that word in connection with the United States Government. It causes the people to become callous and indifferent to self-government. It is one thing to give a President extraordinary powers to meet an emergency, such powers to cease immediately that such emergency is met, and it is quite another thing to give a dictatorship. Now undo the harm you have already done by using that abominable word.

PURPOSEFUL DAY.

Scraping and scrimping and saving,
And a little bit better behaving.
For people with too much of leisure
To spend on their own selfish pleasure,
Ere their years of contentment grow double
Are apt to be neck-deep in trouble.

It's standing to cold, cruel weather
That holds kin and comrades together,
Who follow the gay, flowery courses
Are apt to run into divorces
And pathways deep-mired with uncleanness
And hatred and malice and meanness.

It's planning and dreaming and toiling
That keeps love and wedlock from spoiling.
It's suffering and heartache and sorrow
That bids us stand fast till tomorrow,
And therefore the difficult test times
In the end may perhaps be the best times.

The Meanderer

Begins Once More With Spring Flowers; Lists Sea Foods, New Powdered Soups, and Other New and Old Foods.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

The pink of peach blossoms has joined the long-branched, spring-like beauty of the graceful yellow forsythia in filling the entrance to a market on K street with beckoning color. Prices are low for the bunches of these cheering blossoms. There, too, are the brilliant faces of pansies, selling on their plants at 4 for 25 cents.

Potted jonquils were packed into the motor cars that brought products from nearby farms in Maryland to the farm women's market on upper Wisconsin avenue. These freshly potted plants are having many buyers today. In another market operated by farm women on the old Georgetown road and in Takoma Park, cut gladioli are just 39 cents a dozen, and plants for rock gardens are attracting buyers, as are the hollyhocks listed by the Meanderer this week.

Lenten menu planners should know about the fresh shad, trout, rockfish, sea bass, large perch, halibut, oysters and soft crabs that the Meanderer found in the offerings of a leading sea food merchant. The soft crabs are the first available this season for Washington tables.

Powdered soups may furnish the "something different" that all appetites crave at this season. From the new packages of powdered soups at 15 cents each a variety of appetizing servings may be quickly and economically prepared. The varieties in this new kind of soup, sold in a well-known Fourteenth street grocery, include asparagus, oxtail, mock turtle, green pea, yellow pea, potato, celery, mushroom and lentil.

The piles of fresh dandelion greens that the Meanderer saw in outside stands of a big K street market must be listed right here with Smithfield jowls, that are considered excellent accompaniments for any kind of greens. The jowls sell in the Fourteenth street grocery mentioned just above.

Famous Chianti wine vinegars, true imports, sell in raffia-covered pint and quart sizes, 35 cents and 50 cents, respectively, on an Italian food importer's stand in a downtown market.

Julienne potatoes, ready to serve, are sold in cans at 15 cents each. Juliennes, to the unitiated, are much like the more familiarly termed shoestring potatoes.

Sassafras belongs on the spring marketing lists of some health-wise shoppers. And sassafras is heralding spring as definitely if not as appealingly, as are spring flowers. It sells in many markets, usually in stands outside big markets, in small bunches at from 15 cents up.

Asparagus for as little as 30 cents a bunch, about half its price in early March; seedless grapefruit and oranges; lima beans at not more than 50 cents a quart; pokeberry roots for salad; alligator pears at the slightly lower price of 30 cents; famous soft spreading cheese at 19 cents a package, or three packages and a complimentary cheese dish of deep blue and white glass for 57 cents; and strawberries for 30 cents a quart are additional food discoveries for this week on the Meanderer's list.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

GOOD CHEESE TAKES THE CAKE FOR MAKING MANY DISHES TASTY

By ANN BARRETT

WHEN in doubt, apply cheese! This, women are discovering, is a slick and easy way to add flavor to all sorts of dishes. From soup to those great big, gorgeous cheese cakes that send folks (including Mme. Schumann-Heink) into oh's and ah's of praise.

Now is a good time to put this to a test. For cheese (being full of nourishment) is an ideal Lenten food for those who may be eating less meat.

Take cheese in soups, for example. You likely know that a generous grating of Parmesan or American cheese adds to the glory of most any soup—from one as delicate as cream of asparagus or celery to soup as out-and-out flavorsome as the Italian minestrone or the French onion soup.

But here's a soup recipe that uses cheese as the main ingredient. And is it good!

Cream of Cheese Soup.

Easy to make, too. First heat 3 cups of milk with 1 teaspoon minced onion to boiling point in top of double boiler. Beat up an egg with ½ teaspoon salt, and a few grains each of red and white pepper. Stir a few tablespoons of the hot milk into the egg. Then return this to the rest of the milk in the double boiler, and cook several minutes, stirring constantly. Next add ¾ cup of good, flavorsome American cheese (grated or shaved very thin). Continue cooking (stirring constantly) till cheese is melted. Don't let the mixture boil, but serve very hot, with a handful of crisp, brown croutons bobbing about in each bowl.

De Luxe Supper Dish.

Scalloped dishes you can hardly think of without cheese. Scalloped cabbage, cauliflower, tomatoes—juicy inside, and all crisp and cheesy on top.

Here's such a dish. Chockful of tasty ingredients, yet gaining still more flavor from the cheese.

This starts with ½ cup of flaked finnan haddie (you can buy it canned). Let this stand on the back of the stove in hot milk to cover for about 5 minutes. Then combine it with 2 cups cooked rice, 2 hard-cooked eggs (diced). Next melt 4 tablespoons butter, add to it ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika and ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard. Stir this into the first mixture with ¼ cup soft American cheese (chopped or ground). Last, turn this mixture into a greased baking dish, sprinkle it with another ¼ cup cheese, dot it with butter, and put it into a fairly hot oven (375 F.) just long enough to brown. Broiled tomatoes or tomato salad would keep good company with this.

Those Gorgeous Cheese Cakes.

I could go on and on, showing how folks are "cheesing it" in salads, appetizers, sandwiches. But I want to be sure to get in a recipe for cheese cake—that grand concoction the Germans are so adept at making. So I'll start right now on the ins and outs of having this cake perfect—crumbling rich and fluffy inside, and all bound 'round with a soft brown crust that's good enough to eat by itself.

This crust may be made of pastry, matzos, sweet dough. But mostly it's made of zwieback, like this: Roll your zwieback (you buy them in packages) very fine. You'll need about 2½ cups of these crumbs for a medium-size (8-inch) cake. Then cream 3 tablespoons butter with 3 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Work in the zwieback crumbs thoroughly, then work in 1 egg slightly beaten. Next butter an 8-inch spring form, press the zwieback mixture well up against sides and bottom. Then you're ready for the filling. (Any round, deep cake pan will do for this, but a spring form is best because the sides may be removed, leaving the delicate cake on the bottom of the pan, from which it may be served safely.)

Cheese Cake Filling.

For the filling, first rub 2 cups cottage cheese through a sieve. Add 4 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons cream, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat with spoon till ingredients are well blended. Then fold in stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Turn this mixture into pan lined with zwieback, sprinkle the top with zwieback crumbs, and bake in a slow oven (about 325 F.) for about an hour, or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Since this cake is really a custard, it's very important to bake it in a slow oven—not hotter than 350 at the most. It should be cooled slowly, too. A good way to do this is to leave it right in the oven for an hour or so after it's baked—with the heat turned off and the door open.

Of course there are many delicious variations of this cake, such as adding nuts and fruit. These, along with recipes for different crusts, and a number of good cheese dishes for the main part of the meal, are all in our new cheese bulletin. Today's Recipe

Breaded Veal Cutlets.

1½ pounds veal cutlets
1 egg
2 tablespoons cold water
1½ cups rolled crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons fat
½ cup water

Wipe cutlets with damp cloth. Cut into serving pieces, removing bones. Dip in crumbs and then in egg which has been mixed with water. Roll again in crumbs. Pat crumbs in place so that they will not easily fall off during cooking. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Heat fat in frying pan. Add and quickly brown veal. Add water. Cover; cook 50 minutes over moderate fire. Turn frequently to allow even cooking.

TASTY, ECONOMICAL DESSERT WINS PRIZE

'Depression Baked Custard' Recipe Awarded $5 in Post Contest.

An economical and nutritious dessert can be prepared from the recipe which was judged winner of this week's $5 prize in The Post contest, a feature of the weekly food and home economics page. The ingredients were purchased from A. & P. stores.

The formula is for "Depression Baked Custard." It was submitted by Mrs. Ellen Fitzhugh Wanamaker, of 2519 Ontario road northwest.

The recipe follows:

2 cupfuls milk
1 egg
2 tablespoonfuls granulated sugar
Pinch of salt
Grated nutmeg to flavor

Scald the milk. Break egg in a bowl and beat slightly. Add sugar, salt and nutmeg. Stir all together. Pour the scalded milk on mixture and stir lightly. Pour all into buttered pan or small cups. Place in larger pan half full of boiling water and bake in moderate oven.

Do not let the water boil while baking. The custard is done when a knife inserted comes out clean. The custard should be firm and velvety in texture.

Late Stocks' Improvement Holds Losses to Fraction

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Stocks groped through a dull market today, improving in the afternoon after a mild morning reaction. Fractional variations prevailed at the close; the average net change was a small loss. Volume fell to 642,970 shares.

Improvement in wheat, which Chicago grain trade source reported stimulated by the Senate's proposed substitute for the House's farm bill, found shares quietly responsive, though the market's lethargy suggested that Wall street had retired to the sidelines pending legislative developements affecting farm products, railroads and relief. United States Government obligations softened; so did loans of France and Germany.

Rail stocks were again firm and several leaders showed small net gains. Louisville & Nashville and Delaware & Hudson rose a point. Union Pacific behaved erratically, but was half a point higher at the finish. Beer issues moved upward and farm implements followed wheat. A number of utilities and industrials, notably American Telephone, Allied Chemical and American Can, sagged. U. S. Steel nearly recovered a decline of about a point. Tobaccos steadied. Corn Products, whose directors noted a regular dividend of 75 cents was off a shade, along with U. S. Smelting which also gets another regular quarterly payment of 25 cents. New York City Tractions improved on unification developments.

The market paid virtually no attention to the strikingly favorable Central Bank statements which showed an enormous reduction in currency circulation with a correspondingly large gain in gold reserves, a sharp rise in the reserve ratio and a sweeping decline for member bank borrowings. It was interesting to see that comparatively little of the new Federal Reserve Bank note issue has been required and that printing of this money has ceased.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thur.
Advances	123	327
Declines	217	86
Unchanged	123	87
Total issues	463	500

Stocks.

Traders groped through a dull session. Late improvements held losses to an average of one-tenth of a point. Rail issues were firm. Sales totalled 642,970 shares.

Bonds.

Federal and German loans led the market lower. The average loss was one-tenth of a point. Sales turnover decreased to $9,824,000.

Curb.

The market drifted until late trading, when prices firmed. Volume of sales dwindled to 100,000 shares. Utilities were under scattered pressure.

Wheat.

Values gained on further buying inspired by plans for a substitute farm bill. Corn and oats joined the advance. May wheat sold at 51⅞ to 52 cents.

Cotton.

Trading was quiet, but prices advanced again on trade buying and covering. May sold at 6.37, with the general market up 2 to 4 points. Liverpool houses offered a small amount of cotton in New York.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for March 22 were $128,875,878.12; expenditures, $35,193,-694.33; balance, $541,766,511.35. Customs duties for 22 days of March were $11,-423,999.05.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Profit taking in British funds and German bonds and good support of Kaffirs and oil shares were the features of a quieter session on the stock exchange today. Some individuals hardened, while transatlantic issues eased on unfavorable Wall street advices. The closing was irregular.

Paris—After light gains had been registered on yesterday's strengthening in Wall street, prices on the bourse turned irregular, fluctuating slightly. The market closed irregular.

Berlin—The tone of the boerse was firmer and more cheerful, but the close was a trifle weaker.

Mellon, 78, Back But Not to Retire

Returns on Birthday After London Service; Will "Meddle" in Business.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, private citizen now, after serving his country for twelve years, came back to America today "glad to be free" of the cares of public office.

But although today was his seventy-eighth birthday, the erect former Ambassador to Great Britain made it clear he has no thoughts of pursuing an inactive life.

"There will be plenty to interest me," he said. "I'll meddle in business when I feel like it."

Back in Pittsburgh he has a business empire—corpbrations in which his family and close friends dominate—with assets above the $3,000,000,000 mark, even at 1933 prices.

Glass Factory Calls 110 To Work on Beer Bottles

Kane, Pa., March 24 (A.P.).—The Marienville Glass Co., of Marienville, today called back 110 employes to start making beer bottles.

Fires will be lighted under the company's tanks Monday and all of the men are to be at work April 1, officials said. Three shifts will be used to produce an estimated 450 gross bottles a day. The plant has been idle since February.

BOND MARKET SAGS AS U. S. ISSUES DROP

German Loans Also Join Losses; Sales Cut to $9,824,000.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—The bond market was depressed today by further softness of United States Government securities and a rather sharp break in German obligations.

Trading in other listed loan categories was usually indifferent. It was punctuated by some feeble rallies generally followed by moderate relapses. Most transactions were of the half-hearted kind that resulted in unimportant fractional changes. Sales totaled only $9,824,000, par value, with the Government section accounting for nearly $3,000,000. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was off one-tenth of a point.

The Federals showed little inclination toward recovery, apparently ignoring an excellent Federal Reserve statement disclosing further dehoarding of gold and currency and a heavy reduction during the past week of member bank borrowings. One reason given for the drifting tendency of Government loans was that some banks, now in the hands of conservators, might be liquidating portions of their portfolios, another was that apprehension persisted concerning possible large Federal bond flotations for farm and unemployment relief. In addition there was some uncertainty as to forthcoming refunding plans.

The Treasuries were somewhat heavily traded for losses ranging from six thirty-seconds to twenty-nine thirty-seconds of a point. Liberty fourth 4¼s escaped with only a decline of two thirty-seconds of a point.

German bonds of all classes slumped 1 to more than 6 points, several of them selling around their lows for the year. Weakness of this group was attributed partly to political complexities surrounding the new Hitler regime and to fears that the country's foreign debt charges might have to be reduced if the trade balance showed further signs of decreasing. Private messages from representatives of New York banking houses in Berlin indicated no change in the status of dollar bonds was contemplated, at least for the next few months.

Prices in other foreign loan groups were spotty. The bonds of France were off 1¼ to 1¾ points, and the Belgians lost a point or more. At the same time British, Australian, Italian and Danish issues firmed.

Of the domestic groups, the secondary rails rallied sufficiently to hold a small average gain. The utility and industrial average, however, sagged.

Breweries in 37 States Plan Expenditures of $65,000,000

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—L. Seth Schnitman, chief statistician of the F. H. Dodge Corporation, estimated today more than $65,000,000 will be spent in the next few months for new breweries and for alterations and additions to old ones.

The estimate was based on reports from 37 States east of the Rockies, and on statistical calculation for the Far Western States.

The figure did not include expenditures for building and rehabilitating retail estbalishments. It covered only a small proportion of the sums to be spent for brewery equipment, and none of the other expenses incidental to starting the brewery industry. The total has been estimated by the United States Brewers Association at $400,000,000.

Schnitman said 170 reports of brewery construction had been received since December 1, covering 37 Eastern States. The total for these States was $58,000,000, and he believed another $7,000,000 at least would be required for the Western States.

In the Pittsburgh area $6,000,000 will be spent on 36 projects. This district includes the western half of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Included in the list were one project for $500,000 and one for $200,000 for Columbus, Ohio; six in Cincinnati, ranging from $65,000 to $250,000; one $300,000 and another $100,000 construction for Louisville, Ky.; a $150,000 job at Canton, Ohio; one for $100,000 at Sandusky, Ohio, and three for $150,000, $50,000 and $50,000, respectively, for Cleveland.

In the Central Northwest, including Minnesota, North and South Dakota, there were six building programs for a total of $1,500,000. Minneapolis had two, one for $200,000 and another for $100,000; St. Paul had two for $100,000 and $350,000. Huron, S. Dak., was listed for $100,000.

About $9,000,000 was to be spent on 35 constructions in the Chicago area, including upper Illinois, lower Wisconsin, Indiana and Iowa. Among the 35 were 2 $1,000,000 projects for Chicago, together with several smaller developments; a Milwaukee plan for $1,000,000, and at Fort Wayne, Ind., a $100,000 program.

The Middle Atlantic area, including the eastern half of Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, Washington, D. C., Maryland and Virginia, had 15 projects and was to spend $8,500,000. Baltimore was listed for two operations of $1,000,000 and $2,000,000; Washington for $1,500,000, Philadelphia for $250,000.

About $3,000,000 was listed for 17 developments in the Detroit area, $3,000,000 in the St. Louis area, $2,500,000 in the Kansas City area, $1,000,000 in New Orleans and $2,000,000 in Texas.

Among the 29 reported projects from the metropolitan area of New York, including northern New Jersey, which will spend an estimated total of $15,000,000 is a $5,000,000 operation by Jacob Ruppert, and a $2,500,000 plant by the New Amsterdam Brewing Co. Two other projects of over $1,000,000 and several smaller ones were reported.

Argentina's Corn Harvest Resumed

Wheat Planting Also Pushed as Farmers' Strike Is Suspended.

Buenos Aires, March 24 (A.P.).—The Federal Department of Rural Economics announced today that the harvesting of corn and the planting of wheat were proceeding normally with the suspension of a recent farmers' strike.

The strike was suspended several days ago by the Argentine Agrarian Federation to give the government an opportunity to deal with conditions complained of by the farmers. The department's statement said that strike activities persisted only among isolated groups.

Farmers in some provinces of Argentina struck recently after making a number of demands on the government for relief. The demands included a moratorium on debts, lower interest rates and the pegging of prices for some products.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Cotton goods continued quiet today in the unfinished cloth division, with prices barely steady. Wash goods were in better demand. Reports of rayon yarn reductions are stated to be without foundation by the largest producers, who are now curtailing operations 40 per cent. Burlaps hold steady. Wool goods continue rather slow for this period.

FLOUR MARKET.

Fight for Control Of Mines Looms

Consolidated Copper Men Plan for Battle at Meeting.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—The annual meeting of the Consolidated Copper Mines Corporation in May, it became known today, will probably be the scene of another stormy battle for control of the company.

Proxies are being sought by the present management, headed by R. W. Higgins, of Duluth, and by Howard D. Smith, former president, who was eliminated from the management at the annual meeting in May, 1932, through the successful fight of the Higgins faction.

In a letter to stockholders asking their support, Higgins stated that accountants have been employed to audit the company's books and records in New York and Nevada, but that their report is not yet available. The company has on hand about $5,000 in cash and an inventory of 9,700,000 pounds of copper. Mr. Higgins stated that the expenses of the New York office had been reduced to $10,000 from $25,000 a year.

THE METAL MARKETS.

CURB PRICES FIRM IN CLOSING TRADING

Early Undertone Is Heavy; Sales Volume Drops to 100,000 Shares.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—The curb market drifted irresolutely today. The undertone was somewhat heavy for a time in the earlier dealings, but prices stiffened a little during the afternoon. Volume fell off to 100,000 shares, compared to 120,000 in the previous session.

Utilities were again under scattered pressure. Commonwealth Edison dipped 3 points in light dealings. Such issues as American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share and Niagara Hudson sagged fractions, then recovered. In the oils Gulf and Humble sagged about ½ point, while Indiana held barely steady. The luster seemed to be off the gold mining issues. There was little activity in the group, and Lake Shore lost a fraction.

Industrials were mixed. Safety Car Heating, which plans a capital readjustment permitting sharp writedown of assets, jumped 3 points to 24 in a few odd lot deals. A. O. Smith was another stock to work higher in extremely light trading. Swift & Co. reacted a fraction, while Swift Internacional gained a point. Aluminum Co. dropped 3, then recovered 1. Deere was firm for a time, but closed unchanged. American Beverage gained a point, as did Babcock & Wilcox. General Aviation was unaffected by announcement of the plan to merge with North American Aviation and closed unchanged.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Contracts for all classes of construction during the first half of March in the 37 States east of the Rocky Mountains totaled $24,666,100, the F. W. Dodge Corporation reported today. In the corresponding period last year the awards aggregated $54,038,400. February awards totaled $52,712,300.

Exchange Firmer Against Dollars

Europe's Gold Currencies Improve; Pound Is 1 1-8 Cents Higher.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Most foreign exchanges were firm in relation to the American dollar today, although trading was relatively quiet.

With the exception of the Belgian belga, which was unchanged, the European gold currencies improved moderately. The French franc held a gain of ⅜ of a point at 3.93⅜ cents for cables, while Swiss francs were up 1 and Dutch guilders advanced 2 points.

The British pound sterling moved forward 1½ cents to a cable rate of $3.43⅝, with the Bank of England control apparently standing on the sidelines for the moment. German marks ran counter to Reich bonds by advancing 4 points, and the Scandinavians and Japanese yen were higher. Italian lire sagged, as did Shanghai taels and Mexican pesos.

New York Life Suspends Loan and Other Curbs

Earl D. Krewson, agency director for the New York Life Insurance Co. in the District of Columbia, said yesterday he had received word from President Thomas A. Bucker, of the company, stating all restrictions on loans, cash values and dividend deposits of the company are withdrawn until further notice in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

In other words, Mr. Krewson explained, normal business of the company will be resumed in these States.

Copper Sells at 5 Cents; Foreign Markets Buy

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Some domestic copper was reported sold today at 5 cents a pound, off ¼ cent from yesterday. The high early this month was 5¾ cents.

A larger volume of buying was reported in the foreign market, however, and prices there firmed to 5.025@5.10 cents from 5 cents flat on Thursday, suggesting that foreign fabricators and consumers were willing to acquire fair tonnage around present levels. The domestic demand was very small.

There was a net decrease of $700,400 in gold held under earmark for foreign account along with the arrival at San Francisco of $217,000 from China. The bank announced that $601,900 had been withdrawn for export to Portugal.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON FURTHER BUYING

Demand Ascribed to Plans for Farm Bill Change; Other Grains Up.

Chicago, March 24 (A.P.).—Brisk rallies in grain prices late today followed a buying spurt that traders ascribed to plans of a Senate substitute for the House agricultural bill.

Upturns of cereal values were in the face of the fact that export call for North American wheat was disappointing and despite talk that the technical position of the wheat market had been weakened by yesterday's sharp bulge in prices. Early losses of 1½ cents a bushel for wheat were more than wiped out, and final transactions were at the day's top figures.

Wheat closed firm, ⅛ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅜ higher; oats, unchanged to ¼ up, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to an equal advance.

Persistent commission house buying in the last hour of wheat trading today suggested to some observers that a widely known speculative leader had become aggresive on the purchase side of the market. There were indications also that extensive holdings which other traders had recently sold out were being reinstated.

Power to Recover.

Power to recover that the market displayed at this juncture was much in contrast with conditions earlier today when extreme dearth of new buying characterized the pit, and demand was confined to a few resting orders, which called for purchases on declines only.

It was temporarily without avail that friends of higher prices pointed to evidence of lessening of wheat supplies, and emphasized that crop complaints continued numerous from the domestic hard winter wheat belt, where reports said the outlook was the poorest in many years.

Assertions that United States farm and visible stocks of wheat totaled 100,000,000 bushels less than was the case a year ago were virtually ignored for the time being.

Later, however, much notice was taken of statements that immediate delivery wheat in Chicago was scarce and that milling purchases here so far this month totaled 1,275,000 bushels.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. There was an excellent shipping demand for corn. Weather conditions in the corn belt were unfavorable.

Provisions ruled irregular, responsive to changes in hog values.

Cotton Liquidation Laid to Farm Bill

Market Steadies Later in Week and Prices Rise on Futures.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Uncertainty as to the future course and final form of the proposed farm relief legislation which has passed the House and is now being considered by the Senate Agricultural Committee has been reflected by a disposition to even up commitments and await further developments in the cotton market here during the past week.

For a time during the earlier part of the period, liquidation was heavy, with May declining to 6.18, or approximately $4 per bale below the high price of the previous week and 8 points below the closing quotation of March 3.

Offerings subsided at these figures and the market steadied on trade buying and covering but no aggressive support developed on the rallies toward the end of the week.

Stocks and Grain.

The easier ruling of the stock and grain markets combined with the near month liquidation incident to the final maturing of March contracts were contributing factors on the decline, while part of the buying on the rallies later in the week were attributed to the improved technical position.

Very little Southern selling has been in evidence here, and while there have been complaints of a poor spot demand, the basis is said to have held generally steady.

Owing to wet soil in parts of the Eastern and Central belts, some further delays have been reported in farm work but on the whole coming crop preparations are said to have made rather better progress during the week.

Spring Planting Less.

In some quarters, the decrease reported in spring planting intentions with reference to crops other than cotton, have been regarded in line with the talk of some increase in cotton acreage, but it is felt the latter may be influenced by acreage stipulations in the making of crop production loans, or possibly by the passage of farm relief proposals.

The reports of the Census Bureau on total ginnings from the crop of 1932, placing the outturn at 12,703,281 running bales, or 12,994,430 equivalent 500-pound bales, was slightly above expectations but not sufficiently so to have any appreciable effect on the week's markets.

Revisions of a few hundred thousand bales either way in ideas of the end-season carryover are evidently considered of far less importance than the outcome of pending farm relief legislation and the shaping up of coming crop and trade prospects during the spring and summer.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

May Sells at 6.37 With General Market Up 2 to 4 Points.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was quiet today and prices fluctuated within a range of 6 to 8 points.

An early decline in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and near month liquidation was followed by rallies on covering and trade buying with May contracts selling from 6.30 to 6.38 and closing at 6.37. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

The opening was 2 to 5 points lower and prices eased off another few points during the early trading under liquidation and some scattered selling.

March was relatively easy, the circulation of a few notices bringing out some liquidation. There was considerable switching of both March and May to later deliveries.

Later Deliveries Firm.

May and later deliveries after showing net loss of about 2 to 5 points, held fairly steady and rallied late in the session on further trade buying and covering promoted by rallies in the grain and stock markets. October sold from 6.65 to 6.73. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

The small volume was attributed to the trade's disposition to await further developments in the farm relief program.

Houses with Liverpool connections had a little cotton for sale here during the early trading. Manchester reported a restricted inquiry for yarn and cloth with most offerings poor.

Local spot men said that mills were showing very little interest in spot cotton at the moment and were buying only in small lots for urgent requirements, but reported a generally steady to firm basis in the South. Exports today, 19,409, making 6,076,029 so far this season. Port receipts, 19,422. U. S. port stocks, 4,419,578.

Cotton Seed Oil.

Bleachable cotton seed oil was quiet today, with sales of only three contracts, or 450 barrels. The undertone was steady and final prices were 5 points net higher on September, the only month traded. Steadiness of cotton and lard and the late rally in grain were the main factors. Bleachable spot and March closed at 3.80; May, 3.94; July, 4.07; September, 4.25.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS CALLED CHEERFUL

Renewed Confidence Gives Vigor to Trade, Experts Declare.

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—The Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., Weekly Review said today that business was proceeding with more vigor and that recent anxiety has given way to a sentiment of renewed confidence.

"That the restoration of confidence nearly has been completed," said the agency, "is evident in the growing excess of deposits over withdrawals in the reopened banks, which now include more than 70 per cent of those in operation before the holiday.

"In the confusion which the uneven recovery of the last two weeks has brought with it, however, sight has not been lost of the fact that basic readjustments still are to be wrought and that, despite the strength in the commodity markets, no haste will be made to accumulate stocks of raw materials or merchandise until there is more certainty that expanded sales will have become more than a passing phase of the rebound.

"The present course seems to lead rather to the maintenance and strenthening of existing levels, as too sharp a rise would carry the possibility of a reaction equally abrupt.

"Already hesitation has appeared in some divisions because of pending farm legislation, the lack of sustained price advances in agricultural products, and the delay in reopening small banks throughout the country.

"Retail distribution has continued steady at a level slightly under the high point a week ago, with emphasis leaning to the fulfillment of long needed wants. In contrast to last week the average price of individual purchases increased appreciably.

"A real spurt in wholesale buying started this week, as the reopening of banks permitted retailers to make their deferred trips to complete purchases of Easter requirements."

RESERVE BANKS GET $500,000,000 GOLD

(Associated Press.)

A golden flood of yellow metal, banned from circulation in the United States, continued to pour into the Federal Reserve Banks during the last week, increasing their gold reserves by more than half a billion dollars for the fortnight.

As President Roosevelt's proclamation against hoarding and the emergency banking law's threat of prosecution for the crime became more widely circulated Federal Reserve Banks reported their gold reserve had mounted to $3,192,322,000, the highest point since February 15, when the reserves were $3,200,158,000.

The amount was an increase of $181,545,000 in one week and came on top of an increase of $327,000,000 the preceding week.

Cash Circulation Cut.

While the gold piled up in the vaults of the banks and the Treasury the Federal Reserve Board in its weekly statements reported that money in circulation had decreased $661,000,000 to a total of $6,608,000,000, coming on top of a decrease of $269,000,000 the week before. In the two weeks the report showed that depositors had returned nearly a billion dollars, or $885,000,000, to the banks of the country from which it had withdrawn during the panic of late February and early March.

While the gold and currency both were moving to the Government's vault a report showed that Federal Reserve notes in circulation had decreased $186,000,000 and that the new Federal Reserve Bank notes put out as emergency currency were being used in only four Federal Reserve districts. In all, only $9,269,000 of the new currency was in circulation with $5,000 in the Boston District, $8,614,000 in the New York District, $619,000 in the Cleveland District and $31,000 in the St. Louis District.

As the confidence in banks of the Nation increased, the total deposits jumped to $2,154,849,000, an increase of $31,110,000 in the week, and an increase of $202,000,000 in two weeks.

Credit Volume Down.

The report of the Federal Reserve Board showed that the daily average volume from Federal Reserve Bank credits decreased $528,000,000 as compared with the preceding week to $3,108,000,000, while the total Reserve Bank credits on March 22, amounted to $2,887,000,000, a decrease of $638,000,000 for the week.

The report showed that against the total of $3,916,342,000 of Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation, the Treasury and Federal Reserve agents held $2,563,443,000 in gold, while the total reserve of the banks amounted to $3,371,217,000.

During the week the total of discounted bills dropped from $1,232,316,000 to $670,869,000, bills bought in the open market from $403,316,000 to $352,309,000, certificates and bills from $1,008,937,000 to $983,886,000 and municipal warrants from $5,644,000 to $5,394,000.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

LISTENERS in Washington and vicinity will probably be able to hear programs originating on opposite sides of the world by tuning in on WJSV at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon and again at 12:30 a. m.

The first Russian radio program designed especially for the American audience will be broadcast from Moscow over the Columbia network, including WJSV, at 4:15 o'clock.

Originating in the studios of RW-49, the trade union station in the Soviet capital, the program will reach the United States by short-wave and be disseminated through regular network channels from New York.

The program will be divided into three parts. It will be opened by Linton Wells, American newspaper man on post in Moscow. He will introduce an English-speaking Russian announcer, who will serve as master of ceremonies.

Part I will consist of a group of five folk melodies by the Planitsky Chorus, and songs of the various nationalities making up the Soviet Union, by Irma Yaounsen.

Part II will feature examples of what Soviet Russia has been doing in the field of musical art. A group of three Tschaikowsky selections will be presented by Dershinskaya, soprano of the Moscow Grand Opera, and the State Symphony Orchestra of Moscow.

The final section of the program will mark the appearance of the Soviet Music Chorus singing "Perturbed Street" (Davidenko) and the orchestral rendition of Shekhter's "Turkmenian" suite.

There is a seven-hour time differential between Moscow and Washington. The Russian artists will be facing the microphone at 11:15 p. m., their time.

"HAWAIIAN SKETCHES," a program of typical Hawaiian music, by Joseph Kamakau's Serenaders, will be broadcast direct from Waikiki Beach, Honolulu, over WJSV, from 12:30 to 1 a. m. This feature has been arranged by Richard Haller, executive at KGMB, Honolulu, and should its transmission prove successful, "Hawaiian Sketches" will become a regular Saturday night feature.

Kamakau's Serenaders, an ensemble consisting of ten strings and a flute, will present music typical of the Hawaiian Islands.

"Government Economy" will be the topic discussed by Secretary of Commerce Roper over WJSV at 10:15 p. m.

In addition to his functions as a Cabinet member, Roper has been appointed by President Roosevelt to sit as a member of a committee of three to work out reduction of expenditures throughout the executive branch of the Government.

IT is not likely that the Silver Jubilee entertainment of the National Press Club, on Wednesday, March 29, will be broadcast. At any rate the remarks of President Roosevelt are likely to be "off the record."

John Charles Thomas and Morton Downey will be the soloists. Downey recently wrote a new song, "We're on the March," as a tribute to the President, and will sing it that night.

Jeannie Lang, heard with Tom Howard on the Musical Grocery Store broadcast, has received an invitation to the West Point spring hop signed by 35 cadets. In company with three other girls, Jeannie will travel up the Hudson to dance with each of the 35 future generals.

Gaspar Cassado's arrangement for the cello of Mozart's "Concerto for Horn" will be played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra for the first time during the concert over WMAL at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Gregor Piatigorsky will play the cello version with the orchestra. The program will open with Locatelli's "Elegiac" symphony, and the concluding selection will be Strauss' "Don Quixote," with Jean Lefranc, violinist, and Piatigorsky performing the solo parts.

The Fordham University Glee Club, recognized as one of the foremost college glee clubs in the country, will give a special half-hour concert over WRC at 4 p. m. The chorus of 60 voices is conducted by Frederic Joslyn, well-known concert and oratorio singer.

YOU never could have tuned in on them . . . If Frederick William Wile had been shot at sunrise that day in 1914 at the outbreak of the World War, when he was arrested in Berlin as a British spy.

. . . If the Coast Guard hadn't rescued Jack Smart and the crew of a small storm-tossed sailboat off Atlantic City a few years ago.

. . . If a Chinese-speaking American hadn't persuaded H. V. Kaltenborn's would-be executioners one day in 1927 in Canton, China, that he was not a Russian spy, but an American newspaper reporter.

. . . If Norman Brokenshire had not dodged that bull who was all for goring him, when "Broke" was making a movie travelogue in Cuba.

. . . If Jacques Fray hadn't been rushed to a hospital and given a transfusion after an automobile accident in the Bois du Boulogne, Paris, in 1927.

. . . If the runaway horse at the Halifax Agricultural Show hadn't jumped over the prostrate form of Channon Collings, who was knocked down by a woman running away from the horse.

. . . If Kate Smith's flivver hadn't bounced happily instead of going into a spin the day she was hit by a trolley car in Washington six years ago.

. . . If Nino Martini hadn't had a hunch which led him to step gingerly over some live wires across his path that had been knocked down by a German bombing plane during the war.

SATURDAY MARCH 25, 1933 SPORTS

NATS, PUNCHLESS IN PINCH, BOW TO CLEVELAND, 8-5

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE least embarrassed of all by his failure to hit in the spring exhibition games is none other than Leon ("Goose") Goslin, who, if his job depended on his batting average in the South, would be chief of staff in the army of the unemployed.

The Goose isn't even nettled by his strikeouts and pop-ups that have given him a grand average of something like .014 for his stick-work in the training games. When the opening gong rings on April 12 and the hits begin to count in the won and lost columns, then the Goose will be in there swinging with his old vigor. Until then, it's just a lark.

The fact of the matter is, as they say, fellows like Goslin and Manush and Sam Rice are not keen about the pitching they are asked to face in the spring games. The big league rookies and the minor leaguers who are usually toeing the mound are a bit too wild for the batters' comfort and it is much safer to stand up there and take three strikes than to risk taking a pitch in the head or other sensitive parts of the anatomy.

No Experiments When Season Starts.

When the reguar season opens, team managers will no longer be experimenting with their pitching talent and the men on the mound will have some sense of direction as well as control. It is then that the established sluggers will have their eyes attuned to the ball, while the rookies who set the hitting pace in training camp will find the pitching of the regular season something else again.

There are spring hitters as well as spring pitchers. Lloyd Brown while he was with the Nats was the outstanding example of the pitchers who were well-nigh unbeatable in the spring. And Roy Spencer was the type of hitter who invariably supplied a powerful punch in the early games of the season. During both 1931 and 1932, Spencer, a .280 hitter, was as valuable a member of the batting line-up as any of the Nats' recognized sluggers until summer set in, when he faded back to his normal pace.

The answer to this business of normal .280 hitters slugging far above their heads in the spring is undoubtedly concealed in the fact that the pitchers are slower to reach midseason form than the sluggers, except in unusual cases like that of Lloyd Brown, who apparently developed the knack of rounding into form with less preparation than is required by the bulk of the big league hurlers.

Carl Reynolds Faces Slow-ball Diet.

The Washington pitchers who don't know how to pitch to Carl Reynolds will be fully instructed by Manager Cronin when Reynolds makes his appearance with the Browns.

Reynolds' diet against Washington pitchers will be slow-ball pitching, and then some more slow-ball pitching. For Cronin was one of those hopeful Nats who sat on the bench last year while Reynolds was at bat, and registered disappointment after disappointment as Reynolds went down weakly before the slow balls tossed by the opposition pitchers.

Reynolds' weakness against the slow ball was always a source of mystery to Walter Johnson, who contended that Reynolds, as strictly an arm-and-wrist hitter, should be the most difficult to fool with slow stuff. Unlike the Ruth-Gehrig-Foxx type of slugger, who swing from the shoulder, Reynolds is not set for each pitch, but is able to check his swing at short notice. Yet he continued to offer at slow ones with disastrous results. Unlike Goslin, who was fed so many slow balls he eventually learned to hit them well, Reynolds has been unable to cure his weakness.

The new spring snap brim Homburg is bound to win . . . it's a d'Orsay curl with a bound edge to give it a snappier snap. Ask the university boy; he's wearing it now because he's usually a year ahead of time. Gray or brown, that's the color scheme!

Godwin Lasts Only Four Rounds

Opens Deep Cut Over Southerner's Eyes, Hurt in Training.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., March 24 (A. P.).—Maxey Rosenbloom, slapstick star of Harlem, won the light-heavyweight championship of the world beyond all question tonight when he scored a technical knockout in four rounds over Bob Godwin, of Daytona, Fla., hitherto recognized by the National Boxing Association as the 175-pound titleholder.

The bout was a farce from a competitive standpoint and Referee Pete Hartley was forced to stop the contest after 1 minute and 16 seconds of the fourth when a deep cut in Godwin's left eyebrow was bleeding so badly it was dangerous to let him continue.

Godwin Enters Ring With Eyes Taped.

Godwin came into the ring with white tape plastered over both eyebrows, hiding deep cuts suffered in training, and it was no trick at all for the clever Rosenbloom to slap away the covering and open the wounds afresh.

A slim crowd of about 9,000 booed the fiasco heartily, though Godwin, considering the disadvantages he labored under, fought back gamely.

He was floored twice in the first round with left hooks to the body. He came up without a count the first time and took only three the second time, and did not appear hurt by either blow.

From the start Godwin, who won N. B. A. recognition by defeating Joe Knight in West Palm Beach, Fla., March 1, made a desperate effort to protect his damaged eyes by keeping in close to Rosenbloom, who only two weeks ago tonight successfuly defended his New York title against the assault of the rugged German puncher, Adolph Heuser.

Rosenbloom Proves Too Clever.

But Rosenbloom, entirely too smart for the Southerner although he seemed to be trying to avoid the cut eyes rather than take advantage of Godwin's injury, could not help hitting him occasionally above the eyes.

After sticking to Bob's body through the first round, while even a couple of light left jabs stained the tap coverings crimson, Maxey took a few more shots at the head in the third and fourth and there was nothing for Hartley to do but call a halt. What few punches Maxey, never known as a heavy hitter, did land to the face in the first two rounds, also opened cuts in Godwin's cheeks below the eyes.

The victory left Rosenbloom alone at the top of the light-heavyweight division that has not known an undisputed champion since the day Loughran stepped down to fight heavyweights three years ago.

Rosenbloom, a 3-to-1 favorite in the betting, had a weight advantage of 5½ pounds. He weighed in at 172¾. Godwin scaled only 167¼.

College Sports Group Quits Rules Committee

New York, March 24 (A.P.).—The National Collegiate Athletic Association today withdrew its representatives from the joint basket ball rules committee and announced it would set up a rules-making body of its own to legislate for all schools and colleges.

The move, said H. H. Salmon, jr., an N. C. A. A. representative on the joint committee, was in conformity with the N. C. A. A.'s policy of having its "delegates on rules committees legislate only with respect to intercollegiate and interscholastic sports."

The joint rules committee, in the past, has consisted of 36 members, representing the N. C. A. A., the Y. M. C. A., and the A. A. U. It was said the N. C. A. A. felt the large membership made the organization unwieldy.

Misses Wall-Orcutt In North-South Final

Pinehurst, N. C., March 24 (A.P.). Bernice Wall, blonde Oshkosh (Wis.) player, today kept the final of the women's North and South golf championship from being a meeting of Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, and Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., for the second straight year by ousting the Missouri golfer, 4 and 3, in the semifinals.

Miss Orcutt, the defending champion, turned loose a brilliant array of strokes, to equal men's par on the No. 3 course here and turn back Miss Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., 7 and 6.

The Orcutt-Wall championship match tomorrow will be the fourth clash between this pair. The New Jersey girl has won all previous contests.

Hoppe Increases Lead In Cochran Match

Chicago, March 24 (A.P.).—Willie Hoppe, of New York, continued to increase his lead over Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, world's three-cushion billiard champion, tonight in their 600-point 12-block three-cushion billiard challenge match, when he won the tenth block, 50 to 48 in 54 innings. Hoppe has now won six of the ten blocks thus far played and leads in total points, 500 to 443 in 469 innings. The two final blocks will be played tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Hurst, Holdout, Leaves Phillies

First Baseman Heads for Hollywood and Work in the Movies.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 24 (U. P.).—Don Hurst, star first baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, made good on his word today and became a holdout. Unable to compel the Phillies to agree to his salary demand, he loaded his family into his automobile and headed for Hollywood, where, he said, he had "worked in the movies before, and where I hope to find work again."

Hurst said, however, that he hoped the club would agree to his terms or that it would trade him.

"I will not play semipro ball," he said, "because I do not want to be blacklisted."

Gerry Nugent, Phillies president, withheld comment, as did Manager Burt Shotton.

Gus Dugas, youngster obtained in a trade with Pittsburgh last summer, has been groomed for first base in Hurst's absence and his play has been one of the features of the Phillies' exhibition games.

Investigation, Griffiths in Victories

Ft. Washington Bows, 32-18; Clovers Lose, 33-27, at Tech.

CHAMPIONS of the 145-pound division several years ago, Lazzeri's Clovers made their bid for the unlimited District A. A. U. title in the tournament sponsored by The Post at Tech High School, last night, but were thrust back by a more experienced Griffith-Consumers quintet, 32-27, in a bitterly contested fray.

The game featured an interesting four-game program, which saw Bethesda-Chevy Chase girls enter the finals in the junior girls class by virtue of a 37-19 triumph over the Georgetown A. C., while Mount Rainier outclassed Christ Child in the 130-pound class by a score of 28-22. And bringing up the rear came U. S. Bureau of Investigation, which came from behind to snatch the victory from Fort Washington by a count of 32-18.

The Sleuths started off in reverse gear and Fort Washington assumed a commanding lead of 1- to 3 soon after the fray opened. Though the margin was not as great, the Soldiers were still ahead when the lunch whistle blew, this time by a count of 13 to 8.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase amassed a substantial lead of 16-8 in the first half, with Lee and Winkler leading the attack. Lee contributed 14 points to the score and Winkler scored 19. Griggs, with 10 points, was the leading scorer for Georgetown.

Bethesda's teamwork was flawless. It worked its plays with the skill of experts and Georgetown was unable to check the advance.

Mathias Leads Attack.

Foster Mathias captained the Mount Rainier attack against a fighting Christ Child quintet. Mathias worked the ball in close for frequent snowbirds and he sank six field goals to lead both teams in scoring.

Christ Child appeared to be outclassed in the first half, which ended with the Northeast tossers on the short end of a 14-8 score, but they refused to quit and were battling tooth and nail at the final whistle.

Tom Peck blinked his scoring eye a couple of times, much to the dismay of the Clovers, and started the Griffs on their way to victory. Peck caged the leather for five field goals and two fouls, a total of 12 points, to lead the scoring.

A couple of years ago the Clovers, playing under St. Peter's Church colors, captured the 145-pound championship, and for a time it looked like they were going places in the unlimited class. But the Griffs were a trifle too cagey for them.

Charley McVean and Barney Kane were outstanding for the Clovers.

KILBY WINS BOYS' BOUT.

Ed Kilby's superior infighting gained the decision for him over Sonny Jasme, K. of C. boxer, in the feature bout of a show presented before a capacity audience last night at the Northeast Boys Club.

60 pounds, Jack McElfish defeated Leonard Giuffreda; 70 pounds, Charlie Justice defeated Bernard Sotasky; 75 pounds, Tony Cattila defeated Drew Merrick; 85 pounds, Pat Cecchina defeated Mike Tule; 125 pounds, Whitey France defeated Charlie Winthers; 125 pounds, Reds Hewitt defeated Smyrnas; 140 pounds, Al Weisgerber defeated Powell; 112 pounds, Ed Kilby defeated Sunny Jasme; 160 pounds, Harold Weisberger knocked out George Beach, second round.

No Weak Spot Apparent on Yankees

McCarthy Well Set for '33 in Regulars and Reserves.

Same Stars at Hand; 14 Pitchers Wait Call to Duty.

JOE McCARTHY, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, finds but one problem weighting down his squat shoulders as he grooms the greatest club in baseball for another all-conquering drive. He can put only nine men on the ball field at one time.

From Babe Ruth, happy and back in the fold with a salary of $52,000 a year after the most protracted holdout session of his nineteen years in the majors, down through Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Lefty Gomez, Tony Lazzeri, Charley Ruffing, Earle Combs and Johnny Allen, the list sparkles with some of baseball's greatest stars.

Behind them, relentlessly on the trail, loom a horde of eager, talented youngsters, who might shine even as the veterans do, if the same chance to play regularly was theirs.

Major League Outfield Warming Bench.

No one could ask more than an outfield that boasts Ben Chapman, the Alabama Antelope, in left field; Earle Combs, of Kentucky, in center, and the slow but still fabulous Ruth in right.

Yet waiting a chance, pining on the bench, is another major league outfield in Sammy Byrd, Ruth's right field understudy; Myril Hoag, with the smallest feet in baseball, a .370 hitter in 46 games last season yet apparently doomed to exile in Newark this summer; Dusty Cooke, back in the form he showed two years ago before smashing a shoulder diving for a ball in Washington; and Fred Walker, another .350 minor league hitter who has been playing sensationally in Florida.

As though this superfluity of talent were not perplexing enough, McCarthy has enough outstanding pitchers and promising youngsters to staff a couple of clubs.

Fourteen Pitchers Await Call.

The regulars, of course, are easy to name—Gomez, Ruffing, Pipgras, Pennock, and Johnny Allen, last year's sensation, now suffering a sore arm.

Yet the Yankees have fourteen pitchers in camp at St. Petersburg, and it's dangerous to say that any one of the rest of them isn't capable enough to make the big league grade.

There are three of the greatest pitchers in minor leagues last year—Southpaw Russell Van Atta, who won 23 and lost 15 with St. Paul; Don Brennan, who tossed 26 victories and lost 8 for the Yankee farm in Newark, the "little world champions," and Marvin Duke, another southpaw, who won 23 and lost 4 with Erie. But even they are not safe from Walter Brown, 260-pound right-hander, the veterans Wilcy Moore and Danny MacFayden, Harvard Charley Devens, Pete Jablonowski, or Jimmy Deshong, who won 19 and lost 6 last year in the Pacific Coast League.

Wherer Pressing Joe Sewell.

Gehrig, an even greater hitter today than Ruth, stands unchallenged at first base. But at second Tony Lazzeri has to contend with Eddie Farrell, and Lyn Lary, again showing his sensational form of 1931, has about ousted young Frank Crosetti from shortstop. Joie Sewell, still an ace at third base, is pressed hard by clouting Bill Werber, from Albany.

It must be a relief for the harassed McCarthy to view his catching staff, which consists of Bill Dickey, ranked the greatest in baseball, and a couple of other fellows. They are Joe Glenn and Arndt H. Jorgens. They merely vote "present" when Bill is around and in good health.

Comely Shoreham Swimmers in Richmond Meet Tonight

CHARLESTON GOLF LEAD TO HAGEN

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 24 (A. P.).—Walter Hagen, the veteran bell ram of the golfing fraternity, marched out in front tonight as the field of 70 pros and amateurs reached the halfway mark in the first annual Charleston open tournament.

Aided by his putter, "The Haig" toured the rugged Wappoo course in 69 today, 2 strokes under par, to add to his 70 of yesterday and mark up a grand total of 139.

Joe Kirkwood, trick-shot artist, led Hagen a chase all morning. When the scores were posted, Kirkwood was close behind Hagen with a 140. To get it he shot a 68, 3 under par, and the best individual performance of the day. He had a 72 yesterday.

The wind, which swept over the course yesterday, died down, and six subpar rounds were posted today. In addition to Hagen and Kirkwood, those who bettered even figures were Harry Cooper, of Chicago, with a 70; Henry Picard, of Charleston, with a 69; Craig Wood, the Deal, N. J., crack, with another 69, and Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Ridge, N. Y., with a 70.

Hambrick in Third Place Tie.

Picard, Bobby Cruickshank, of Richmond, Va., and Archie Hambrick, the sensation of the first round, were tied for third, fourth and fifth places with total scores of 143. Hambrick took a 77 to add to yesterday's brilliant 66.

Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., and Johnny Farrell, came along in a deadlock for sixth and seventh placee. Each had a 144 for the 36 holes. They were followed by Cooper, Al Espinosa, of Akron, Ohio; Willie Macfarlane, of Tucahoe, N. Y., and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of New York, who were grouped at 145.

The big surprise of the tournament so far has been Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill. Yesterday he had an 80 and his 79 today helped matters but little.

Frank Ford, the slim Charlestonian, continues in the van of amateurs. Today he shot a 75 to add to a similar score yesterday. Billy Howell, of Richmond, Va., counted on to pace the amateurs, had two more bad holes today and his 83 gave him a total of 160.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, 70—69—139.
Joe Kirkwood, New York, 72—68—140.
Henry Picard, Charleston, 74—69—143.
Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, 70—73—143.
Archie Hambrick, Zanesville, Ohio, 66—77—143.
Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 72—72—144.
Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge, N. Y., 74—70—144.
Harry Cooper, Chicago, 75—70—145.
Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio, 72—73—145.
Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 74—71—145.
Bill Mehlhorn, New York, 70—75—145.
Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., 77—69—146.
Charlie Guest, Deal, N. J., 70—76—146.
Fairley Clark, Savannah, Ga., 75—72—147.
Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., 74—73—147.
Denny Shute, Philadelphia, 74—73—147.

Predictions of Almanac Borne Out by Classic

Aintree, England, March 24 (U.P.). English folk who read with avidity the predictions of Oldmoor's Almanac were impressed with the triumph today of Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Kellsboro Jack.

"Signs show many feminine successes will be noted in the world of sports," the almanac predicted. "Some spring races, the Grand National, the Lincolnshire Handicap and the City and Suburban may be won by a woman owner.

Carolina Cup Today Draws 15-Horse Field

Vandergold, one of J. W. Y. Martin's three entries; Hotspur II, owned by Mrs. W. Austin Wadsworth, and Mrs. J. H. Whitney's San Romolo were prerace favorites, with Rhosil, owned by James Warburg, also highly regarded.

Bradenton, Fla., March 24 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby and Sparky Adams were both left at camp today when the Cardinals departed for Miami for games with the Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow and Sunday.

Hornsby was receiving electric wave treatments for his legs, which have been irritated by blisters. Manager Gabby Street wants Adams to strengthen his knee by mild exercise before he starts the quick starts and stops that are a part of the day's work in exhibition games.

LOCAL FENCERS DEFEATED.

Baltimore Y. M. C. A. fencers defeated Washington "Y" swordsmen by a score of 12-5 in a match at the Central branch last night. Competing for Baltimore were Brundage, Eckhardt, Perry, Tipton and Graham. Washington was represented by Morrill, Naiman, Dyer, Coulter and Hudlow. Miss Margaret Montgomery also gave an exhibition.

G. W. SWIMMERS FAIL.

New Haven, Conn., March 24.—D. Ghormley, of George Washington University, failed to qualify in the second heat of the 200-yard breast stroke race of the tenth annual intercollegiate swimming association tonight and Max Rote, of the same institution, failed to qualify in the trials of the 100-yard free style event.

RUTH SIGNS, HITS FIRST HOMER

Aids Yanks to Beat Braves After Contract Ritual.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 24 (U.P.).—Babe Ruth formally signed his 1933 player contract today and hit a home run.

Signing of the $52,000 document took place at Miller Huggins Field shortly before an exhibition game with the Boston Braves. Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, signed for the club, while Manager Joe McCarthey looked on. Also watching the proceedings were batteries of sports writers and news cameramen.

"I have had three ambitions in baseball," Ruth said. "The first was to play for 20 years and I am doing that this year. The second was to play in 10 world series and I did that last fall. The third was to hit 700 home runs in American League games. I hope to hit 46 this year and make it 700."

Babe Needs 48 Homers.

Babe's arithmetic was slightly faulty as he needs 48 homers this season to reach the 700 mark.

Ruth's first home run of the season came off the pitching of Bobby Brown while Fred Walker was on base. It was the first homer hit by a Yankee against major league pitching this season. It cleared the right field fence with yards to spare.

The Yanks defeated the Braves 7-1. George Pipgras and Wilcy Moore held the Braves to three hits, combined. A two-base error coupled with a single in the fourth inning gave the Braves their tally.

The Yankees announced today that they would play an exhibition game with Yale University at New Haven, Conn., April 11.

Nationals Held to 6 Hits; Schulte Fans With Bases Full.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 24.—Those incurable supporters of the Washington baseball team, who have long since awarded it the 1933 pennant, must brace themselves for a mild shock. Your beloved Nationals took it on the button again today against Cleveland, 8 to 5, thus elevating their batting average against the Indians from .0 to .00.

As was pretty much the case in the game of a week ago between the two clubs, Cleveland won in the home stretch after seesawing between victory and defeat through most of the game. And as was the case in that other game, today Washington's bats turned once again to cheesecloth in the pinches, and the sight of runners dying on the bags for want of a timely base hit was indeed sorrowful to behold. Alas, 13 in all. The Nats made only 6 hits.

Schulte Strikes Out With Bases Full.

One such holacaust might bear retelling. In the eigth inning after Cleveland had manufactured a 7-5 lead, Washington filled the bases with two out. First one was Heinie Manush, who took one of Howard Craghead's inshoots on the shoulder. Then Goose Goslin, who had been reenacting his patented weak-roller-to-second act all afternoon, came through with his first clean hit in a week. Cronin walked, loading the bases to the gills. And the mighty Schulte took three lusty swings that came no closer to the ball than Babe Ruth's belt buckle is to his rear suspender hitch.

Although the Nats made quite a few belligerant gestures, and managed to tie the score on three occasions, Washington held only one lead. That came in the sixth inning, coincidental to the arrival of Eddie Linke in the box in relief of Bud Thomas. With a 4 to 4 score as a base work, Washington took the lead of 5-4, in the following manner. Forest Twogood, Peckinpaugh's rookie sensation, walked Linke and Myer. Manush beat out a scratch infield hit, filling the bases. Goslin rolled into a double play, but Linke scooted home from third while the combination of Cissell, Knickerbocker and Boss were knifing Goslin and Manush in another part of the diamond.

Linke is Wild In Seventh.

The lead was as short-lived as one of Al Schacht's whistles. Cleveland tied the score in the seventh on Averill's single plus Cissell's single and Vosmik's treacherous infield roller. The Tribe went out to win in the eighth, aided by a flurry of wildness on Linke's part. The big kid walked Kamm and Spencer, and the former came home on Porter's single and the latter on Knickerbocker's mashie shot to Manush.

Cleveland scored its last run largely as a result of two misplays by Joe Cronin. Joe's throw to Kuhel off Cissell's steaming roller was bad, and Vosmik's hot grounder went through the manager's legs like a greased pig at a county fair. Boss' long lift to Goslin scored Cissell with that last run, in case you're interested.

Bud Thomas and Linke brought a lot of the overzealous fans down here sharply to their senses as a result of their workout on the mound today. They were just rookies today, generous with the hits they allowed and the men they walked. Both showed brief flashes of power—Thomas in the first inning, by retiring the side on nine pitched balls, and Linke in the sixth, when he did the same. It was an instructive afternoon for both of them, as the sight of a losing ball game flashed before their eager eyes. The loss probably did them more good than victory—both of them have had a bit too much of that down here to suit the older heads who have the kids' best interest at heart.

U. S.-OWNED KELLSBORO JACK TRIUMPHS IN GRAND NATIONAL

British Turf Stars Trail 25-1 Shot

Bostwick's Mount Is Second to Fall; 18 of 34 Finish.

By FRANK H. LONG.

AINTREE, England, March 24 (A.P.).—Kellsboro Jack, owned by the American horsewoman, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, of New York, today won the ninety-fourth Grand National, one of the finest and most spectacular steeplechases ever run, in the record time of 9 minutes and 28 seconds.

True to Grand National traditions, it was an outsider in front when the 18 survivors of the original starting field of 34 thundered past the finish line before a crowd of between 250,000 and 300,000 spectators.

Kellsboro Jack, 7 years old, a bay gelding and Irish bred, is the third American-owned horse to win the classic steeplechase in nearly a century of racing history. He was quoted at 25 to 1 in the betting in winning for Mrs. Clark the honors that went to Stephen Sanford's famous Sergt. Murphy in 1923 and A. Charles Schwartz's Jack Horner in 1926.

Winner Never Far Behind Pace.

Never far off the terrific pace, that left Mrs. T. H. Somerville's American-bred Troublemaker far to the rear but still on his feet, the son of Jackdaw and Kellsboro Lass carried 160 pounds across the finish line with three lengths to spare over Really True, a lightweight, held at 66 to 1 and ridden by his owner, Maj. Noel Furlong, of the English army. Slater, another outsider, recently sold by the American, John Hay Whitney, to George Whitelaw, was third, just a neck out of the place position.

Again all the English racing experts—men who seem to care little or nothing for their reputations—were wrong. None of the fancied favorites ever led the field, let alone finish. Mrs. C. S. Bird, Jr.'s Heartbreak Hill, the American-owned choice, at 8 to 1, fell directly in front of the huge crowd at the halfway point. Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the second choice, was eliminated on the second time around the course, falling on one of the jumps in the open country. Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalach, 1929 winner, crashed into the fence at Becher's Brook and broke a blood vessel.

Bostwick's Mount Second to Fall.

It was at the famous Becher's Brook hazard that the hopes of Whitney's Dust Foot, ridden by the wealthy American, George H. (Pete) Bostwick, also were shattered. The Whitney representative was the second to go down and was one of the two horses to fall on the first time around the four and one-half mile course. You Tell tumbled at the first fence.

Bostwick turned a double somersault as he was catapulted from his mount's saddle when Dusty Foot took off too soon. The young American rider was not seriously injured, however, receiving only scratches about the face. A few hours later, with the cuts on his nose and face painted with iodine, "Pete" announced he would ride the national jumps again tomorrow in the foxhunters' chase, one of the events on the final day of Liverpool's spring meeting.

4 of 9 U. S.-Owned Horses Finish.

In addition to Kellsboro Jack, three others of the nine American-owned horses finished. J. B. Snow's Delanceige was fourth, Trouble Maker, fifteenth, and F. Ambrose Clark's Chadds Ford, seventeenth.

Trouble Maker, under the guidance of Noel Laing, fenced well and for two miles was well up with the leaders. The fast pace was too much for the winner of the Carolina and Maryland Hunt Cups, however, and he gradually dropped behind. Frequently Laing took advantage of the broken hedges, sending his mount over the lowest point.

The 32 horses rounded the famous canal turn with the giant Remus in front. For the remainder of the first three miles, until the field hit Mecher's Brook for the second time, Remus led. Then he faded and Kellsboro Jack, leaping Becher's Brook like a jack rabbit, bounded to the front.

Gigantic Pelorus Jack Challenges.

Pelorus Jack, the largest horse in the race, challenged on the long sweeping turn into the home stretch and at the next to last hedge was a nose ahead. Anticipating a great finish, the crowd wildly screamed for one or the other. Pelorus Jack's challenge was short lived, however, as he crashed disastrously into the final barrier.

The other Jack, with little "Dud" Williams, from Caernarvon in Wales, in the saddle, continued on to receive the major share of the purse of 13,000 pounds (about $45,000).

Really True and Slater, also well up with the leaders from the start, fought it out for second with a neck separating the pair at the finish. Then trailed Delaneige in fourth place, followed by Alpine Hut, Forbra, last year's winner, and Trocadero. Strung out behind were the eleven other finishers in order named—Southern Hero, Master Orange, Colliery Band, Egremont, Remus, Ruin, Near East, Shaun Goil In, Chadds Ford, Merriment IV and then Dusty Foot with his unofficial burden of two jockeys.

Lone Better Wins At $319.40 Mutuel

Agua Caliente, Mexico, March 24 (A. P.).—La Florelle, owned by H. Higgins, entered the select ring of long-shot winners at the Jockey Club today, paying her only backer $319.40 for the $2 ticket held on her. It was the fourth time during the meeting that the odds had bounced above 150 to 1.

La Florelle trimmed Miriam R. by half a length at a mile and 70 yards, with Rufle third and Diodora fourth. Accordance, top favorite in the race, ran sixth. Seven others started. The 5-year-old mare's time was 1:47 3-5.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 24.

Well, fellow, I dropped back to two today. Von Sion and Hey There were the only top selections to do right by your old pal. Just so the boss didn't play the five losers, although he might have saved his money if he went at them across the board. The meeting is ebbing and I'm looking for shipping money like a number of owners. I must ship Mike home. So tonight, when I tackled the books I dug right down into the tiny type in an effort to dig up something of a paying nature. I pass them along. Take or leave, BILL.

FIRST RACE—I don't think we will have to look beyond SEMESTER for the winner. This one had a rough trip last out, and seems capable of carrying top weight to victory. BLACKBOARD turned in an excellent effort the other day and appears second best. TOYTOWN has a way of edging into the money.

SECOND RACE—FIRE NECK stands out among these juveniles and I see no reason for missing. LUCK IN is among those to carry a feather and may be second, ahead of CHAGRIN.

THIRD RACE—CLAREMONT did all that I asked the last time out and gets the Bennings call tomorrow BROWN WISDOM has been given a number of chances and should be second. PENNATE shapes up fairly well among these and may beat the others for the show.

FOURTH RACE — LEROS gets 13 pounds from MR. SPONGE and may show the way to the former Widener star in this sprint, which seems to be boiling over with speed. GOLD STEP carries a load, but may be third. This is the gang that has been beating each other, however.

FIFTH RACE—I'm going to try to make the underestimated BROADWAY LIGHTS show this field a trick or two tomorrow. Virtually every horse in this race was being talked around the paddock today except BROADWAY LIGHTS. Gets in with only 98 pounds and is crying to run. REVEILLE BOY and MOUNTAIN ELK for the rest.

SIXTH RACE — SUN TEATIME is the one the rail boys would have me believe is going to wake up in this test. I'm passing it along. BICHLORIDE and PRETTY PENNY, the latter a recent surprise, to take care of the place and show.

SEVENTH RACE—GENERAL A goes again for the Bennings dough. Has to pick up 120 pounds, but he has shown no dislike for weight. HAPPY SCOT and the lightly weighted PORTER'S DREAM for the other money places.

EIGHTH RACE—MAJOR LANPHIER to take the measure of LIVE ONE and McGONIGLE in the finale.

SOCCER GAME TODAY.

Soccer teams composed of workers employed on Government construction, will settle their feud today at 1 o'clock on the Monument Grounds field. Two weeks ago the teams struggled to a 3-3 stalemate. Jack Caldwell will officiate.

Finis will be written to the 1933 Capital City League season tomorrow when Columbia Heights Blacks and Marlboro meet on the latter's field. The game will be played regardless of weather conditions.

Gelb Worthy Opponent of Sarron

Similarity of Styles to Add Zest to Portner Feature Bout.

WHEN the good Marquis of Queensbury compiled his handlbook on ring etiquette, he specifically barred the use of any but natural weapons within the confines of the four posts. Six-shooters, so popular near the close of the last century, foils and other dangerous implements of warfare were outlawed. The marquis decided that fighters would be restricted to the use of a couple of padded leather mitts, plus their natural strength and skill, in bouts.

These are the articles Miki Gelb will have when he climbs through the ropes Tuesday night at Portner's still dormant brewery to make the acquaintance of Pete Sarron, the Birmingham bruiser.

The potency of Gelb's offense is attested to by the long string of victories fluttering from his belt. The names of Harry Sankey, Ray Meyers, Phil Zwick, Kolj Koto, Charley Raymond, Mickey Doyle and a score of other disciples are enumerated on his record among those whom he met and defeated.

Gelb Has Sharp Right.

Miki can pitch and catch. He has a sharp right hand. Last March at Ritchie Coliseum in the Bicentennial bouts he cut Dick Welsh to ribbons, despite the fact that Welsh was pedaling his bike most of the time.

Sarron was raised in the ring without benefit of a bicycle and he looks as though he actually enjoys fighting. Against Schwartz he was continually coming in. Benny couldn't take it, but Gelb apparently can, and this is guarantee enough that Tuesday's party will be a live one.

A card of four bouts has been arranged in support of the feature. It includes Billy Landers vs. LeRoy Dougan, six rounds; Billy Strickler vs. Joe Brennan, six rounds; Jackie Levinson vs. Arthur De Beve, six rounds; Joe Bullock vs. Marty Bond, four rounds.

Reports from Twelfth and H streets, where Charley Quigley is putting De Beve through his paces, indicate that the ancient Frenchman, a great favorite with the fans, will pass the plate for any offerings Levinson has and prepared for a fair exchange.

Warneke's Brother Signs With House of David

Muscatine, Iowa, March 24 (A.P.). Ray Doan, manager of the House of David baseball team, announced today that Albert Warneke, brother of Lon Warneke, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, has signed to pitch with the House of David team this summer. He pitched for McCook in the Nebraska State League last year. A fellow-moundsman with the House of David will be the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Georgetown Prep Seeks New Glory

20 Baseball Hopefuls Report; McNamara Returns to Mound.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A FIVE-STAR year is the goal of Coach Joe Gardner and his little band of athletes at Georgetown Prep School, and from all indications success will crown their efforts. Already the Garrett Park lads boast a record of six victories in seven football games, the single loss coming in a postseason fray which Iona Prep won by a 14-13 score.

In basket ball the Little Hoyas captured the prep school honors, losing only to Devitt Prep, a score it evened later in the season. Now it's baseball, golf and tennis. Baseball is the major item, but golf and tennis are not regarded lightly at the school which has developed a number of players who earned high rankings in after years.

Only 76 Students At School.

Georgetown Prep has an enrollment of only 76 students, many of them too small to engage in high or prep school competition, but all are devotees of one sport or another and this, together with the loyal spirit evidenced, accounts for the remarkable record made by the school.

Gardner has 20 boys striving for berths on the varsity baseball team, and a group of smaller boys, about 10 in number, are candidates for the junior team, coached by Mr. Arthur S. J. Included in the older group are a number of veterans and it is these upon whom the Prep mentor is counting to carry the school colors through a winning season in the third major sport.

Don McNamara heads the list of pitching candidates. Two years on the mound have made the youthful Irishman one of the leading hurlers in schoolboy ranks and he should be a bulwark on the defense this year. Also trying for mound berths are Tom Keating and Maury Nee. The latter are three-letter men. The trio represents 80 per cent of the team's batting power.

Cohan to Take Care Of Catching.

George Cohan, son of the famous playwright, regular centerfielder last year, has donned the mask and chest protector and will attempt to fill the gap cause by the graduation of Ragland. His understudy will be Johnny Mayock.

Cy Cummings and Jim Keating are battling for the right to play first base, left vacant by Buzz Heeking, one of the best players ever graduated from the school. Johnny McMahon, Squire Pennington, Joe Sheehan and Red Case, round out the list of infield candidates.

A wealth of outfield material is available. Gardner has Joe Egan, Duncan Picklin, of last year's junior nine, along with Frank Kelly, and Shanty Allan as leading contenders.

Georgetown Prep will play a schedule of 15 games.

Optimist Five Annexes Boys' Club Court Title

The basket ball championship of the Boys Club went to the Optimists, composed of a few future stars, a number of former stars and some never-weres, last night when they defeated the Varsity team, 40-29, in a fashion, which caused no end of merriment among the youngsters gathered on the sidelines. Harry Childs, former pitcher; Paullie Byrne, former G. U. star; Charlie Fyfe, club superintendent, were in action.

LEAGUE LEADERS LOSE.

Alexandria, Va., March 24.—Three games were played in the City League here tonight. Methodist Boys Club stopped the leading St. Rita's quintet by a score of 17-15, with Backuss in a leading role, while Centrals topped the Sigmas, 19-15, in another grueling struggle. Boran led the Virginians to a 33-25 victory over Mount Ida in the final.

BILOXI BUNTS

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 24.—Biloxi turned out virtually en masse today, brass band, mayor, town council, chamber of commerce and accredited rumrunners and all. Something over 2,000 fans, free for the afternoon as a result of a business moratorium declared by the mayor in deference to the Washington ball club, flooded the weather-beaten stands.

Tomorrow sees Manager Joe Cronin give the pitching assignment to two more of the underflight flingers, Bill McAfee and Jack Russell. Swarthy Rajah Peckinpaugh tonight designated, while solemnly masticating a shrimp cocktail, Belve Bean and Bill Perrin to thumbmark the ball for Cleveland. Bean is a Toledo product, Perrin a New Orleans boy.

Roger Peckinpaugh, standing in the third base coaching box, made one of the best catches of the game—one that sent a half thrill through the bent spines of the older newspapermen in the press box. There was something about the way Peck trapped a grass-singeing foul and shot the ball to Ossie Bluege that filled a small section of the crowd with nostalgia for the salad days of 1924-25.

Tomorrow night the first chapter of Clark Griffith's $20,000 investment in conditioning and notoriety comes to a close as the team pulls out of Biloxi, bound for Birmingham, where the Barons will be met Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, followed by the dear old Atlanta Crackers, in Atlanta, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The remainder of the spring training budget will be dispensed in the following portions: April 2-3, Chattanooga, in Chattanooga; April 4, Knoxville at Knoxville; Wednesday, April 5, Boston Braves, in Washington, followed by Brooklyn April 6 and 7, Buffalo, April 8 and 9, and Baltimore, April 10, after which there will be that little matter of starting the season.

TWO DUSEKS ON PROGRAM NEXT WEEK

Ernie Meets Grobmier, Rudy to Tackle Kampfer Here.

THE Dusek duo, Rough Rudy and Eager Ernie, will cofeature the weekly wrestling show to be spilled out upon the mat next Thursday night at the Auditorium, Maestro Joe Turner announced last night. And if a cofeature could have a third angle, Legs Grobmier would be it, for Legs is matched with Ernie.

Hans Kampfer, who contrary to popular opinion, does not spend his spare time frightening moths out of clothes closets, will be Rudy's waltz partner for the evening. Hans is the people's cherce around New York, but around here he is just another job hunter. Rudy's ability is well known to the local taxpayers, although it is rumored he will use a brand new facial contortion he has been working on in the match.

Grobmier resurrected himself from the limbo of has-beens by upsetting Dick Daviscourt's apple cart last week, after several lean weeks of unproductive endeavor. In Ernie he meets the boy evidently elected by wrestling's privy council to be the next Londos opponent in this city.

"An Ingrowing Church" is the subject of the morning sermon by Dr. Forney Hutchinson, pastor of Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church, South, tomorrow morning. The evening text is "Some Adventures in Service." The young people will be in charge of the evening program.

R. Deane Shure, director of church music, will conduct a large vested choir of 60 voices in presenting an anthem at each service. In the morning the anthem will be "My Task," by Ashford; for the night worship Wildemere's "Angels of Jesus" will be sung.

FREEMAN TO PREACH CATHEDRAL SERMON

Bishop Evensong Preacher; Director Taylor Speaks in Morning.

The Right Rev. Dr. James Edward Freeman, who has been in New York City this week for special Lenten preaching appointments, will deliver the sermon at the People's Evensong Service in the great choir of Washington Cathedral, beginning at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The preacher at the service of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion at 10:30 o'clock will be the Rev. Malcolm S. Taylor, director of evangelism for the National Commission on Evangelism of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who has his headquarters at the College of Preachers on Mount St. Alban.

There will be celebration of the Holy Communion in the Bethlehem Chapel at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The sacred cantata, "The Crucifixion," by John Stainer, will be sung by the cathedral choir Sunday, April 2, in place of the usual evensong service.

Lenten Addresses Set at Cathedral

Series Especially Made Devotional at Mid-Week Services.

The authorities of Washington Cathedral are placing special emphasis during Lent this year on a series of devotional addresses delivered at the evensong service beginning at 4 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. These services are held in the Chapel of St. Mary in the north aisle of the great choir.

The Lenten addresses for next week will conform to the following schedule:

Tuesday afternoon, the Right Rev. Dr. Philip M. Rhinelander, on "Prayer and the Lord's Prayer."

Thursday afternoon, Canon Albert H. Lucas, on "Some Marks of a Christian."

Friday afternoon Canon Raymond L. Wolven, on "The Christian Paradox." He will speak next Friday on "Faith Through Doubt."

ROCK CREEK CHURCH TO HEAR ZABRISKIE

Virginia Professor Preacher in Morning; Hall Speaks at Holy Comforter.

The Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, professor in the Virginia Theological Seminary, will deliver the sermon at the 11 o'clock morning prayer service tomorrow at Rock Creek Church, Rock Creek Church road and Webster street. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8:30 a. m. and at the 8 o'clock evening prayer service the Rev. Dr. Franklin J. Bohanan, the rector, will deliver another in his series of Sunday evening lectures on the history of the Episcopal Church.

Evening prayer will be held at 8 p. m. on Wednesday, and at this service Dr. Bohanan will preach another of his Lenten sermons on the Lord's Prayer. The services on Thursday include celebration of Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m. and a special Lenten service for children at 3:45 p. m., at which the Rev. Claude S. Ridenour, assistant to Dr. Bohanan, will officiate.

The guest preacher at the 11 o'clock morning prayer service tomorrow at Holy Comforter Chapel, Rock Creek Parish, 5714 Georgia avenue, will be the Rev. R. F. Hall, rector of St. Paul's Church, Beltsville, Md. Other chapel services tomorrow include celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and evening prayer and address at 7:30 p. m.

Church Advances Communion Rite

Because of the special series of evangelistic services to be held in Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South, Thirteenth street and North Carolina avenue northeast, which will begin with the 11 o'clock service on April 2, and which will be conducted by Dr. J. C. Massee, who will be assisted by Homer Rodeheaver, Dr. John C. Copenhaver announces that the service of the sacrament of the Lord's supper has been advanced and will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Copenhaver will preach, taking as his sermon subject "Presenting Our Bodies as Living Sacrifices." For his 8 p. m. sermon tomorrow he will preach on "Why I Want My Companion to Be a Christian."

Stockdale Sermon Is Based on Mind

At the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, Dr. Allen A. Stockdale will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning on the subject, "Mind Answering Mind." Members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Daughters of Rebekah will be guests at a special service held in the evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Stockdale will preach on "Human Love and the Jericho Road."

Epiphany Church Will Hear Bishop

Dr. McCormick to Preach in Morning and Also During Week.

The special preacher at the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock service will be the Right Rev. John Newton McCormick, Bishop of Western Michigan. Bishop McCormick will also be the Lenten noonday preacher at Epiphany Monday to Friday, inclusive. In the pulpit at evensong tomorrow, at 8 o'clock, will be the rector of Epiphany, the Rev. Dr. Phillips, who has just returned from a week's preachment in St. Louis.

The addresses at the afternoon services next week are scheduled as follows: Monday, the Rev. V. O. Anderson, rector of St. Agnes' Parish; Tuesday, the Rev. Dr. Francis Yarnall; Thursday, the Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills, and Friday, Martin S. Firth, student at the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Church to Observe "Refreshment Day"

Tomorrow, Refreshment Sunday, the rector, the Rev. A. J. Wilder, will preach at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church on "Five Barley Loaves, Two Fishes and Christ."

The Young People's Fellowship will study for half an hour "The Symbolism and Teaching of the Episcopal Church." Miss Helen Griffith is the teacher. Refreshments and social hour follow.

Praying of Jesus, Dr. Taylor's Theme

Dr. James H. Taylor tomorrow morning at the Central Presbyterian Church will preach on "The Praying of Jesus" and at night on "The Message of Ezekiel."

The annual election of officers of the Westminster League and the Christian Endeavor will be held.

Christian Science Churches

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms 39:11: "The counsel of the Lord standeth forever, the thoughts of His heart to all generations."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness. And again, The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain." (I Corinthians 3:18-20).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Metaphysics is above physics, and matter does not enter into metaphysical premises or conclusions. The categories of metaphysics rest on one basis, the divine Mind. Metaphysics resolves things into thoughts, and exchanges the objects of sense for the ideas of soul. These ideas are perfectly real and tangible to spiritual consciousness, and they have this advantage over the objects and thoughts of material sense—they are good and eternal." (Page 269).

CROSS IS SUBJECT OF SIZOO SERMON

New York Avenue Church Pastor's Special Theme Is Loneliness.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will have for his subject tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church "The Loneliness of the Cross." In the evening he will continue the series of sollioquies which turn on the story of the gospel.

At 6 o'clock the young people of the Christian Endeavor Society will hold their fellowship tea. Following the tea the worship service will be observed when Mrs. Thomas G. Willis will conduct the discussion of the subject, "What Was Jesus' Estimate of Human Life—Can We Live by It?"

Dr. Sizoo will deliver on Tuesday morning at 11:30 o'clock the fourth Lenten lecture in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. "The Christian Faith in Its Relation to Morals" will be the subject.

Dr. Sizoo will on Thursday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock hold the second of a series of conferences with those who have some problem of religion upon which they would seek light and leading. These conferences are very informal nad include a questionnaire period.

Forum to Discuss Architecture Here

Probable Changes in Capital Up Before Mount Pleasant Group.

Probable changes in the character of Washington architecture in future years and the effect on the appearance of the city will be outlined tomorrow morning at the Adult Forum of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church by A. B. Trowbridge, consulting architect of the Washington Cathedral.

Four organization Lenten programs at the Mount Pleasant Church will be continued during the coming week. Members of the senior and intermediate departments of the church school will have a joint session at 9:30 tomorrow morning to hear the minister, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, in a second talk preparatory for the Easter communion. He will speak on "The Person of Jesus."

Pastor of Asbury To Speak on 'Life'

Development to Feature Beery Sermon in Morning.

The Rev. E. C. Beery, pastor of Francis Asbury M. E. Church South, Sixteenth street, between Irving and Lamont streets northwest, announces the following subject for tomorrow morning: "The Development of Life." At 7:40 p. m. Allen H. Watson will give an organ recital. The evening service at 8 o'clock will consist of a special program of music by the Francis Asbury quartet and vested choir. Young People's Day will be observed by the Epworth League at 7 p. m.

The Hi-League at 7 p. m. will be led by Elizabeth Bernard and the subject will be "Missionaries in China."

Fifth Baptist Church Revived in Full Force

Special services, which started at the Fifth Baptist Church on Wednesday night, will continue through April 9, under the leadership of Evangelist John W. Ham and E. L. Wolslagel, who directs the three choirs that take part in the services.

Dr. John E. Briggs, the pastor, announces that the evangelist will bring a special message tomorrow morning to the large class of the men in the Sunday school, to be followed by a timely message at 11 o'clock. His topic for the evening service will be "Setting Thine House in Order."

Two Lectures Tomorrow On Super Mind Science

The First Super Mind Science Church, at 1614 K street northwest, announces two lectures tomorrow by the founder, Prof. William Estep. At 3 p. m. he will speak on "Mystical Initiation," and at 8 p. m. on "The Psychology of Religion."

On Wednesday, March 29, at 8 p. m., a special devotional meeting will be held with membership testimonials as to the healing power of the science.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

So sure is Mrs. Littleton that Christ's second coming is near at hand that she has transformed her estate on Long Island into a great religious shrine, complete with furnishings brought over from the Holy Land, and decorated by a Palestine artist. Mrs. Littleton wears a costume similar to that worn by women of Jerusalem 2,000 years ago. Daily she delivers this same 10-word sermon to friends and visitors: "Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet Him."

On the Faeroes Islands, between Norway and Iceland, the flocks of birds that live high in the cliffs overhanging the sea are an important source of food. One hunter is lowered over the top cliff by companions to catch the birds with a pole net; he wrings their necks and drops them to another man in a boat below. The hunter suspended on the rope is careful never to dislodge any rocks, or even eggs, for from a height of 600 feet eggs have been known to pierce the bottom of rowboats.

Although few of them can count, and such serious business as keeping track of the days is left to wise men of the tribe, the Ifugaos of the Philippines are several jumps ahead of modern civilization in the matter of calendars. Theirs is a 13-month year, with 28 days to a month. The days are kept track of by tying knots in rope.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL WOULD CURB THE NEWSREELS.

"NOTHING, in my opinion, holds prosperity back more and retards confidence more than the newsreel pictures," said Elmer Twitchell, with considerable vehemence.

"How?" he was asked.

"Through those close-ups and talkies of the leaders in any administration at Washington," said Elmer. "Now and then there's some leader who, like Mr. Roosevelt, has a face that inspires confidence in the newsreels, but I'm sorry to say that most of the faces of our leaders as thrown on the screen give even an optimist the cold shivers."

"You don't judge men by their faces, do you?" we asked.

"Not entirely," replied Elmer, "but there are faces and faces, and I have a feeling that the face of a Cabinet officer or a leading member of the House or Senate has an important influence on the public mind when thrown on the screen. I never feel more skeptical of popular government than just before and after an election when every newsreel release is showing close-ups of our leading public men."

"We can't all be beautiful," Elmer was reminded.

"I don't expect beauty in any administration," said Elmer, "but I know it don't do the country any good to have a nationwide exhibition of the average statesman as he looks in a snapshot enlarged about 2,000 times. His face is generally bad enough in a small cabinet photo, without magnifying it until when you see it on the screen it takes up as much space as a view of a volcanic crater."

* * * *

The listener had to admit that the newsreel enlargements do the average face no good.

"The point I make is that by some curious working of fate only one statesman in a thousand looks in a newsreel like anybody you'd trust. Why, when they threw on the screen pictures of some of the new Cabinet officers and senators during the last few weeks strong men winced, women swooned and little children began screaming in fright. There's no choice between administrations. A new Republican administration will scare you in the newsreels just as much as a Democratic one."

"It wouldn't be so bad if they didn't talk," we suggested. ... ...

"That's just it," agreed Elmer. "Before the talkies came you could look at some faces and hope that things were not as bad as they seemed, but these days when you see a mouth 3 feet by 10 inches open on a face 9 feet tall and 6 feet from ear to ear and spout stuff evidently written by the cameraman, it just unnerves you. If we must have pictures of statesmen they should be seen and not heard."

TAKING NO CHANCES.

In the recent raid of the Nazis on the home of Prof. Einstein it is understood they made a thorough search of all the bent space.

AID AT DIAGNOSIS SESSION

HENDERSON RULING WON BY COLLECTORS

Justice Refuses to Direct Turning Over of Assets to Executor.

Collectors for the estate of the late Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, for two decades the social arbiter of Washington, yesterday gained a victory in District Supreme Court when Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue refused to direct them to turn over to George E. Edelin, executor under Mrs. Henderson's last will, the assets of the estate.

Justice O'Donoghue acted after he was informed that a suit for an accounting of the Henderson estate was pending in the courts. This accounting will determine just what portions of the estates controlled by Mrs. Henderson were hers by right of trusteeship or life tenant. Two other estates, those of John B. Henderson and John B. Henderson, jr., were comingled with Mrs. Henderson's.

To those portions that belonged to her son or husband the collectors could not seek compensation, since they were appointed as collectors for the Mary F. Henderson estate. The collectors, Ralph B. Fleharty and H. L. Rust, have been conserving the three estates, and they ask compensation for the group.

Justice O'Donoghue said that until the estates were divided he would keep the collectors in control so that payment for their services would be assured. The collectors have been paid thus far $20,000, and they ask a like amount as an additional fee. The accounting suit will not be reached for several weeks.

McCarl's Ruling on Pay And Leave Is Due Soon

A group of problems pertaining to leave and pay of Government workers involved in the economy legislation which goes into effect April 1, have been taken under advisement by Comptroller General McCarl. He expects to rule on the questions soon.

The questions were forwarded by the Civil Service Commission in behalf of the Personnel Officers' Association. They involve questions pertaining to the amount of credit allowed against the rate of pay deduction for furlough already taken and whether there will be a salary deduction for administrative or voluntary absence without pay after March 31.

School Board Censured For Van Buren Illness

Declaring that general lack of modern facilities was the cause of much sickness among pupils at the Van Buren School, the Board of Education was censured by the Anacostia Citizens Association last night for its alleged negligence in remedying conditions at the school. It was charged that the building has been condemned for years and it not fit for occupation.

The association indorsed the candidacy of Dr. George C. Havenner for District Commissioner. It also opposed abolition of all-night parking in the District.

Policeman Is Greeted With Bucket of Water

Receiving a radio order that there was disorder reported on the second floor of Twenty-ninth and M streets northwest, Policemen Joseph A. Wheeler and J. A. Wright responded. Wheeler leaped from the car and dashed up the stairs, but his progress was suddenly checked by a bucket of ice-cold water.

Robert Lee Donohue, 56, 2930 M street northwest, was arrested and charged with intoxication and assault.

Mrs. Penner Reports Loss of Muff and Hats

Mrs. Joe Penner, wife of the comedian, who appeared at Loew's Fox last week, reported to police yesterday the loss of a white ermine muff and several hats with a hat box.

Mrs. Penner said she thought she left the box in a taxicab Thursday night, but she could shed no light on the identity of the cab. She gave her address as Loew's Valencia Theater, Jamaica, N. Y.

DIAGNOSIS CAMPAIGN OPENED BY MEETING

Authorities on Tuberculosis Hear Dr. J. C. Gittings in Brookings Address.

Before a distinguished audience gathered at the Brookings Institute auditorium, eminent medical authorities last night opened the annual early diagnosis campaign of the Washington Society of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. The campaign is coincident with the opening of a similar drive by the national organization.

Dr. John Claxton Gittings, of Johns Hopkins University, noted authority on tuberculosis, explained how children of the lower classes often become infected through contact with tubercular parents, brothers or sisters. He advocated, with other medical men, absolute segregation of infected persons.

Dr. William Charles White, president of the Washington group of the Tuberculosis Association, presided and in an opening address declared that uniform laws here for pasteurizing milk had cut down the tuberculosis mortality to a great degree.

Dr. F. C. Smith, assistant surgeon general of the United States, described prerequisites for children's sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculosis. Location, equipment, morale, superintendency and adequate personnel, he declared, should all be of the best for effectively combating the disease.

Prevention is the aim of organized medicine, rather than treatment of disease, declared Dr. Harry Fowler, president of the District of Columbia Medical Society. He declared that in fighting tuberculosis, the medical profession was at least armed with knowledge of cause, whereas in combating cancer the science was still considerably in the dark.

Women Lay Plans For "Ingathering"

Annual Welfare Meeting Is Expected to Attract 3,000 Persons.

Final plans for the annual "Ingathering" next Friday, which is expected to be attended by 3,000 persons, were made yesterday at a meeting of the Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches at the Calvary Baptist Church.

About 75 denominational representatives attended the meeting, which was addressed by the Rev. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

At the annual "Ingathering" funds are assembled for the support of the social service and civic work of the woman's council.

Boyer, Former Cashier, Enters Not Guilty Plea

Charles D. Boyer, former cashier of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., yesterday entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of embezzling $25,791 from that bank. He was represented by Lucien Vandoren.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, before whom Boyer was arraigned, allowed Mr. Vandoren five days within which to change the plea or attack the validity of the indictment, which was returned against the former banker Wednesday.

Man Demands 25 Cents After Auto Strikes Him

When Carson C. Myers, 25, 4405 Prospect avenue northwest, struck a colored man with his car yesterday afternoon, he stopped and got out, expecting the worst.

To his great surprise, the man arose from the pavement and asked him for a quarter. Myers promptly complied with his request, and drove to police station to report the accident, which occured at Third and K streets. He said the man stepped from between parked cars.

Burglar Gets $90 Clothing.

Clothing valued at $90 was reported stolen from the tailor shop of Harry Katsong at 1910 Seventh street northwest Thursday night by burglars who broke open a rear door.

HEAD-HUNTING RACE OF FORMOSA ISLAND CALLED DIMINISHING

Capt. Von Hoffman Tells Geographic Society of Secret Ceremonies.

Deep in the mountains of Formosa live aborigines whose religion still calls for the taking of human heads, but they are a rapidly diminishing race, due to the vigilance of Japanese constabulary in this huge, Japanese-owned island, Capt. Carl von Hoffman, world traveler and noted photographer, told members of the National Geographic Society in his lecture, "The Head Takers of Formosa," in Washington Auditorium last night.

Unusual motion pictures taken by Capt. von Hoffman revealed secret ceremonies and a mode of living practically unknown to the outside world. Formosa, which is 240 miles long and some 75 miles wide, has many mountain peaks that reach 8,000 feet above sea level, and one that is more than 13,000 feet high. Rugged mountains project from the center of the island like the fins on the back of a fish, and it is in these mountains that the head-takers live.

Japanese authorities are cool to visitors who wish to visit this region, but Capt. von Hoffman obtained permission from the military authorities to photograph seven of the tribes in their native villages, although the authorities would not guarantee his safety.

Is No Longer Legal.

Head taking is no longer legal in the island, Capt. von Hoffman explained, but the natives of the hills still believe they must have a human head as a sacrifice to insure bountiful crops or when a man who has reached maturity is to be taken into the councils of his elders in the tribe. Contrary to reports, the tribesmen do not cut heads from living persons, but first kill their victims with poisoned arrows.

Formosa, however, is not entirely a land given over to head takers. Most of its population is civilized. Chinese farmers till fields of rice, cotton and tea along the coastal plains. There is, in addition, a considerable Japanese population, including officials, soldiers and business men. The towns are modern, and railroads circle the islands, but the easiest way to reach the remote mountain tribes is afoot. Both Japanese and Chinese are spoken in the island.

Considered Compliment.

Capt. von Hoffman was informed that the aborigines of Formosa took heads not because they had anything against their victims, but, on the contrary, it was often a compliment because they wished to have the victim with them always. In some parts of the island the religion of the head takers has been modified to the extent that now a boar's head will satisfy their needs.

Formosa plays a significant part in world trade, Capt. von Hoffman stated, as the chief source of camphor. This useful medicine is distilled from the camphor tree, which grows luxuriantly on the steep, tropical mountainsides. Jasmine also is exported.

Six Men Arrested In Robbery Series

Police Believe Solution to Freight Car Raids Is at Hand.

Six colored men were arrested yesterday and charged with investigation in connection with a series of freight car robberies.

The men are alleged to have stolen a quantity of canned foodstuffs, and representing themselves as wholesale dealers, sold the goods to various grocery and delicatessen stores throughout the city.

The six gave their names and addresses as follows: Ernest R. Jones, 323 I street southeast; William Burton, 205 I street southeast; Raymond Fowler, 513 Sixth street southwest; David Lanham, same address; Earl Robinson, 308 I street southeast, and David Baylor, of 923 Fifth street southeast.

Boy, 8, Killed by Auto; Woman Driver Is Held

William Miller, 8, colored, 1811 Thirteenth street northwest, was fatally injured yesterday when struck in front of 1709 Vermont avenue northwest by an automobile, driven by Miss Carrie L. Stamates, 36, 3306 Park place northwest. The boy died at Freedmen's Hospital.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

METROPOLITAN

"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS." Paramount picturization of the Wilson Barrett play, produced and directed by Cecil B. DeMille, with music by Rudolph Kopp, featuring Fredric March, Claudette Colbert, Elissa Landi and Charles Laughton, with Ian Keith, Harry Beresford, Arthur Hohl, Tommy Conlon, Vivian Tobin and a cast of thousands.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Faithful to the form and movement of the original play, reverent in its treatment of both character and incident attending the dawn of the Christian era, but, notwithstanding all that, sensational, sadistic and sometimes even sickening in its frank revelation of the excesses of the profligate court of pagan Rome, this mammoth spectacle, marvelous in its pageantry, stunning in its immensity and at times blinding in its beauty, is now made available to Washington audiences at a fraction of its intrinsic worth.

The strange love story of the handsome young prefect of Rome, coveted by the traitorous Empress Poppaea, wife of the weakling Nero, but staunch in his devotion to a simple Christian maiden, progresses picturesquely from their first casual meeting to that great sacrificial moment when they enter the martyr's arena together, against a background of the burning of Rome, the fantastic orgies of a decadent aristocracy and, finally, the chilling spectacle of a degenerate emperor's ghastly afternoon of slaughter in the Circus Maximus. There is no element of drama, no quality of appeal, that does not find opportunity to assert itself at some time during the far-flung development of this monumental work.

It is vastly to their credit that the pivotal figures in the play, impersonated with consummate skill by Fredric March, Claudette Colbert, Elissa Landi and Charles Laughton, are not completely dwarfed by the immensity of their environment, but such is not the case. Their efforts are nobly seconded by a large group of distinguished players, among whom may be mentioned Ian Keith, Harry Beresford and Arthur Hohl, leaders of the Christians; Tommy Conlon, Vivian Tobin, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Joyzelle Joyner, William V. Mong and Nat Pendleton.

Columns could be written upon the many unique virtues of this magnificent achievement—and upon its transgressions, too, for that matter—but most of it has appeared here before. It need not be repeated now that there is a supreme example of the artistry, the sweep and the power of the cinema.

The Paramount Sound News is the only other item on the bill. None other is needed.

RIALTO

"THE COHENS AND KELLYS IN TROUBLE." Universal picturization of a story by Homer Croy and Vernon Smith, costarring George Sidney and Charlie Murray, with Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson and Jobyna Howland. Directed by George Stevens. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Whatever differences there may have been between the Cohens and the Kellys, everything is O. K. now, for although the sterner halves of the families still are finding plenty of trouble, they are buddies and, apparently, on the loose.

Some time since their last visit to town Pat Kelly has lost Mrs. Kelly and has been divorced from No. 2 and Mrs. Cohen has dropped out of the picture. When Nathan and Pat step out as buddies, they reach comedy heights they never have scaled when encumbered with family.

It's this way: Nathan decided to take a vacation and look up his old pal, Pat, but no sooner than the reunion is effected in walks Mrs. Pat No. 2, demanding her back alimony. Then the fun begins, and continues at an ever-increasing speed until the Mrs. is safely married off "to another sap."

To take up the time of Pat's comely daughter, there is a Coast Guardsman and, to make matters still more entertaining, rumrunners are introduced.

Thoroughly mixed together—with George Sidney and Charlie Murray, in their usual roles; Maureen O'Sullivan, as the daughter; Frank Albertson, the much-too-youthful Coast Guarder; Jobyna Howland, as wife number 2; Andy Devine, as "the other sap;" and Henry Armetta, as the rum-runner—and taken in one gulp it is a tonic spring prescription for any chronic case of melancholia.

Summarily, relating the events transpiring in Vatican City since the Lateran Treaty, "The Voice of the Vatican" presents His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, H. R. H. Victor Emmanuel, and Premier Mussolini in a Universal Special.

"Alias the Professor," with James Gleason, Fred Kelsey and Gloria Shea, is a highly amusing farce in the typical Gleason manner. Universal News rounds out the highly satisfactory bill.

RKO-KEITH'S

"KING KONG." RKO-Radio picturization of a story by the late Edgar Wallace, conceived and directed by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot. Reviewed from preview screening.

Those rock-ribbed realists who insist on a rigid plausibility in their screen entertainment might as well cross "King Kong" off their lists at the outset and forget it, for "King Kong" is such an utterly fantastic story, visualized with such drastic departures from every conventional precept of photoplay production, that only by a complete surrender to the grotesque extravagances of imaginative melodrama can its preposterous developments be enjoyed.

Through much of its length, the incidents of the picture take on every terrifying aspect of a succession of hideous and unbelievable nightmares. A little party of adventurers, including one young woman, land on an uncharted island in the South Seas to solve the mystery that has been hinted to the leader of the expedition, a maker of hair-raising animal and jungle pictures who plucks his plots from the far corners of the earth.

The secret of the island is a 50-foot, giant gorilla, who becomes enamored of Ann Darrow's beauty and kidnaps her into the fastnesses of a prehistoric jungle. When she is miraculously rescued, Kong tracks her back to the village, falls victim to a barrage of gas bombs and is taken captive to New York. Upon the opening night of his public exhibition on Broadway, Kong breaks his shackles at sight of Ann, kidnaps her again and scrambles with her up the outside of the Empire State Building to the mooring mast, where he stages a last stand against an attacking air squadron of Army planes.

During the jungle sequences, when Kong is jealously guarding the safety of the beautiful and fragile creature whom he carries about in the palm of his hairy hand, he stages furious battles with a tyrannosaurus, a pterodactyl, a mammoth reptile out of the slime, whose scientific nickname, unfortunately, is not programmed, and other prodigious survivors of the age of ooze. These combats, with appropriate growls, snarls, hissings and shriekings, are made amazingly realistic by some studio legerdemain unknown to this department. They are sufficiently actual in viciousness and destructive outcome to keep Miss Fay Wray screaming most of the time—an emotional outlet that the audience also would find not without merit.

Miss Wray, by the way, performs her nerve-wracking chores with such successful simulation of petrifying fear that one wonders how she ever came through the ordeal with her sanity unimpaired. Robert Armstrong, on the other hand, finds himself in possession of the most asinine lines of the season, which he delivers with a schoolboy bravado that is as hammy as they deserve. Bruce Cabot has all of his shirts splendidly torn off in a flurry of conflicts with all of the beasts of the dinosaur dynasty. The others do not matter.

"Love's Labor Won," a short reel, and the Pathe News are the only supplementaries of a unique feature that should make those who are afraid of garter snakes, mice and cockroaches just a little bit ashamed of themselves! N. B. B.

EARLE

"THE KEYHOLE." Warner Bros. picturization of Alice D. G. Miller's story, "Adventure," starring Kay Francis, supported by George Brent, Glenda Farrell, Monroe Owsley and Henry Kolker. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

This keyhole peering and eavesdropping pays dividends in chuckles rather than blistered ears.

Our official hero, the keyhole-peerer who figures on both sides of closed doors as the peerer and peeree, is not another of the columnist's ilk this time, but a private detective much too nice for his job.

If anybody had been serious about this—and thank goodness nobody was—we'd want a lot of explaining about just how Mr. Nell Davis took such a rotten job. Treated as it is with sharp and subtle direction, dialogue built for fun, and an A1 cast, all we care is that Nell, fed up with cheating women, wants a monastery but gets Anne Vallee (Kay Francis)—to shadow.

Kay Francis is, as always, beautiful and exactly the sort of a wife calculated to make husbands jealous and young men romantic.

Mr. George Brent has given up "The March of the Wooden Soldiers" as his theme song, has welcomed back Irish mirth, and for the first time since "The Rich Are Always With Us," is a charming person and a facile actor.

With considerable background to lay, the picture is a little slow starting. With a great deal to settle, it is a tiny bit lame at the end, but with enough spirit left for a final neat touch.

Singin' Sam, easy, friendly and nice, is singin' away on the stage pleasantly, but with only a hint or so and "Lord, You Made the Night Too Long" to show how he could sing if he wanted to.

Gamby, the golden-haired, is back, bringing memories of Roxy days. She presents a vivid rhapsody in blue dance, a lilting and graceful second number, and an amusing eccentric dance with Bert Prival, the dancingest dancer seen in some time. His two solo numbers are performed with unbelievable lightness.

The clever Wallends wire-walking troupe open the bill; Josephine Harmon and Connie Claxton laugh at most of their own jokes and Maxine Doyle, in white, green and pink, gets some nice big hands.

LOEW'S FOX

"A LADY'S PROFESSION." Paramount picturization of a story by Nina Wilcox Putnam, featuring Alison Skipworth, Roland Young and Sari Maritza. Directed by Norman McLeod. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Adding to the triumphs of a noteworthy career that already includes signal successes in revue, operetta, grand opera, concert and motion pictures, a particularly auspicious vaudeville debut at Loew's Fox Theater, Grace Moore, charming and gracious prima donna, yesterday was greeted with an enthusiastic warmth that may not have been exceeded or excelled ever in her experience.

Washington was not only extending a warm return welcome to an old friend but expressing, as well, its keen appreciation of an especially well-chosen program of songs, sung in the full beauty and power of a glorious soprano voice.

Omitting all operatic arias and heavier works from her initial performance, Miss Moore sang first at yesterday's early matinee the familiar "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour," followed by a romantic ballad in Spanish, "Promise Me, My Love," and the "Du Barry" number from the operetta of that name, in which she appeared last season in New York. For the encore, which the audience would not be denied, "Lover, Come Back to Me" was sung.

Miss Moore's voice was at its best in the upper register yesterday, full, powerful, and of rare clarity and richness—qualities that were perhaps best revealed in "Du Barry" and "Lover Come Back." Additional encores would have been avidly welcomed up to any number the artiste might have been generous enough to sing.

This week's screen feature, "A Lady's Profession," offers another instance of inept titling and a considerable amount of quietly and deftly amusing comedy, based on the idea of impecunious English nobility coming to America and getting itself handsomely mixed up in the speakeasy racket.

It is doubtful if a more engaging trio could have been found for the droll purposes of this unimportant little story than Alison Skipworth, Roland Young and Sari Maritza. Englishy all, they lend a thoroughly authentic note to Lady Beulah Bonnell; her brother, Lord Reginald Withers, and his daughter, Cecily. They are not too gay in the opening sequences of the picture, but once they get going in their "Boots and Saddle" night club on this side, there is a deal of agreeable, if not uproarious, fun, to which Roscoe Karns, Kent Taylor, Warren Hymer, De Witt Jennings, Jackie Searl and George Barbier contribute unsparingly.

Augmenting Miss Moore's superlative vocalism on the stage are the Three Cossacks, daredevils on skates; Art Frank, that spry young octogenarian, assisted by Vivian Peterson, in an interval of dance called "Old Man Whoopee Himself," and that adroit buffoon, prestidigitator and instrumentalist, Dave Harris, aided by "Frankie," the Carroll Sisters and Ethel Rhea in a highly diverting hodge-podge of this, that and the other.

An elaborate anniversary medley overture, under the energetic baton of Phil Lampkin, and the Fox Movietone News, complete a bill of which Miss Moore is the one brilliant and outstanding highlight. N. B. B.

PALACE

"PICK UP." Paramount picturization of a story by Vina Delmar, featuring George Raft and Sylvia Sidney, with William Harrigan, Lillian Bond and Robert McWade. Directed by Marion Gering. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Isabel Harraman.

Vina Delmar's story of "Pick-Up" gains nothing in its screen adaptation but the interesting figures of Sylvia Sidney and George Raft. These two luminaries remain interesting personalities but never quite succeed in making the characters of Mary Richards and Harry Glynn especially convincing.

"Baby-Face Mary" is headline material. She has completed a 2-year sentence for complicity in a badger game and the State releases her with the customary warning and $5 grubstake. Ahead of her is a hopeless future and behind her is her prison record and a husband whom she loathes. Jim, the husband, is still serving his time when Mary is released.

Desperate and destitute Mary is befriended by Harry, a taxi-driver. Their sordid little romance blossoms into a case of true love, with Mary becoming Harry's guiding star and leading him from a furnished room and the taxi-cab into a state of domestic bliss in the suburbs where he has become a big gas and oil man. Of course, all this is without benefit of clergy, Mary still being tied to that old meanie who married her and led her into her life of crime.

There is a blond menace in the person of Lillian Bond and the heavy husband is done by William Harrigan. There is a bit of shooting, a high-class lawyer who is childishly fond of diamonds and advises his client to "keep his shirt on," a courtroom scene and many sullen close-ups of the phlegmatic Miss Sidney.

Never does the play reach the emotional heights or human interest of "Bad Girl," nor does Miss Sidney give as sympathetic a performance as usual.

Admirers of George Raft (which seems to include the greater portion of the feminine public) will find the film of interest because he has a chance to display all the characteristics which have made him a featured player—a "dead-pan" expression, which never varies, and a peculiarly menacing personality which seems to make him irresistible to women.

A well-balanced group of short subjects includes a "Melody Makers" presentation, introducing Cliff Friend, responsible for many popular songs, ably assisted by the Pickin Sisters and several Paul Whiteman entertainers. Walt Disney presents "Silly Symphony" in Technicolor, and there are a Metrotone News and a Charlie Chase comedy for those who crave variety.

Police Press Search For Hit-Run Driver

Police last night pressed their search for the hit-and-run driver whose car struck and seriously injured Miss Catherine Newman, 19, of 910 F street northeast, near Florida avenue and O street northeast, Thursday night. The girl, unconscious, was removed to Casualty Hospital and was unable to shed much light on the identity of the car that struck her.

X-rays taken yesterday revealed that she did not have a fractured skull, as was believed at first, but she is suffering from concussion of the brain and severe lacerations and bruises.
